THE MISSING CUE.

BY MARK MEREDITH.

The play goes bravely on,
And all so smoothly fine:
The coments are "superb,"
"Immense," and "quite divine."
At length a contretemps,
And there is much ado,
Because, oh, hapless fate!
There is a missing cue.

Ah! well, how oft in life
The play goes bravely on,
And fortune smiles supreme,
All gloomy thoughts are gone:
Bright pleasure leads the way,
And vistas ope anew,
When, with a sudden flop,
Alas! a missing cue!

You see yon broker sad,
Bereft of all his joy;
Where now the raiment fine,
Where now the jolly boy?
No explanations smooth
To anxious friends are due,
For everybody knows
There was a missing cue!

The world is full of scenes
Where this, with force, applies;
Just look around and see
The sad, the mournful eyes!
A comedy at first,
Then sombre grows the hue;
How grand this world would be
Without the missing cue!

A MARRIAGE IN HASTE.

BY J. P. COUGHLAN.

IRVING leaned over the rail and gazed moodily into the green waters. The rhythmic wash of the waters against the vessel's sides blended in his ears with the memory of a swish of silken skirts from ten days before. The pulsating, monotonous throb of the ship's deck seemed to him the echo of his own heart beats. His mind was full of the scene—the brilliantly lighted ballroom, the smiling faces of the dancers, the delicious softness of the music, the gay banter and happy laughter that floated on the air all around him, the dim lit conservatory, where he met with the refusal that he had come from America to hear; and then the dainty swish of her skirts as she moved through the palm plants, leaving him to meditate on the folly of confidence in love, and the futility of sweetness and sympathy as a gilding for the bitterness of rejection.

Irving took the blow sadly to heart. It was his first experience of love, and his failure hurt him all the more keenly because of the confidence that had preceded it. In some vague way he felt himself to be a very hardly used man, being in that respect no different from the majority of men smarting under the rejection of their first proposal. And now, leaning over the rail of a homeward bound steamer, he was feeling suitably miserable, and lugubriously condoled with himself on his condemnation to everlasting bachelorhood. The prospect of loving another woman never entered his inexperienced mind.

The presence of a hand on his shoulder recalled Irving from his reverie. He turned around to accept a proffered cigar from Mr. Charles Carter Tyars, lawyer, of New York, who, happening to be a fellow traveler of Irving's, renewed with him an acquaintance begun at college many years before.

The two men talked for a while on shipboard topics. It takes two to make a conversation on the small talk of a ship at sea, and presently, owing to Irving's uncommunicativeness, the sentences became desultory. Tyars, naturally talkative, introduced a new subject:

"Curious case that of my client. Believe I mentioned it to you."

"Not that I remember. What client?"

"Why, of course! You cannot have seen her. She has been ill ever since we left Southampton, and has been confined to her stateroom."

"I didn't even know you had a client," replied Irving, lazily flicking his cigar ash into the water, "much less a client on shipboard. You did not tell me, and I could hardly be expected to guess that it had become the fashion for lawyers to carry their clients around with them."

"There is quite a romance connected with this case," pursued Tyars; "my client happens to be traveling on the same steamer because I found it necessary to make a trip to England to consult with her on certain important matters, and further developments made her return to America imperative."

"A profitable client, and, presumably, rich enough to afford big fees for you."

"Yes, she is very wealthy. Enjoys quite a large income—and thereby hangs the tale. It sounds like a three volume romance. Five years ago—she was then nineteen—her father died, leaving her sole heiress, subject to certain conditions. In his will he expressed a desire that she should marry a certain man in whom he was interested. He did not, however, wish to seem to force her to marry somebody against her inclinations, and accordingly he instructed that should she, within five years, meet with anybody she liked better than the person mentioned in the will she was to be free to marry according to her own inclinations. But if at the expiration of that time she had not made a choice of her own the father's nomination was to stand, and the man mentioned in the will was to be her husband, or otherwise she would forfeit her interest in the estate. The old man seemed to have the curious idea that if a woman had not made a choice at twenty-four it was eminently right that she should accept the choice that was made for her."

"Old duffer! And what has been the result?"

"Well, the young lady, with five years before her, treated the matter very lightly. She has been traveling most of the time with a chaperone, and is now going back to New York as heart whole as when she left it, but with no anxiety whatever to marry the estimable man of her father's choice, and neither does she relish the prospect of losing her fortune. The time is nearly up. The will appointed suitor is prepared to carry out his share in the affair, but my client flatly refuses to marry him, even at the cost of losing the bulk of her money."

"Is your client pretty?"

"Very."

"Why doesn't she fall in love with some one? She ought to find that easy enough."

Tyars did not reply. He tossed his half finished cigar over the side before speaking again.

"My client herself suggested a rather startling way out of the difficulty, but as a lawyer I can hardly approve of its practicability. She wishes me to find some reliable man, who, for a consideration, will marry her on a purely business basis, and leave her immediately the ceremony has been performed. Settlements would be made protecting her absolutely from him should he be at all inclined to prove vexatious. All she needs she would then have, the protection of a marriage certificate on her twenty-fourth birthday. Not such a bad scheme if the reliable man could be found."

"You don't think he could be found?"

"No! the man who would do it for money would be always dangerous."

"What you really want is some fairly decent man, a confirmed bachelor with chivalrous instincts, willing to go through a formal ceremony of marriage with a woman he never saw, and is never likely to see again, just because it costs him nothing—he being, as I said, a confirmed bachelor—to help a pretty woman out of a marriage into which a doddering old papa would drive her?"

"Exactly! with such a man the scheme would be really great. But you only find such men in books——"

"And on steamers. I'll volunteer. It will amuse me, and perhaps add an interest to life."

It took some minutes for Irving to convince the astonished Tyars that he was in earnest. When he had succeeded the lawyer grasped him by the hand and exclaimed:

"I'll take you at you rword, old man. I can see you are doing it as a freak, and out of pique with your own love affair, but perhaps you will not be sorry for it. I shall leave you now to explain matters to my client, and hear her opinion of the affair."

Tyars found his pretty client delighted at the prospect of outwitting the odious terms of her father's will by so simple an expedient, but she was much surprised to hear that her would be husband was too chivalrous to accept any money or other reward for his services. Tyars gave her an account of Irving's circumstances, to which she listened interestedly.

"And what kind of looking man is he?" she asked.

Tyars then launched into a description of Irving's good qualities that would have done credit to a smart auctioneer. He had, however, no other idea than of impressing his client with the valuableness of the service which he had rendered her.

The next day arrangements were completed for the marriage, which was to take place immediately the steamer arrived in New York, where it was due that evening. It was one of the stipulated conditions that Irving should make no attempt whatever, either before or after the ceremony, to discover the identity of the bride elect. This agreement, although it paid but a poor compliment to Irving's integrity, was designed to save much mutual embarrassment.

Immediately he was cleared of the customs officials Irving hailed a cab and drove to an uptown hotel. Shortly after he was followed by the lawyer and his client, and an older woman who had chaperoned the bride elect on her European tour. All four met in a private room. Irving bowed to the closely veiled lady, to whom he was presented by Tyars, but neither of them spoke directly to the other. The lawyer was the intermediary in whatever conversation took place, while they awaited the arrival of an alderman who had been summoned to perform the ceremony. The knot was tied with lightning dispatch. Irving could not distinguish the features of bride. The light was not strong, and during the minutes in which they were together she remained closely veiled. Neither could he gain any very clear impression of her voice. It was low and indistinct.

The alderman mumbled the final words. The young wife held out her hand. Irving bowed and raised it to his lips. A few broken, almost inaudible sentences of thanks, the heiress and the older woman who accompanied her left the room, and Irving found himself the husband of Miss Mary Morton, alone with Lawyer Tyars.

* * * * * * *

Irving's marriage had at least one good effect upon him. It caused him to forget the bitterness of the rejection that drove him into a marriage with an unknown woman, and, conscious of his impregnable bachelorhood, he plunged into society with a zest that he had once believed impossible. Balls, parties and receptions had a new interest for him. The security of his marriage protected him against the wiles of possible jilts, and at the same time he delighted in his bachelor independence. That is to say, he did for some five or six months—until, in fact, the evening he attended Mrs. Vanwesterden's reception. Returning to his chambers that night he asked himself for the first time was not his chivalrous marriage a criminal and inexcusable piece of folly.

Many times in the weeks that followed he repeated that question to himself, and ever with its repetition was coupled the vivid mental image of Beatrice Farrell, the friend and protege of Mrs. Vanwesterden. His meetings with her, though always accidental, became of remarkable frequency, and with each meeting increased the bitterness with which he put to himself the question relative to his marriage.

One day the quiet of Carter Tyars' law office was disturbed by the excited entrance of Irving.

"Tyars! you must get me a divorce," he began throwing himself into a chair facing the lawyer.

"A divorce! Good gracious, why?"

"Why!" A man may be a fool for two or three days, but he cannot remain a fool all his life. I have been a fool long enough, and now I want to relieve my dear wife of her husband. That is why I want you to get me a divorce. Reasonably simple, I should imagine."

"'Simple,' of course, but you know there must be some grounds. You cannot allege desertion since you separated by mutual agreement. Incompatibility of temper will hardly do since you have not quarreled even once. You can hardly have any other grounds. But why, may I ask, this sudden desire for freedom."

"Tyars, I wish you would not joke with me. I am absolutely serious. Here is the whole affair in a nutshell. I married Miss Morton in a fit of pique; you know the circumstances, but now I realize how absurd it was for me to do so. The truth is I am in love now, very much in love."

"Who is the recent object of your attentions?"

"I ought not to tell you, but I will, as I want you to help me. She is a Miss Beatrice Farrell, the most charming and—but that's enough. You must get Miss Morton to agree to find some way of annulling our marriage. It has served its purpose, I presume."

Tyars gave a low whistle of amused surprise:

"Yes, but suppose she does not wish to release you," he asked, smiling.

"Oh, absurd she must."

"Well, I will do the best I can. I shall see Miss Morton this evening, and will let you know what she says tomorrow."

"Thanks, old chap, put it to her strong, won't you?"

Irving left the lawyer's office apparently satisfied, but inwardly he was consumed with a burning impatience, and he was driven that very evening to take fate in his hands. He had discovered by the devious means with which a lover always finds out such things that Miss Farrell would be at Mrs. Vanwesterden's again that night, and accordingly, having an invitation, he also took care to be present. His opportunity was slow, but finally it came, and he had Miss Farrell alone in a distant corner of the huge conservatory. His feelings were too pent up to allow of any dallying. He poured forth the story of his marriage, neither adding to nor taking from the circumstances that led up to it, but particularly dwelt upon its awful consequences from the time of his first meeting with her—the time when he felt he knew what love really was. Miss Farrell remained silent as he talked. He offered his love, and pleaded passionately for hope, until a separation as formal as the marriage could be arranged with Miss Morton.

During his eager, impetuous pleading he held Beatrice's hand in his, his arm was around her waist, and in her eyes he read her answer to his prayer. Her eyes were smiling wickedly as he bent forward to kiss her.

"If Miss Morton should refuse?"

"Oh, impossible, she cannot."

"Well, we shall see. I think I can guess what Miss Morton will say," said Beatrice, as soon as the ecstacies of first told love were over, "I happen to know her very well, and I have reason for believing that she likes you very much, and will do what you ask of her."

"You know her, then?"

"Yes, you silly boy, I know her well. After her marriage with you she took her mother's name, and that was—well, guess."

"Surely not Beatrice Farrell—but it must be. How foolish I have been not to have recognized your voice and the pretty hand I kissed that day Who can say now that marriages are not made in heaven."

"Yes, and our second wedding will be in a church."

AN ODD TOWN IN MEXICO.

Mexico is becoming Americanized and modernized in a deplorable degree, but in the interior there are still towns and villages not touched by the hand of "improvement."

Tehuantepec is one of the oldest of Mexican cities, and is so far away from the beaten track of the tourist and trader that the olden customs and costumes remain nearly as they were two or three centuries ago.

The women wear a bodice of "camisa" of white linen, with insertion around the neck, and sleeves of the beautiful Mexican drawn work, which is bordered by embroidery of red and green. The skirt is generally bright green, closely plaited and with a deep border of brilliantly colored cloth or white drawn work. A broad red sash, "rebosa," is knotted around the waist and falls nearly to the edge of the skirt. The costume is completed by bright green slippers. Stockings are unknown.

The head dress is remarkable. It is called "huipil," and is made of a broad, stiffly starched lace flounce, very full, on a narrow yoke. The flounce extends around the neck, as well as the lower edge of the yoke, and is drawn over the head and around the shoulders, framing the face in a quaintly demure fashion.

The women are fond of jewelry, and especially of long necklaces made of gold coins. They have control of the greater part of the business. They throng the market place every day, some with native chocolate, some with flowers and vegetables, and some with ornaments and native cloths. They excel in the Mexican drawn work, and dealers come from all the large cities to buy them.

Many of the women are handsome in a vivid, tropical way. They are tall and straight, with superb physical development, flashing brown eyes, olive skin and red lips.

NOTES, L. HOPPER—Condensed.

(a) Gets an inferior position in this variation. If 9..Kt to K 2, he would probably be subjected to an attack without eventually improving his position.

(b) Kt to Kt 5 being no use now, because of 13.. B to Kt sq, he gives the B an attacking range.

(c) Has no alternative, even if he were not an attacking player.

(d) The better move, which would probably have won, was to advance Q P.

(e) M. J. manœuvres the Q very cleverly, having the difficult task of placing her in a useful position while avoiding exchanging.

(f) Here Janowski misses a chance. 43..B to B 7, R to Q 2, or 7 (if); 44..Q to K 4: and if R to K sq; then 44..B to Kt 3, having gained an important move. (g) We give the position:

at K Kt, Q B3, K Kt 3. Q R 2, Kt 3, K 3, K B 2, Kt 5, R 6.

at K B, her 4, Q sq, Q R 3, K R 2, Kt 3, K R 2.

Move made—46..Q to K 4 +, K home, etc. A difficult ending now ensues; but any but the best move after White's 44.. would have been fatal.

Chess and the Pope.

The Times Democrat has collated quite a number of items on this subject, from which we condense the following:

"In his days of illness Leo XIII finds his chief amusement in chess, his regular partner being Fr Giulio, a Dominican monk of sunny temperament, who holds the position of master of games in the Vatican. Pope and monk have been playing together for over twenty-one years, and yet it is undecided which of the two is superior. In one respect Leo certainly is, for he never loses his temper together with the game.

"When Leo, shortly after his enthronezation, introduced the royal game as a regular pastime in the Vatican, some ascetic cardinals raised an outcry, invoking the decision of the council of Treves, which forbade priests to play chess. The Pope listened to these fanatics with a superior smile on his lips.

"'I know all you want to say,' he remarked, 'and I tell you that Bishop Petrus, who first thundered against chess, and the Treves council, were both mistaken. The latter's decision soon fell into disuse, and my namesake, Leo X, openly avowed that there was no harm in chess playing. Even the fact that Martin Luther, his adversary, was a passionate chess player, made no difference. In fact, both the Pope and Luther thundered against games of chance while practicing chess.'

"Pope Leo has in his private library a valuable collection of books on chess written by renowned ecclesiastics. Among them is a prayer book by Jacobus de Cassolis, published in the year 1300."

OUR LONDON LETTER.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

LONDON, Eng., July 29.

To his very great regret, close upon six weeks have elapsed since your correspondent has been able to report upon London's amusement world, absence from town through illness having been the cause of the extended breach in his letters to THE OLD RELIABLE. But, as some statesman remarked when the discussion of the United States Government returning to specie payments was waxing warm, "The best way to resume is to resume" In resuming it would be too ponderous a task to review what has occurred in the interval, and so instead of attempting to take up the thread were it was broken he starts with a new ball of yarn."

Tonight marks the end of the season, and next week will be the first of the midsummer solstice, which is the calm before the storm of new theatrical ventures bursts upon the amusement seeking world. An unusually hot week has hurried the final performances forward at several houses, and the "regular" closings tonight are those of "Robespierre," at the Lyceum; "The Only Way," at the Prince of Wales', and "Why Smith Left Home," at the Strand. The latter very successful American farce will retire with a record of one hundred and ten performances, and I see that the management advertises that "A houseful of Smiths will say farewell to Smith."

The hot wave—not a marker to the New York "general humidity" brand—has been responsible for knocking out F. C. Burnand's farce—adapted—"The Lady of Ostend," with Weedon Grossmith as its star, at Terry's, and "A Runaway Girl," at the Gaiety, but both are merely temporary knockouts, such as the knights of the mittens experience, for both are to be revived on the same stages when the mercury has come down off its perch. At Daly's "A Gaiety Girl" has been knocked not "into the middle of next week," out out of the middle of next week, for it will be retired after Wednesday, and when the theatre reopens it will be with the new light musical entertainment, "San Toy, or the Emperor's Own," the book of which is by Edward Morton, and the music by Sidney Jones and Lionel Monckton, Mr. Jones having composed the major portion. It will be produced during the last week in September, and be as Chinese as the author and scene painter and costumer can make it. The first act will be laid in a seaport, and the second in "the Hall of the Dragons," in the Emperor's palace at Pekin. Marie Tempest will be San Toy, and the hero is to be a young Englishman, a part for which Hayden Coffin has been cast. Gladys Homfrey, May Buckley, Ada Reeve, Hilda Moody, Rutland Barrington, Huntley Wright, Fred Kaye, Willie Ward and Scott Russell will also be in the co., and one or two minor parts remain to be allotted.

It will be well, however, before unfolding any more of the future, to note what the present has to offer, and it is hardly necessary to say that the now middle aged "Belle of New York"—who is comfortably past her five hundredth performance—is still going strong and as chipper and chirpy as when she was a girl. Age cannot wither nor custom stale her popular variety (show), and now that De Wolf Hopper has pitched his tent only a few yards away, in Shaftesbury Avenue, backed by an equally sprightly company and an equally ravishingly beautiful array of chorus maidens, "The Belle" and her attendant belles are fairly making things hum. But Hopper and "El Capitan" have secured a rousing success, greatly to the delight of his friends, and I am very glad to say that there is plenty of patronage for the friendly rivals. Of course the ladies of the Hopper organization are somewhat handicapped in the way of having arrived after all the available unmarried noblemen in the peerage of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland have been betrothed—by the London correspondents of certain New York newspapers—to the feminine stars and starlets of "The Belle of New York" Co., but the peers picked out for matrimonial alliances with the belles are a gay and fickle lot, and who can say but that they will jilt their old lovers and turn to jollying the new.

"The Gay Lord Quex," apropos of frisky noblemen, is also holding his own in fine fashion at the Globe, despite the heat, and will stop in town all Summer, but Mr. Hare has very considerately dropped his Saturday performances out of the August arrangements, and his company will thus be enabled to enjoy a series of Friday to Monday holidays out of London.

The other West End theatres still open are the Garrick, where Conan Doyle's "Halves" is the attraction; the Avenue, with "Pot Pourri;" the Savoy, with "Pinafore;" the Criterion, with "The Wild Rabbit," and the Court, with "Wheels Within Wheels," and business is ranging from "only so-so" to not quite that. In the suburbs there is a fair amount of theatrical activity, and the music halls, both in the centre of town and those that cater to their immediate districts, are doing fairly well. Weather such as now prevails hurts them badly, however, and it is such amusement enterprises as the Earl's Court exhibition and the Crystal Palace that score when fresh air is an extra attraction with one's entertainment. At Earl's Court the season has been a very good one, and the special attraction of the year, Frank Fellis' "Savage South Africa" Show, has deservedly proven a really splendid success. The arena of the Empress Theatre, in which it is given, affords superb facilities for such a realistic picture of native life in South Africa, and the wonderfully well managed and effective portrayal of the incident of Major Wilson's command being wiped out during the Matabele war is probably the most exciting battle ever shown. One gets a better idea of the dangers of modern warfare when the Maxim guns in the show get down to work than could be gained from reading the letters of all the war correspondents bunched together.

In the music hall world matters are now rather quiet so far as London's programmes are concerned, but all the managers are putting the finishing touches to their August bank holiday bills, and that midsummer day of delight for the masses will this year fall on Aug. 7, as it is always the first Monday in the month. In the variety professions the date means the beginning of the Autumn and Winter season, and a vast number of engagements are arranged to begin on that date. I will send you the full London and provincial list in next week's letter.

CRITERION THEATRE.—Following on the heels of Mr. Wyndham's departure from the stage he has occupied for 23 years, a farcical show called "The Wild Rabbit," by Henry A. Lytton and Stanley Cooke, was produced July 25. Mr. Cooke has the record of having played the leading role in "Charley's Aunt" one thousand four hundred and sixty times, in traveling companies. It is of the boisterous type of farce is "The Wild Rabbit," and the plot has to do with two young men, a commoner and the missing son of an Earl, whose identities become badly tangled, together with the aid of a bottle or two of hair dye. There is much rushing on and off, considerable real fun, some amusing dialogue, and some that is very apt to "spoil" in such weather as this, being already slightly "off." The company worked hard, and may have a measure of midsummer success.

NOTES.—Charles Wyndham's last performance at the Criterion, 21, netted £1,485 for the Prince of Wales' Hospital Fund. The Prince was present, as were his daughter, the princess Victoria of Wales; his daughter in law, the Duchess of York, and his brother in law, Prince Christian. After the performance Mr. Wyndham entertained his company and the entire staff of the theatre, and was presented with a beautifully designed solid gold pass key to his new theatre. He gave everybody who was in the cast of the play—"Rosemary"—a gold pencil case, with the recipient's name and "Rosemary, July 21, 1899." Later still the same night the Prince of Wales had a supper at Marlborough House, and Mr. Wyndham and Sir Henry Irving were among the guests..... Beerbohm Tree's half brother, Max Beerbohm, who is about the most up to date of the studied specimens of the natural—or unnatural—outcome of the "greenery-yallery" type of poseurs in artistic Bohemia, is engaged to be married to Grace Conover, daughter of Mrs. Conover, an actress, who at one time managed the Olympic Theatre and had a try at Lady Macbeth.....Seymour Hicks has "novelized" the play, "One of the Best."....Sir Squire and Lady Bancroft have gone to Switzerland. The Alps are expected to be quite impressed with Sir Squire.....Bram Stoker has had a severe chill, which he caught while on a wheeling tour, and he has been confined to his bed for over a week.....C. B. Fernald's Japanese play for Forbes Robertson and Mrs. Patrick Campbell, is to be called "A Moonlight Blossom."....Louie Freear's lawsuit against Geo. Lederer over the breaking off of her New York engagement is looked at with considerable interest by the profession here.....Today is said to be the thirty fourth anniversary of the first appearance of Mrs. Kendal on the stage. In Autumn her "life and adventures" in stageland will be published in book form, the author being, not Madge herself, but a dramatic critic, T. Edgar Pemberton, who did the same for E. A. Sothern. The book is sure of a fine sale among the matinee girls on your side when Madge and Willie turn up there next season.....Carl and Theodore Rosenfeld's Midgets create a decided sensation on the Strand "rialto" when they appear there, but the little chaps are so used to it that their coolness is refreshing.....The first performance out of London of "The Gay Lord Quex" will be by Morell and Mouillot's company, at their own theatre, at Bournemouth, 31.. .Patti is now billed and programmed as Baroness Rolf Cederstrom. She sang for charity in the Welsh town of Swansea, not far from her castle, the other day, and netted £600, which makes over £5,000 she has contributed in that way to the local charities.....The naval melodrama to be produced in August at the Adelphi is to have the breezy title of "With Flying Colors."....Beerbohm Tree begins rehearsals of "King John" Aug. 14, and intends to produce it Sept. 20. It is to be "as grand as money, enterprise and intelligence can possibly make it" Shakespeare's share in the glory of the forthcoming revival is, I presume, taken for granted.....Joseph Hurst, for twenty-nine years connected with the box office of the Lyceum theatre, is now Edward Terry's London representative during his absence on his provincial tour.....F. C. Burnand, the editor of Punch, in an article on the late George Du Maurier, says the author of "Trilby" told him he would have sold the dramatic rights in the novel for £50 when the work was first published. .....John Higgins, the jumper, has fully recovered his powers and is making success after success on the Continent.....The Music Hall Artists' Railway Association is now close to the thirty-eight hundred mark in membership.....Lizzie Raymond, the American serio, over here from the States, pays London her first professional visit in seven years. ..... Not long ago there appeared a paragraph in a Sunday paper to the effect that Bessie Bellwood's grave in Leyton Cemetery was in a deplorable condition from neglect, there being merely a mound of earth, which was not even turfed. Then in "The Pink 'Un" there appeared these verses:

A little while—and all forgot,
The saucy smile, the daring jest!
The merry madcap flits a plot
Of hallowed ground—her home of rest.
Above, the birds and breezes sing,
Around, the weeds and grasses wave—
But is there no kind hand to bring
A flower for Bessie's grave?
So soon forgot! But yesterday
She filled the halls with buoyant mirth;
Today she lies unnoted clay,
With nought to mark her span of earth;
And yet, how oft her open hand
Was stretched some needy mate to save—
Then, bring, ye of the buskined band,
A stone for Bessie's grave!

I am glad to say that a number of her friends have contributed and that the grave will be provided with a neat tablet and put in proper condition.....The Harvard and Yale athletes now visiting England have been the guests of the Lyceum, the Lyric—De Wolf Hopper Co.—the Savoy, the Prince of Wales', the Palace and one or two other places of amusement.....A philanthropic person has presented each of the Crystal Palace ballet girls with a hymn book.....Harry Rickards, the Australian manager, is being fairly inundated by the hospitalities extended to him.....There seems to be a good deal more smoke than fire in the report of Nellie Farren's return to the stage.....The new play Sydney Grundy has written for Mrs. Langtry, and which she will use for her reappearance on the stage at the Haymarket Theatre, in September, is called "The Degenerates." Mrs. Langtry's very bad luck on the turf of late seems to have changed, for at Goodwood this week her horse, Merman, won the Goodwood Plate and the Goodwood Cup. The prizes totaled £1,200 and she won £5,700 more in bets on the two races.....the "Summer number" of The Music Hall was a very handsome issue this year, and a goodly share of its illustrated articles and "ads." were devoted to American artists.....Charles Morton, "the Grand Old Man of the Music Halls," will reach his eightieth birthday Aug. 15. He is to have an extra grand testimonial benefit, but it will not take place until the season is in full swing, and the time and place as at present arranged are Sept. 21, at the Palace, the great hall he manages with such success.....A curious benefit is to be given at the Empire 31. It is for the Home for French and English Governesses in London, and the entertainment will be in the main supplied by the mayor of the French town of Tourcoing, who is going to come over with his municipal band of eighty musicians and attended by three hundred of his fellow citizens. The annual report of the Tivoli shows profits of nearly £17,000 and a dividend of 14 per cent. H. H. He will appear in his own sketch, "The Lads in Red."....The editor of The Encore writes: "I could not help being struck with some very original remarks made by an American to me at a popular West End hall, amid the perspiring heat on Monday night. I will try to reproduce them. 'Yes, you people this side know a bit about variety business, but we can teach you some. You dawdle out your acts, except at one or two houses, and you've too much giggling and ballet dancing, and not enough ballads. Why, I've sat out three shows and never heard one good old Mother Country song yet'".....The hot weather caused Ellen Terry to let Maud Milton, her understudy, play her part in "Robespierre" for several nights last week.....Alma D'Alma, the American prima donna, is said to have had a narrow escape from death by venturing into a sacred mosque in Morocco in disguise. She was discovered, and the police just saved her life. She got ten days in jail before the American consul secured her release. .....After the run of "The Ghetto," Israel Zangwill's Jewish play, to be produced here at the Comedy, Sept. 7, Mrs. Brown Potter and Kyrle Bellew will go into theatrical partnership again in the West End and produce a series of romantic plays, including David Belasco's new version of "The Duke's Motto," "The Queen's Necklace," "Ruy Blas," "Bel Domino" and "Charlotte Corday."..... Spessardy turned to request that they make no noise, when the tiger sprang at his wife, who was holding a flag. She dashed it in the animal's face and managed to dodge, and her husband, after a severe battle with both the now enraged animals, got them sufficiently cowed to permit of his escape after his wife had done so. MAINE.

Portland.- During July and August there is always something doing in the amusement line in this vicinity, the people finding it hard to decide which direction to take for their evening's enjoyment.

GEM THEATRE (Peak's Island).—At this house last week "The Jilt" was presented by the stock in a manner most pleasing to the large audiences attending during the week. Week of Aug. 21, "The Private Secretary."

MCCULLUM'S THEATRE (Cape Cottage Park).—"The Stock Broker," a comedy drama of much interest, as interpreted by the stock at this theatre last week, 14-19, attracted good business throughout the week and gave the best of satisfaction. Week of 21, "Michael Strogoff."

RIVERTON PARK.—J. W. Gorman's Imperials was the offering at this park 14-19. The company included Udell and Pearce, the La Noles, the Patteus, and Ried's acrobatic dogs. The Fadette's Ladies' Orchestra contributed enjoyable daily concerts. Attendance averaged good.

UNDERWOOD SPRINGS PARK.—The electrical fountain, band concerts and the natural attractions of this fine park continue to draw the people in encouraging numbers.

NOTES.—Manager Fay, of the Jefferson Theatre, announces that his house will be conducted the coming season as a stock theatre, the Shubert Stock Co., from the Star Theatre, Buffalo, N. Y., having been secured..... It is announced that a testimonial concert will be tendered Bartley McCullum by his friends and many leading citizens of this city, who appreciate his earnest efforts in bringing Portland to the front in the Summer amusement line.

FLORIDA.

Jacksonville.—The Park Opera House will begin its season Aug. 25, with "Have You Seen Smith?" for the attraction.

THE CRYSTAL ROOF GARDEN has again opened and is doing a big business, Wiley William's Burlesque being the chief attraction.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia.—There was little room for complaint as to the business at the theatres last week. Considering the time of year the patronage kept up very well. Announcements of further openings are rapidly making their appearance, and it seems likely that all of the local houses, with the exception of the Arch, will be open before the first half of next month has passed. One house opened its season last Saturday night successfully; the other, which was announced to open on the same night, failed to do so, the opening being postponed until Monday, Aug. 28.

PARK THEATRE.—Another good mirth exciter for the warm weather is brought in this week by Manager Worrell, it being Murray and Mack, in "Finnigan's 400." The arrival of a warm spell the latter part of last week had some effect on the patronage at all of the open houses, and there was some dropping off in attendance of "In Greater New York" at this house from the same cause. But on the whole it can be said that business held up very well for the middle of August, and A. G. Delameter, the promoter of the enterprise, should feel very well satisfied with its reception here. Next week, Cole and Johnson, in "A Trip to Coontown."

NATIONAL THEATRE.—This house began its season last Saturday night, with "A Grip of Steel." Entirely new interior decorations and a new tiled floor in the foyer nave made the house much handsomer than before. There was but little spare room on the opening night, the patrons turning out in large numbers, and the melodrama, which has been seen at this house before, was received with enthusiasm. In the cast are: James Gordon (who made his first appearance in this country), John E. Hynes, H. W. Humphreys, Frank M. Allen, Arthur Ellrey, A. G. Kranz, W. S. Evans, Lawrence Merion, Will J. Irvin, J. J. Kearney, E. C. Mason, J. J. Lucey, Florence St. Leonard, Dorothy Irvin, Lois Jaynes, Florence Eldrige, Nan Brown, Hattie Hudson and Etta Albert. The executive staff for the company is: W. J. Fielding, manager; E. Ankermiller, business manager; Will J. Irvin, stage director. The house force consists of Joseph M. Kelly, manager; Howard I. Kelly, business manager; John F. Garsed, treasurer; J. I. Monroe, assistant treasurer; John A. Lawrence, advertising agent, and Alex. Ritter, musical director. "A Grip of Steel" is the bill for this week, and is followed next week by Washburn's Southern Minstrels. Sept. 4, Howard Hall, in "A Soldier of the Empire."

FOREPAUGH'S THEATRE.—"Fanchon" is the piece which enlists the services of the stock company this week. Carrie Radcliffe assumes the title role, and she receives capable support from John J. Farrell and the other members of the company. The excellent production of "Cumberland '61" continued to win favor all last week, and there was a continuation of the very large patronage. "The Idler" is in rehearsal for next week and will be given a big production.

KEITH'S.—The long and attractive bill this week is headed by the Rossow Midgets, who will be seen in their athletics and comedy; John C. Rice and Sally Cohen, in "The Kleptomaniac," and the Great Lafayette, in his imitations and impersonations. Following come Charlie Rossow, Stinson and Merton, Three Polos, Seymour and Dupree, Thomas Clifford, Campbell and Caulfield, Foepperwein, Merrill and Valmore, Edwin T. Emery and company, in "An Unexpected Visit;" Gordon Eldred, Fitzgibbon Trio, the biograph and the stereopticon. There is no complaint on the score of patronage, for it continues at the usual high point.

AUDITORIUM.—Another of Chas. H. Yale's popular spectacles is the offering this week at this house. "The Devil's Auction," newly arranged and refurbished, has never lacked appreciation by the patrons of this house, and they are sure to turn out in force this week to see the performances of the spectacle. The cast includes: Jas. A. Kiernan, Victoria Walters, Sadie Stephens, Madge Torrance, Kittie Nice, W. H. Lorella, Eddie Snow and Lela Hutton. Specialties are contributed by the Brothers Deltorella, Les Freres Lorella, and Signorinas Maverhoffer and Basseggio are the premieres of the ballet. "The Evil Eye" held its own well through the heat, and there was no dropping off in the patronage discernable. Next week, "The Queen of Chinatown," for the first time here.

TROCADERO.—Manager Lauman has secured the Robin Hood Jr. Burlesquers to provide the entertainment this week, and there seems no reason to doubt that his selection will meet with the approval of the patrons. The burlettas are entitled "The Widow Gay" and "The King of the Hobo Isle," and in the olio are included Helen Russell, Winnie Richards, Franks and Don, Wilson and Lorane, and Constance Windon and Ruth Everett. Miaco's City Club had an excellent week; the patrons continued to attend in crowds every night, and were delighted with the performances. Next week, a new burlesque company, styled the Indian Maidens.

WILLOW GROVE PARK.—The season at this park is rapidly drawing to an end, as it is announced to close Sept. 4. There is a large attendance every day, and the concerts by Walter Damrosch and his orchestra are listened to by large numbers. On Wednesday and Friday evenings David Mannes, a New York violinist, will be heard in special selections.

WOODSIDE PARK.—The engagement of Fritz Scheel and the New York Orchestra terminates with this week, and, judging by the favor which has been shown by the patrons, they will regret to have them depart. On Sunday next T. P. Brooke and the Chicago Marine Band begin a limited engagement. Mlle. De Aco remains this week, and Lowdowski and Fredericky will be seen twice daily in balloon ascensions. The vaudeville on the Casino Roof Garden is still meeting with liberal support, and last week the patrons enjoyed the following programme: Bertie De Aco, Harry W. James, Wood and Ray, in "Wanted—A Female Barber;" Ada Boulden, the Vanes, Ryan and Cushman, and the farce, 'The Irish Quarter Session." On Tuesday and Thursday evenings prize cake walks took place, which created lots of amusement.

WASHINGTON PARK.—The same features continue to attract the crowds to this resort and the concerts by the Liberati Band are never neglected.

LINCOLN PARK.—At this park the Beecher Family of singers, dancers, acrobats and comedians provide entertainment for the crowds in addition to the popular music furnished by Henry Klotz and his band, the biograph and the other features.

CHESTNUT HILL PARK.—The Saint-Elmos, mid-air performers, constitute the open air attraction for the current week. A fireworks display is announced to be given every evening, and the concerts by the Kalitz Band lend a large share to the amusement. Good sized crowds patronize the Wargraph Building, the programme last week including Harry and Ada Richards, Margaret Boyce, and Smith and Jones. Leigh McDowell has resumed his position as business manager.

NOTES.—The Lyceum Theatre did not open last Saturday, as expected, but is now announced to open Monday, 28, with Semon's Extravaganza Co. The People's Theatre is to open Sept. 2, with "Hearts of Oak."..... Vaudeville and Minstrel

A. JERMYN writes from London, Eng., thus: "Of the recent openings at the Alhambra Theatre the American acts have been the most successful. Besides the two ballets the programme is comprised of eight specialties. Of these Fish and Quigg are extremely popular, and their efforts are rewarded with storms of applause and curtain calls. The writer is informed they are now about completing arrangements for a very extended tour. Albertus and Bartram are also among the favored ones, and their easy style and grace, combined with their difficult manœuvres, are appreciated to the fullest extent. Powers Bros., in their well known performance, are meeting with deserved success, as are also Turner's Pickaninnies and Pauline Moran, her coon songs being the feature of the act. Besides those mentioned there are a great number of 'Yankee shows,' as they are called here, some doing well, while the others are doing as well as they can. ST. LOUIS, MO, sent out this press dispatch Aug. 19: "The probable loss of the Exposition Building, representing an outlay of over $1,000,000 to the people of St. Louis, is threatened by today's action of the board of directors. The building is located on land given to the city by the late James Lucas for park purposes, the gift bearing a forfeiture clause if the land is ever diverted from the purpose for which it was intended. Recently Col. John D. Hopkins made a proposition to the exposition managers to lease the Music Hall for five years for the purpose of presenting vaudeville at popular prices. The Association of Theatrical Managers formally protested to the Mayor against such a lease on the ground that the building was erected on public property, for the people and not for private gain, nor yet to compete with any established business, stating that to do so would vitiate all title to the property. Today the board of directors of the exposition authorized the managers to lease the hall to Col. Hopkins, or any other reputable theatrical managers, and failing to enter into a satisfactory contract with such, directing them to embark in the show business, thus competing with every theatre in the city. If an attempt is made to carry out this order the courts will be appealed to, and an effort made to have a decree of forfeiture issued."

NOTES FROM THE AL. G. FIELD GREATER MINSTRELS.—The Al. G. Field Greater Minstrels inaugurated their fifteenth season at the Great Southern Theatre, Columbus, O., Wednesday evening, Aug. 16, and despite the fact that three other minstrel companies were billed to appear at other theatres during the week, the cozy play house was filled from the stage to the doors up and down stairs. The night was very warm, and the magnificent reception tendered Mr. Field and his company was a high tribute to their popularity, and the splendid performance that always follows the announcement of the appearance of Al. G. Field's show at any time. The audience was a representative one, the boxes being filled with parties composed of the Mayor and prominent city officials and leading business men of the city. The magnificent assembly demonstrated the drawing power of the Field show, and meant that the people of Columbus were ready to recognize true merit and enterprise. The performance is a new one from the opening chorus of the first part down through the array of all the good things in the minstrel line to the finish of the latest absurdity, "A Mysterious Hotel," which aroused screams of laughter and sent everybody home in a jovial frame of mind. The first part, entitled "A Night in the Park," reveals that which is possibly the most gorgeous stage setting ever constructed. It is a magnificent representation of a beautiful park, with winding avenues and delightful arbors in the distance, festooned with bowers of roses and the whole scene brilliantly studded with electric lights. As the curtain ascended the military band of twenty-four pieces could be seen marching through the avenue playing a spirited quick step, while from the arbors on either side came trooping, dressed in their dashing costumes, the large contingent of vocalists. Just as they reached their places the fetching melody of a swell cake walk could be heard, and from the back of the stage came the end men escorted by six beautiful little tots dressed as pages, and as they pranced in time to the coon melody the picture was indeed a pretty one and the audience went wild with delight. As Dan Quinlan, the popular interlocutor, made his appearance at the end of the overture, attired in a most novel and resplendent costume he was given an ovation. The comedians are headed by Al. G. Field, and consist of Harry, Shunk, Tommy Donnelly, Jake Welby, Geo. Kingsbury, Doc Quigley, Tom Hyde, Bob Keys, and Less Fairman. The fun runs fast and furious and the songs and jokes were received with uproarious applause. The funny men have a fine budget of new witticisms, nothing old or stale being used, and the laughter that rippled through the house until it grew into a roar was a high tribute to the originality of the corps of numorists that have been collected by Mr. Field. The genial Al. contributed much to the fun in the first part, and his appearance was greeted by the most enthusiastic applause. His stories were funny and in excellent taste, and popped with the effervescence of champagne, and kept the audience in a constant state of merriment. Harry Shunk, Tommie Donnelly, Hyde and Fairman and Doc Quigley all scored heavily. The vocal choir consists of John W. Norton, Rees Prosser, Harry Sheldon, Geo. Hassell, Paul La Londe, Geo. Marshall, C. C. Pearl, Tom Crockett and E. F. Snell. The selections, "One Little Word," by Rees Prosser; "Deep, Down Deep," by John Norton, and "My Georgia Rose," by Harry Sheldon, were splendidly rendered and received by the audience with marked manifestations of approval. At the close of the first part Geo. Hassell was given an opportunity of displaying his soprano voice in a delightful little operetta, "Love is King of All." It was a novel and a pleasing surprise, as nothing quite like it has ever before been attempted in minstrelsy. The olio proved to be the strongest of all the strong olios that have been seen with the Field Minstrels, and includes Everhardt, German jongleur and original hoop roller, whose new performance is really marvelous and possesses the decided stamp of originality, as there is no other act on the stage like it; he created a sensation. Harry Shunk, the popular comedian, acquitted himself proudly with a monologue of which the audience could hardly get a sufficiency; Welby, Pearl, Keys and Master Carroll presented a dancing divertissment of unusual splendor, Master Carroll's part of the dancing being nothing short of phenomenal. Kingsbury and Greve, musical comedians, were happy in giving something really new in this line. The acrobatic marvels, the famous Faust Family, consisting of nine people, whose performance is beyond criticism, were pronounced the finest act ever seen in Columbus, the whole performance being brought to a close with "The Mysterious Hotel," in which the Nondescript Trio presented their wonderful exhibition of Caledonian pastimes. The show as a whole is the best ever gotten together by Mr. Field. Mr. Field and his able lieutenant, Manager Dan Quinlan, received numerous congratulations from friends upon the surpassing excellence of the performance. Since the opening the show has been playing to a succession of houses all sold out, and, as the public always appreciates genuine merit, the tour is sure to be a series of ovations. There is not a single objectionable feature, and it contains everything worth having in the minstrel line. The destiny of this representative attraction will be taken care of by the following staff: Dan Quinlan, manager; Joe Reider, treasurer; James T. Doyle, general agent; Joe Hatfield, contracting agent; Ed Conard, press agent; John W. Norton, vocal director; Fritz Ortman, musical conductor; Burt Cutler, bandmaster; Fred Gray, stage manager; Ed Davis, electrician, and Eddie Doyle, master of properties.

WILL H. FOX writes from Europe as follows: "The first Monday in August is known as August Bank Holiday throughout Great Britain, and on that date the various music halls put on their strongest bills, and the following American turns can find no fault at the manner they opened last Monday night, as bills were numerous. At the Palace, Wilson and Waring, Madame Chester, T. Nelson Downs, Fred Brown, Julia Ring, and Harrigan scored big. At the Alhambra, Albertus and Bartram, Powers Bros., Pauline Moran and Fish and Quigg made individual hits. At the Tivoli Lizzie B. Raymond, Manning and Prevost, and the Gotham Quartet were in great demand. Heeley and Marbra, at the Pavilion; Eden Redway, at the Oxford; Colby and Way, at the Canterbury; Major Doyle, at Croydon; Griffin and Dubois, at the Royal; Burke and Scott, at Bow, all made good. The following are big hits on tour: Lydia Yeamans, Smith and Fuller, Marion and Vedder, Burns and Evans, Billy Tucker, the American bag puncher; the Crawford Bros. and the American Bicycle Polo Team. Jules Garrison, of the Garrisons, having fallen heir to an estate in Connecticut, has put over five weeks work here and sails for New York on Aug. 24, returning in time to fulfill two years' solid engagements. Manager Robert Fulgora has not let the grass grow under his feet and will certainly have several novelties for his various companies in 1900 and 1901, and Paddy whiski—ah, well—you will hear about him in my next ad in. your valuable journal."

NOTES FROM THE HERALD SQUARE VAUDEVILLE CO.—We are now in our third week, playing the New England circuit of parks, under the direction of Stoessel, Boom & Duchemin. The roster: W. W. Carroll, manager; the Murphys, Nick and Blanch, in a comedy sketch; the Grahams, Frank and Grace, in their one act playlet, "A Soldier's Sweetheart;" Al Lang, German comedian; the Carrolls, impersonators of the Southern darkey, and Frank Graham, illustrated songs. On our stay at Meriden, Ct., the crowds were so great that we were compelled to put chairs in the aisles and stop selling admission tickets. On Wednesday Manager Palmer treated the entire company to a sail in his handsome steam yacht and presented the ladies with little white rabbits. After the night's performance we had a banquet. The company is booked solid through September and is pronounced by all to be the best drawing card of its kind. Manager Carroll is doing his utmost in making it pleasant for the people, and we on the season is over we will all part with the greatest of regrets.

MISSOURI.

St. Louis.—The attractions at the various resorts last week were among the best of the season and were well patronized by the public.

SUBURBAN.—The minstrels took on a new lease of life with the return of George Wilson. Hughey Dougherty was better than ever and received many recalls for his good work, nor should Fred Warren be forgotten, who has been one of the leading attractions all the Summer. The vaudeville was especially good. The five Cornallas did some of the best acrobatic work ever seen here, while George Wilson caused continued laughter by his bright monologue. Howe, Wall and Walters, musical eccentriques, did not let the fun rest for a moment and held their own with anybody seen here this Summer.

UHRIG'S CAVE.—Another old favorite was on the boards last week in "Martha" and drew large audiences. Miss Berri gave a charming account of herself as Martha and Miss Lodge was a capital Nancy. Too much praise cannot be bestowed on Musical Director Spencer for the skillful way in which he has trained the company.

HIGHLANDS.—Papiqta still was the strongest attraction at the Highlands, but there were other good acts as well. The Two Rozinis were acrobats who performed on a billiard table. Giguer and Boyer presented a clever sketch. Cook and Clinton, two women sharpshooters: Edna Collins, who whistles well, and Irene Franklin were others on the bill.

OLYMPIA PARK.—An abridged form of "Romeo and Juliet" was presented by the Hanley Company to good audiences at this South Side resort. Mr. Hanley and Miss Reed, in the title roles, won much praise for their work. The costuming and stage settings were well in keeping with the play. Miss Bloss and Walter McNicholls made their sensational ride down the chutes.

ERNEST'S PAVILION.—The shows given here still continue to be among the best in the city. Last week there were seen here Zeno, Karl and Zeno, in their high class aerial work. F. Ward Marion made a big hit in his specialty and Seid and Lozelle did a clever comedy sketch. La Petite Esmeralda showed herself to be a clever child dancer. Geo. Austin, on the high wire, and Baker and Burrell, in musical selections, were still others who were seen.

KOERNER'S GARDEN.—The features of the bill were the Garnellas, in their eccentric comedy act. J. C. Stewart did some excellent work in a comedy, supported by Butler Stewart, Henry Larose, William Harrett, Jane Clement and Margaret Lester. Josephine Newman gave a pleasing imitation of Anna Held. Tony and Flo Vernon gave an amusing specialty, and Leslie Helvers and the Leonard Sisters did some good dancing and singing.

NEWS.—It is rumored that Gertrude Codge and Manager McNeary, of Uhrig's Cave, were quietly married a few days ago. They admit that they are engaged but deny the marriage....Next Saturday a benefit will be tendered Lilian Berri at the Cave, which is a fitting recognition of the fact that it is she who has drawn the large audiences that have been seen at the cave this season.....Suburban will offer a complete change this week, giving up the minstrels and having a splendid bill of vaudeville.

Kansas City.—At Fairmount Park good attendance was the rule all of last week. Billy Rice, Dan Allman and Chas. Kent were still the favorites. Two newcomers were Cartright and Van Austin, who made hits in the olio. This week will be the finish, and a return to vaudeville has been decided on. The bill will be headed by Beatrice Moreland and Houdini, and the others are: Gardner and Hunt, Ganow and Pollack, the Mullay Sisters and Robinson. This will close the season at the Park. The regular season opens at the Orpheum on Sept. 3.

CLIPPERINGS.—Manager Judah is home from New York and reports an excellent list of attractions for the patrons of the Grand. The season will open Sept. 3, with "A Milk White Flag," in which Mabel Hite is featured.....The Forepaugh-Sells Bros.' Show will circus with us on 21.....Turley, the magician, left here last week for a two weeks visit in Chicago.....The Auditorium will open Sept. 2, with "The Charity Ball" as the attraction. .....Jake Rosenthal will leave us this week, returning to Omaha, where his Orpheum season opens Sept. 3.

St. Joseph.—The theatrical season opens earlier than usual this season and more bookings than ever before are announced.

TOOTLE'S THEATRE.—The regular season opens Sept. 4, when "Hotel Topsy Turvy" comes for four nights.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—The season at this house opens 21, when the Klimt-Hearn Co. will be seen in repertory for four nights, at popular prices. "Held by the Enemy" is announced as the opening bill. Mahara's Minstrels come 25, for one night.

WONDERLAND THEATRE.—This house is being remodeled, and will open the season Sept. 2, under the management of Otto Erickson, and will be run as a strictly high class vaudeville theatre.

KRUG PARK.—Winkler's Juvenile Band drew immense crowds week 14.

IOWA.

Davenport.—At the Burtis Opera House the Metropolitan Opera Co. held the boards last week. The company did good business and gave good satisfaction. On Friday evening something unique occurred, not down on the programme. It was during the third act of "The Chimes of Normandy," when Grace Dexter and Ralph Hoops were united in marriage by Judge Hubbell, of this city. After the performance the entire company remained on the stage and assisted in serving ices and entertaining the visitors who wished to meet and congratulate the young couple. On Sunday night the bride and groom took the train for an extended bridal tour. The Hines-Wixstrom Co. opened a four nights' engagement 17, with "The Smugglers," and played to large audiences.

THE HOBSON THEATRE has been opened for the season, and will give vaudeville performances, with a Wednesday and Sunday matinee and a change of programme each evening.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—The German Opera Co. (local) gives an opera in German every Sunday night.

CLAUS GROTH HALL.—Every Sunday afternoon and evening the German Dramatic Opera Co. (local) entertains to larger audiences.

WATCH TOWER THEATRE.—The Cheny Sisters held the boards all last week to good business.

Cedar Rapids.—At Greene's Opera House the Van Dyke & Eaton Co. opened to a packed house Aug. 14, and had large and well pleased audiences the entire week. Repertory: "Jack's Wife," "When Friends Are Foes," "A Tallow Candle," "The Signal of Liberty," "Rip Van Winkle" and "Across the Trail." Between acts each night were seen Klark and Klark, in musical novelties; Frank Urban, clay modeler; Newell and Niblo, violinists, and Ollie Eaton, in illustrated songs and fire dances. Manager Fred McClenahan, of this company, visited his home, Sigourney, Ia., 15. Coming: "A Milk White Flag" 25, Metropolitan Opera Co. 28-Sept. 2, "Joshua Simpkins" 9..... The third annual Cedar Rapids Carnival, Oct. 2-7, will doubtless excel both of its predecessors. A permanent carnival company, composed of some of our best business men, has just been incorporated with a capital stock of $3,000. N. F. Franchere, who so successfully managed last year's carnival, has been engaged for this season.....The contract for the new Auditorium will be let this month. Enterprising business men have organized a stock company with $30,000 capital. The building will be 136ft. long, 96 wide and 47 high. The main hall, which will seat 3,800 people, will have galleries on three sides and a movable stage 20x55ft. A smaller hall, 50x18, will accommodate 200 people. A basement will extend under the entire building. The front will be stone, the other walls of brick.

Des Moines.—The Klimt-Hearn Co. billed week of Aug. 14, at the Grand Opera House, in repertory, to good business. Beach & Bowers' Minstrels were at the same house 11, 12, to large audiences. Coming: "Casey's 400" 21-23, "The Merry Voyagers" 24-26, "Yon Yonson" 28 and week. The Grand has had between $2,000 and $3,000 spent on it this Summer and the house is now brilliant with electric lights, displacing gas, but the fixtures remain for emergency use..... The week of 28 is a gala season in the capital city. The State Fair is the attraction during the day and every night Pain's "Battle of San Juan" is to be given.....Foster's Opera House plays "A Milk White Flag," and vaudeville is the attraction at the Mirror Theatre.

Keokuk.—The Ewing-Taylor Co. closed a very profitable two weeks' engagement at the Casino Aug. 19 and gave general satisfaction. Mahara's Minstrels come 21.....Keokuk Elks entertained visiting brethren from Burlington and Ft. Madison, in sumptuous style, night of 10, at Pechstein & Nagel's 14th Street Garden. Boyer's Fiftieth Regiment Band, of this city, is engaged for the week of 21, at Bonn's Ferris Wheel Park, Burlington.

CALIFORNIA.

Los Angeles.—The Lambardi Grand Italian Opera Co. still holds on at the Los Angeles Theatre, notwithstanding the fact that a final performance has been advertised repeatedly. The engagement is now extended to include week of Aug. 14. Business is light, but reaches into the sphere of profit.....Full houses rule at the Orpheum, where the following people comprise the bill for 14 and week: Idalene Cotton and Nick Long, La Falla, Dave Meier, Franz Adelman, Laura Joyce Bell, Elizabeth Murray and the Eldridges..... Eleanor Hanley, a three year old daughter of Lawrence Hanley and Edith Lemmert Hanley, was killed by an electric car in this city 7. The child was living with the parents of Mrs. Hanley..... William H. Cakeley, said to have formerly been a cook with Barnum's Circus, enlisted in the 35th U. S. Volunteers, at the recruiting office in this city, and left, 9, for Vancouver barracks. He is blind in one eye and over age, but these deficiencies were considered as offset by his qualifications as a cook.....Oliver Morosco was elected to membership in Los Angeles Lodge, No. 99, B. P. O. Elks, 9.....Dr. W. F. Kennedy, who served as delegate of Los Angeles Lodge of Elks to the St. Louis convention, has been appointed district deputy of the order for Southern California, the State having recently been divided into two districts.....A bill of sale for scenery and costumes from M. Lambardi to C. M. W. Wood, consideration $1,500, was recorded in this city 9.

KENTUCKY.

Louisville.—At the Avenue Theatre the opening attraction was Rusco & Holland's Minstrels, Aug. 17-19, when the season was ushered in in a blaze of glory. The house was crowded at every performance. Billy Kersands was as funny as ever, and John Rucker, Harry Fiddler, Bob Kemp and John Tucker made up a quartet of genuine black face fun makers. Other members of the show are: Christian, a skater; Leach and Dodd, comedians, and Dick Thomas. The show abounds in rag time music, which helps to make a really enjoyable performance. For week of 20: Dorothy Lewis, in "Hearts of the Blue Ridge."

BUCKINGHAM THEATRE.—This house, bright as a jewel, entirely new and fireproof, opens the season 20, with Irwin Brothers' Burlesquers. Every seat in the house has been sold for both matinee and evening performances. The house force consists of Horace McCrockland, treasurer; George Lippold, in the box office; Charles Hertzman, press agent; Wm. Rhea, scenic artist; E. Van Meter, stage carpenter; Ed. Morbach, leader of orchestra, assisted by Wm. Eckert, Charles Plinke, Paul Lawrence, Gus Paulsen, August Rath and Robt. Lawrence.

BIEROD'S MUSIC HALL.—Marsh De Varo, Billy Drayton, Nina Mason, Frank and Emma Dannas, Alma Clifton and Mable Parker. Business good.

ROBISON'S OLYMPIA.—J. J. Sullivan, Ida Mitchel, Orton Towers, Tom Carlton and the Maddens. Business good.

[Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—At the California Theatre "A Bachelor's Honeymoon" was the bill last night. The carpenters, painters and upholsterers will take possession 28, and do their best to transform the house into the handsomest theatre in the city.

MOROSCO'S GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Full houses nightly greet the eye here, and perfect satisfaction is given in the various operas sung. They are not only beautifully rendered, but mounted with a splendor and magnificence for which Morosco has long ago achieved a distinction. Last night "Clover" was the bill.

ALCAZAR THEATRE.—Florence Roberts has been a veritable mascot in the way of attracting packed houses here. Such was the case again last night, when she appeared in the title role of "Camille."

TIVOLI OPERA HOUSE.—"Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci" were sung here last night, and will be alternated during the week with "La Gioconda." Big business continues.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.—The combination season at this house was inaugurated last evening with the production of "A Southern Gentleman," by Clay Clement, and a very excellent supporting company. The company and play were very favorably received. Next week Modjeska will present "Marie Antoinette."

ORPHEUM THEATRE.—It is simply wonderful the great business done at this house at all times and in all conditions of weather. Packed houses are the rule and at times the house is dangerously and uncomfortably crowded. The new comers last night were: Hall and Staley, Freeze Brothers, and McMahon and King. Prior to Mr. Morrissey's departure on his Eastern vacation, the management will tender him a complimentary benefit, at which the attendance will vie with that of the recent performance for the California Volunteers.

OLYMPIA.—For week of 21 the bill includes: Blanche Le Clair, Zoa Matthews, Reina Vinton, the Keesings, Armstrong and O'Neil, Cornalle, Irene Wellington and Snowie Meyebelle.

NOTES.—Henry Miller's engagement at the Columbia, which closed 19, was phenomenally successful, the house having been packed continuously, and the engagement was most brilliant and satisfactory to all.....Helen Henry is a recent addition to the Alcazar stock. She will make her initial appearance Sept. 3, with the beginning of the Fall season, in "Christopher Jr." Eugene Ormonde, the new leading man, will open on the same date. Beginning Sunday, Sept. 10, and every Sunday thereafter, the Alcazar management will play a Sunday matinee as well as the usual matinee on Saturday. .....At the auction sale of private boxes and seats for the great benefit given at the Orpheum 17, for funds to give a reception to the First California Regiment on the occasion of its return from the Philippines, the theatrical people contributed not only their time, talents and best efforts, but also their check books. The following members of the profession bought boxes at $50 premium: S. H. Friedlander, Henry Miller, Mary Thall, Mrs. Ernestine Kreiling. The Orpheum people did nobly, for not only did they tender their theatre, orchestra and company, but Manager M. Meyerfeld Jr., John Morrissey, Charles Schimpf and Tillie Morrissey also purchased private boxes at $30 premium each. Charles Frohman and David Belasco, through their representatives here, each paid a premium of $25 for one seat. .....Margaret Lewis, a very promising contralto, and a recent acquisition to Morosco's Grand Opera Co., has left for the East, to join the Bostonians.....Miss Etta has been engaged to appear on the Orpheum circuit, and left here for Los Angeles 18. At the conclusion of her present engagement she will fill an engagement at Proctor's, New York City.....The Oberon, a free music hall which is being erected, will be an expensive building on O'Farrell Street, next door to the Alcazar, where first class mu ical talent will appear.

FROM OTHER POINTS.

J. J. Rosenthal Gives "Dear Old Charley" its First Production on any Stage at the Columbia Theatre, Chicago.—Several Theatres Get Into the Swim for the Regular Season

[Special Dispatches to THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Hot, though fair weather, served to dwindle the crowds at the indoor amusement places, somewhat to the detriment of the two season's openings. "Dear Old Charley," the new Brookfield farce, was the initial offering of the season at the Columbia. The audience was not very large, but it appeared to be deeply interested. After the piece gets well started the action is quite brisk, but the players rose to the occasion. George C. Boniface Jr. has the title role; George Ober does a clever character bit; Kathryn Osterman looks and acts well, and Florence Turner makes a hit with a soprano solo.....McVicker's opened Saturday night with "Hotel Topsy Turvy," Eddie Foy being featured. There were few others in the cast above the mediocre. The first night house was good; the others not so large. The much heralded "Girl With the Auburn Hair" appeared at the Masonic Temple Roof Garden, but proved to be a disappointment. She had been cleverly billed as a mystery for nearly two months and consequently much was expected of her. She proved to be a young woman with brown rather than auburn hair, who sang with a good voice, but in an outlandish way. Her name is not divulged, but she is said to be a New York society woman in hard luck.....'The Burglar," with vaudeville, drew well at Hopkins'.....'The Tornado did well at the Bijou.....'Coontown 400" drew a good crowd at the Great Northern.....'Humpty Dumpty," still popular, was the attraction which opened the season at the Academy.....'Arizona" at the Grand, and "Because She Loved Him So" at Powers', each began the eleventh week with fair houses. .....Rose Coghlan and company remain top liners at the Chicago Opera House and had fair houses. .....The Sans Souci, Ferris Wheel, Chutes and Sunnyside Parks were crowded Sunday.....The Lilly Clay Gaiety continued to do good business at Sam T. Jack's.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22.—Sunday was an unusually good day at the parks, for it was very hot, and large crowds were out looking for a cool spot.....At the Suburban minstrelsy has disappeared, leaving, however, Fred Warren and Al. Bouchard still singing their songs. Howe, Wall and Walters have some new gags, and Max Millian and Shields got off some fresh jokes, while McBride and Goodrich do some good clog dancing.....At the Highlands Harmon and Seabury give an exhibition of high diving out on the lawn. Papinta still is the centre of attraction, however, with the Navoros a close second with their balancing. Latina and the Flood Brothers are others on the bill.....The comedy, "A Happy Home," is the hit at Koerner's. The Victorellis, in a horizontal bar act; Bobby Bryant, in a monologue, and the Sisters Orndorf are others on the bill. Sherman and Morrissey appear in a comedy called "A Jay Circus" at Mannion Park. The Demoras, in a gymnastic act; the Coltons, Frank Gardner and Prof. Ed. Dougherty's educated dogs fill out the programme....The Spencer Opera Co. is singing its last week at the Cave. The bill is the second act of "Fra Diavola," and the sextet from "Lucia,' the one act operetta, "Charity Begins at Home," and Suppe's one act musical parody, "Lovely Galatea".....At Olympia Park Lawrence Hanley's Company gives Goldsmith's "School for Scandal," with excellent success.....Havlin's Theatre opened for the season Sunday, with "Under the Dome." The theatre has been completely and beautifully renovated.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—The second week of the beautiful spectacular production of "The Sporting Duchess," at the Castle Square Theatre, began yesterday under conditions the import of which is a succession of packed houses during the present week. The theatre was filled in the afternoon and evening.....At Keith's Theatre Amelia Summerville and Charles Bowser made a hit in their one act farce, before large audiences, afternoon and evening, and a high class vaudeville show added much to the enjoyment of the house patrons.....The Howard Athenæum, bright and attractive as fresh paint, new decorations, profuse but perfect in every way, and a first class continuous variety entertainment, opened its doors promptly at noon and gathered in old time and new patrons by the hundred.....Manager G. H. Batcheller "took down the shutters" of his gem Lyceum Theatre right on time yesterday and inaugurated his Fall and Winter season by presenting T. E. Miaco's City Club Co. in burlesque and variety. The opening was a success in every respect.....At the Palace Theatre, Austin & Stone's, the Gypsy Camp and the Nickelodeon, excellent business ruled, and the Chutes grounds and "Girl in the Moon" were visited by many hundreds day and night.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—The thermometer yesterday climbed to considerably over ninety, and the attendance at the theatres was correspondingly depressed to an equal extent. There was an entire lack of crowded business, but each of the attractions had an audience of good size, all that could be expected under the conditions. Those who attended "Finnigan's 400" at the Park were furnished with plenty of amusement, though but little plot....."A Grip of Steel" continues at the National, losing none of its power to thrill. .....At Forepaugh's the patrons attended in goodly numbers, and the production of "Fanchon" met with their unqualified approval.....The many excellent features on the bill at Keith's were fully appreciated by the good sized crowd, and there was an abundance of encouraging applause....."The Devil's Auction," at the Auditorium, has a wealth of new specialties and spectacular effects, and left nothing lacking in the pleasing of the ear and eye. This year's edition was received with marked favor last night.....The Robin Hood Jr. Burlesquers, at the Trocadero, drew a house well filled. The two burlettas and the clever olio made a very satisfactory entertainment, and the patrons showed their appreciation unmistakably.....The heat drove many to the parks last night, and they consequently did a rushing business.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 22.—"Hearts of the Blue Ridge" opened Sunday, to a good house. Last night's attendance was also good.....Irwin Bros.' Burlesquers opened the New Buckingham Theatre Sunday, matinee and evening, with standing room only at both performances.....Phœnix Hill Park provided a good vaudeville bill Sunday, and received good attendance.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 22.—The Baker Opera Co. continues to fracture Summer records at Chester Park. "Faust" opened Sunday night.....Heuck's Opera House began its season that evening, with the S. R. O. sign out. Rusco & Holland's Minstrels were the attraction.....The Bon Ton Burlesquers jammed the People's Theatre. These delightful box office conditions existed despite a warm wave.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 22.—The last week of the season opened at Fairmount Park Sunday, to good attendance. The features were Beatrice Moreland, Houdini, and Ahearn and Patrick .....The Forepaugh-Sells Show gave two performances Monday, to big attendance.

Terre Haute.—The Bijou Summer Theatre was packed to the doors week of Aug. 14, the chief attraction being the reproduction of the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries fight, to which was added an interesting vaudeville programme. Coming week of 21: Le Clair, Le Narde and Rith, vocalists and comedians; Twin Sisters Fauvette, sketch team; J. Murray Smith, baritone singer (fourth week), and the Ashley Sisters, sketch team. The performance closed with the burlesque, "The Sultan's Harem." .....The fair grounds have been secured by the owners of the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries fight pictures, and they will be put on 20-22.....Manager James B. Dickson has made such a success of his production of "The Rise and Fall of Humpty Dumpty" that he has decided to put out a No. 2 company, and is now in Anderson preparing the properties and scenic effects for the new company, which is intended to make the one night stands. The scenery will be a duplicate of the original, but will be smaller in size, for use in smaller theatres..... Manager T. W. Barhydt Jr., of the Grand, with his wife, will return 22 from his Summer vacation, and will actively begin preparations for the Fall and Summer season. He says he has secured the finest list of attractions this season that he has ever had. The first attraction will be Jules Walters' "How Hopper Was Sidetracked," Sept. 1.....Achilles Phillon, who was one of the chief attractions of the Terre Haute Street Fair last year, has been engaged by the committee on amusements for this year's fair, the date of which is Oct. 9-14.

Indianapolis.—Richards & Pringle's Minstrels gave a good show Aug. 14-16, which filled the house twice a day. Al. W. Martin's "U. T. C." Co. opened to big business 17.

DELAWARE.

Wilmington.—The Grand Opera House opened its season Aug. 21 with Yale's "Evil Eye," and notwithstanding the weather was intensely hot the house was crowded. Booked: "Wyoming Mail" 25, Elroy Stock Co. week of 28-Sept. 2, "The Queen of Chinatown" 4, "Spider and the Fly" 5, Robert B. Mantell 6, Washburn's Minstrels 7-8. DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Washington.—The delightfully cool days and nights of last week caused large business by the Victoria Burlesquers at the Lyceum—our only open city theatre—while the new venture of Simmons & Slocum's Minstrels at Glen Echo, our only suburban place of amusement where an admission fee is charged, had likewise a prosperous week. The Meirs family of swimmers and fancy divers attracted large crowds to witness their free exhibitions twice daily at Chevy Chase Lake. The foregoing are the only places of amusement open, or that will be open till Sept. 2, when John Greives will throw open the doors of his cozy Bijou Theatre, resplendent in new paint and decorations, with a strong vaudeville bill. Rapley's Academy of Music opens Sept. 4, with J. K. Emmet and Lottie Gilson, in "Fritz in a Madhouse." Sept. 11 has been set for the opening of Burke & Chafe's Grand Opera House, with refined vaudeville at popular prices (25 and 50). On the same date Painter's Lafayette Square Opera House opens with Washburn's Great Southern Minstrels, while a week later, Sept. 18, Rapley's National and Luckett & Dwyer's Columbia Theatres open their seasons simultaneously, the former with the initial production of Zangwill's "The Children of the Ghetto," and the latter with Otis Skinner, in "

The interior of this house has been entirely remodeled, newly decorated and painted; the floors have been covered with coca matting; several new sets of scenery added to the stage equipment, and the entire house is cooled by electrical fans. Mr. Niemeyer has spared neither money or time in his effort to make this the handsomest vaudeville house in the South. The staff for the season of 1899-1900 will be: Chas. H. Niemeyer, proprietor; Chas. Gates, manager; Chas. Starkey, leader of orchestra; Prof. Winad, leader of band. The performance opened with a comedy farce, entitled, "The Bowery." This was only the opening of the preliminary season, the regular opening not being booked until September. The opening production then will be "The Christian." The theatre will by that time be handsomely redecorated and furnished. The attaches will be practically the staff of last year, with Walter Rowland in charge.

SMITH'S THEATRE.—"A Guilty Mother," Aug. 21-23, opened this popular play house for the Fall and Winter season, with a good advance sale. The house has been renovated and refitted and presents a handsome appearance.

PLEASURE BEACH.—For week of 21: John C. Fox, Katie Allen, Mudge and Morton, Ida Russell, Baby Grace. A feature of the vaudeville here last week was the specialty of Keenan and Lynch, who made their first appearance here a year ago, at the Elks benefit. They made a pronounced hit. Raymon Moore is booked here Sunday, 27. On Labor Day, Sept. 4, the Rambler's races will take place on the beach bicycle track.

— The Gus Cohan Co. opened at Fremont, O., on Aug. 21, in "Old Moneybags," and turned people away. The show made a hit, although the weather was extremely hot.

World of Players.

MAZE EDWARDS, manager of Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J., called on THE CLIPPER Aug. 19, having just returned from an extended vacation trip. Accompanied by his wife, he sailed, via the Panama route, for San Francisco, Cal., in June. They were the guests of his brother while at the Golden Gate, spending the greater part of their time cruising in a handsome steam yacht owned by Mr. Edwards' brother. They next went to Vancouver, returned to Seattle, Wash., and took the Northern Pacific route to Duluth, Minn. A trip through the Great Lakes brought them to Buffalo, N. Y., whence they visited Niagara Falls and returned to Plainfield, N. J., in time to open the season on Music Hall, Aug. 17, with Geo. Thatcher's Minstrels. Mr. Edwards expressed himself as greatly delighted, as well as benefited in health, by the journey.

—James Gordon made his American debut Aug. 19, in "A Grip of Steel," at the National Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

— Fred Cohn joined the Gaskell Stock Co. in Crawfordsville, Ind., Aug. 14, to do his singing specialties and illustrated songs.

— D. C. Whitney, proprietor of the New Lyceum Theatre, Reading, Pa., reports progress for this house. He writes: "I have received 382 answers from my last week's ad. in THE CLIPPER. House opens Sept. 4, Labor Day, with the Imperial Vaudeville Stars, for three nights." Mr. Whitney has engaged Lew Wambold as manager. The house has been thoroughly overhauled, all new scenery and painted throughout.

— Harry A. Stevens, stage manager of the Hickman Park Stock Co., Owensboro, Ky., closed Aug. 17. He will rest for two weeks and will open the season of the Stevens Comedy Co. Sept. 18, near Indianapolis, Ind. The company is booked until May in Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Michigan, and will number twelve people.

— Howard Graves is now manager of the Parsons (Kan.) Opera House. Some fine attractions have been booked. The stage has been enlarged and the scenic artist is supplying new scenery throughout.

— Julia Bennett and Lewis Sutherland are in Chicago rehearsing with Eddie Girard in "Natural Gas." Andrew Mackay has secured an excellent company for the support of Mr. Girard, and all look forward to a prosperous season.

— Francis Kenney has closed with Jackson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Co. and joined Shipman's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Co.

— Samuel Edwards retired from the cast of "Arizona," at the Grand Opera House, Chicago, Ill., Aug. 19, and departed at once for this city, to begin rehearsals to create the leading comedy role in "The Ghetto."

— J. C. Foxcroft will not go out with "Mr. Bluff of New York."

— Leora Lane was obliged to cancel her contract with the Murray Comedy Co. on account of a badly sprained knee, which is causing her much trouble. This would have been her third season with the Murray Company.

— "A Daughter of the Million," which is now running in England, and which, it is claimed, has more legitimate effects than the average melodrama, will in all probability have a New York production in September. Frank Harvey, the English dramatist, saw the play in England and immediately secured it for his American representative, Martin J. Dixon, who has partially arranged all details for its premier. Harley Merry will get up the scenic plant.

— "The Mother," one of Frank Harvey's London successes, has been entirely rewritten. Mr. Harvey has held the principal scenes in Ireland, and has introduced new ideas and characters. Jessie Wallack-Dixon will create the leading female role when the play is produced in December.

— Violet Vernell, who has been playing juveniles with the Hickman Stock, Owensboro, Ky., has closed, and has signed with the Stevens Comedy Co.

— Ollie Halford and Baby Wava have signed with Waite's Stock Co.

— Robert J. Ward will be in the cast of "An Easy Mark," playing Captain Zebediah Maloney.

— Jas. Spencer has been engaged as stage manager at the New Lyceum Theatre, Reading, Pa.

— May Treat (Mrs. Fred Relia) mourns the death of her mother, who died in Chicago, Aug. 16, of cancer of the stomach.

— Will W. Crimans has returned from his Summer stock engagement and is enjoying a few weeks' vacation at Indianapolis, Ind., with his parents, before going to New York to begin rehearsals with Lewis Morrison, in "Frederick the Great."

— Tom Martin has returned from the Pacific coast, and has joined the Myrtle Vinton Comedy Co. at Minneapolis, Minn.

— Two Little Pucks have signed for the coming season with the Huntley & Jackson Co., playing child parts and doing their specialty.

— "A Husband On Salary," by Edwin Barbour, opens its season Sept. 1, under the management of J. M. Blanchard. The company is headed by Stephen Fitzpatrick, supported by Ethel Hodgson, La Bretta Sisters, Arthur Winfield, Chas. Green, F. A. Miles and others.

— Paul J. Splash, high diver, opens at Charleston, S. C., with "The Sidewalks of New York," Aug. 30.

— Gustave Neaville and Frantes Skelley have been resting for the past four weeks at Miss Skelley's home, Greenwood Farm, near Des Moines, Ia. Mr. Neaville is recovering from a surgical operation, the injury caused by freezing his feet in a snow slide last Winter, during an engagement with "Shaft No. 2." He has signed with W. J. Campbell's "Aunt Jerusha" Co., to open at Minneapolis Sept. 3. Miss Skelley has also been engaged for the leading juvenile role.

— On the occasion of their anniversary Louie Ramsdell presented Etha Rossland with a diamond ring. Both are re-engaged with McPhee's Big Co.—their third season.

— Elma Gillette has been released from "On the Stroke of Twelve," and goes with "Devil's Island."

The company consists of Miss Brown, Miss Rollins, Miss Mylette, Mrs. Butner, Mr. Appell, Harry Williams, Frank Walsh, John Merryweather, Will Stevens, George Jennings, W. J. Rich, manager; Charles Gordon, advance; Harry Williams, stage manager.

— Joseph Harris has engaged for "Mr. Plaster of Paris:" Julia Morrison, Joseph Kearney, Florence Evans, Andrew Barr, Camilla Martine, John St. George, Harry F. Day, Whiteing Sisters, Harry Bosbell, S. P. Bender, Roger Ryley, Frank Leiden and E. A. McArdle.

— Greene's Comedy Co. roster: D. D. Frisbie, manager; Raymond J. Greene, A. W. Jack, Guy B. Hoffman, Irene Campbell, Miss Nelson Lawrence, Lillie Young, A. B. Chapman, Edw. Burton, Horace Weston, Joe Kale and Little Ethal. They write: "We open our season in Tecumseh, Mich., Aug. 31, for thirty-nine weeks. We received more replies to our ad. in THE CLIPPER than we could possibly answer."

— Sam C. Selbert writes THE CLIPPER from Manila, P. I., under date of July 11, as follows: "Am just in receipt of a copy of THE CLIPPER, and can't express my satisfaction at meeting an old friend. I have been here with the Third U. S. Artillery since the outbreak of war last Spring. Was wounded by an insurgent bullet at the charge on Marilo, March 28, and have been in the hospital ever since. I have prepared an A one travesty sketch on military life and intend putting it on this Fall. I shall depend on THE CLIPPER to tell them about it when I return. I did a coon song for a Filipino audience at a native theatre last week, about the most appreciative audience who didn't 'sabe' I ever worked to. I will say 'howdy, good day' to my trooper friends and THE CLIPPER about September, so good bye. Gerette, the contortionist, was wounded with the Oregon Vols, so badly he will be forced to discontinue his bending work."

— P. F. Germain writes THE CLIPPER from New Orleans, La., as follows: "I was engaged for leads by Col. M. W. Marsh, manager of the Clara Mathes Co. He was kind enough to advance me the fare to report at La Salle, Ill., for rehearsal on Aug. 21. Yesterday, Aug. 18, I was preparing to leave by the evening train, when my wife was taken suddenly ill with hemorrhages of the lungs. I immediately summoned a doctor, and on his arrival he pronounced my wife in a dying condition. I was then obliged to cancel my engagement, which I did immediately, returning money advanced. I no doubt placed Col. Marsh in a bad fix by canceling on so short a notice, but under the circumstances I could not do otherwise."

— Manager Dean M. Seabolt, of the Athens Theatre, Ann Arbor, Mich., writes THE CLIPPER thus: "The Athens Theatre, which has been undergoing a complete course of remodeling, is now nearing completion, and is a beauty. Last night the lights were turned on the new decorations for the first time, and the result was even more beautiful than we had anticipated. About twenty newspapermen were present and all were unanimous in its praise. The opening, which occurs Sept. 1, will be a big event, as this is the first time this house has been completely redecorated in several years. I have a copy of THE OLD RELIABLE CLIPPER at hand, which has proven of great value to me, and which I feel it would be difficult to dispense with. May she live long and prosper."

ILLINOIS.

Chicago.—There is quite an awakening about the theatres. The Columbia, McVicker's and the Academy all open this week, and the Lyric, Haymarket and Alhambra will follow next week. The attraction at the Columbia is "Dear Old Charley." At McVicker's "Hotel Topsy Turvy" is the bill, while "Humpty Dumpty" is the initial attraction at the Academy. "The Countown 400" is the bill at the Great Northern, and the Hopkins stock offers "The Burglar." "The Tornado" is at the Bijou. Outside the arrival of Buffalo Bill's Show the only other novelty is "The Girl with the Auburn Hair," who appears at the Masonic Temple Roof Garden. This mysterious personage has been preceded by the blare of trumpets for over two months. She has been billed all over town, and her identity was kept a mystery until her first appearance. When she came upon the stage she proved to be less attractive than had been anticipated. During the latter part of last week the heat was quite a factor in the business. However, the majority of the amusement places fared pretty well.

COLUMBIA.—Hayman & Davis begin their tenth season of control of this house with the first production on any stage of Charles Brookfield's comedy, "Dear Old Charley." The company includes George C. Boniface Jr., George Ober, Stephen Maley, John W. Burton, John Hyams, Kathryn Osterman, Helen Harcourt, Florence Turner, Maybelle Rother and Etta Gilroy.

MCVICKER'S.—"Hotel Topsy Turvy," with Eddie Foy as the star, last Saturday night opened the second season of the Jacob Litt regime. The selection was not the best that could have been made, for although Eddie Foy was as funny a clown as ever, the piece and company failed to interest the audience to any great extent. Josie DeWitt and Bertie Fowler were possible exceptions. There was a good house, however. This

GOLDEN GATE GLEANINGS.

"A Bachelor's Honeymoon," "Clover," "Camille," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "I Pagliacci" and "A Southern Gentleman" the Current Bills.

(Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—At the California Theatre "A Bachelor's Honeymoon" was the bill last night. The carpenters, painters and upholsterers will take possession 28, and do their best to transform the house into the handsomest theatre in the city.

MOROSCO'S GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Full houses nightly greet the eye here, and perfect satisfaction is given in the various operas sung. They are not only beautifully rendered, but mounted with a splendor and magnificence for which Morosco has long ago achieved a distinction. Last night "Clover" was the bill.

ALCAZAR THEATRE.—Florence Roberts has been a veritable mascot in the way of attracting packed houses here. Such was the case again last night, when she appeared in the title role of "Camille."

TIVOLI OPERA HOUSE.—"Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci" were sung here last night, and will be alternated during the week with "La Gioconda." Big business continues.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.—The combination season at this house was inaugurated last evening with the production of "A Southern Gentleman," by Clay Clement, and a very excellent supporting company. The company and play were very favorably received. Next week Modjeska will present "Marie Antoinette."

ORPHEUM THEATRE.—It is simply wonderful the great business done at this house at all times and in all conditions of weather. Packed houses are the rule and at times the house is dangerously and uncomfortably crowded. The new comers last night were: Hall and Staley, Freeze Brothers, and McMahon and King. Prior to Mr. Morrissey's departure on his Eastern vacation, the management will tender him a complimentary benefit, at which the attendance will vie with that of the recent performance for the California Volunteers.

OLYMPIA.—For week of 21 the bill includes: Blanche Le Clair, Zoa Matthews, Reina Vinton, the Keesings, Armstrong and O'Neil, Cornalie, Irene Wellington and Snowie Meyebelle.

NOTES.—Henry Miller's engagement at the Columbia, which closed 19, was phenomenally successful, the house having been packed continuously, and the engagement was most brilliant and satisfactory to all.....Helen Henry is a recent addition to the Alcazar stock. She will make her initial appearance Sept. 3, with the beginning of the Fall season, in "Christopher Jr." Eugene Ormonde, the new leading man, will open on the same date. Beginning Sunday, Sept. 10, and every Sunday thereafter, the Alcazar management will play a Sunday matinee as well as the usual matinee on Saturday. .....At the auction sale of private boxes and seats for the great benefit given at the Orpheum 17, for funds to give a reception to the First California Regiment on the occasion of its return from the Philippines, the theatrical people contributed not only their time, talents and best efforts, but also their check books. The following members of the profession bought boxes at $50 premium: S. H. Friedlander, Henry Miller, Mary Thall, Mrs. Ernestine Krelling. The Orpheum people did nobly, for not only did they tender their theatre, orchestra and company, but Manager M. Meyerfeld Jr., John Morrissey, Charles Schimpf and Tillie Morrissey also purchased private boxes at $30 premium each. Charles Frohman and David Belasco, through their representatives here, each paid a premium of $25 for one seat. .....Margaret Lewis, a very promising contralto, and a recent acquisition to Morosco's Grand Opera Co., has left for the East, to join the Bostonians.....Miss Etta has been engaged to appear on the Orpheum circuit, and left here for Los Angeles 18. At the conclusion of her present engagement she will fill an engagement at Proctor's, New York City.....The Oberon, a free music hall which is being erected, will be an expensive building on O'Farrell Street, next door to the Alcazar, where first class mu ical talent will appear.

FROM OTHER POINTS.

J. J. Rosenthal Gives "Dear Old Charley" its First Production on any Stage at the Columbia Theatre, Chicago.—Several Theatres Get Into the Swim for the Regular Season

(Special Dispatches to THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Hot, though fair weather, served to dwindle the crowds at the indoor amusement places, somewhat to the detriment of the two season's openings. "Dear Old Charley," the new Brookfield farce, was the initial offering of the season at the Columbia. The audience was not very large, but it appeared to be deeply interested. After the piece gets well started the action is quite brisk, but the players rose to the occasion. George C. Boniface Jr. has the title role; George Ober does a clever character bit; Kathryn Osterman looks and acts well, and Florence Turner makes a hit with a soprano solo.....McVicker's opened Saturday night with "Hotel Topsy Turvy," Eddie Foy being featured. There were few others in the cast above the mediocre. The first night house was good; the others not so large. The much heralded "Girl With the Auburn Hair" appeared at the Masonic Temple Roof Garden, but proved to be a disappointment. She had been cleverly billed as a mystery for nearly two months and consequently much was expected of her. She proved to be a young woman with brown rather than auburn hair, who sang with a good voice, but in an outlandish way. Her name is not divulged, but she is said to be a New York society woman in hard luck.....The Burglar," with vaudeville, drew well at Hopkins'.....The Tornado did well at the Bijou.....Coontown 400" drew a good crowd at the Great Northern.....Humpty Dumpty," still popular, was the attraction which opened the season at the Academy.....Arizona" at the Grand, and "Because She Loved Him So" at Powers', each began the eleventh week with fair houses. .....Rose Coghlan and company remain top liners at the Chicago Opera House and had fair houses. .....The Sans Souci, Ferris Wheel, Chutes and Sunnyside Parks were crowded Sunday.....The Lilly Clay Gaiety continued to do good business at Sam T. Jack's.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22.—Sunday was an unusually good day at the parks, for it was very hot, and large crowds were out looking for a cool spot.....At the Suburban minstrelsy has disappeared, leaving, however, Fred Warren and Al. Bouchard still singing their songs. Howe, Wall and Walters have some new gags, and Max Millian and Shields got off some fresh jokes, while McBride and Goodrich do some good clog dancing.....At the Highlands Harmon and Seabury give an exhibition of high diving out on the lawn. Papinta still is the centre of attraction, however, with the Navoros a close second with their balancing. Latina and the Flood Brothers are others on the bill.....The comedy, "A Happy Home," is the hit at Koerner's. The Victorellis, in a horizontal bar act; Bobley Bryant, in a monologue, and the Sisters Orndorf are others on the bill. Sherman and Morrissey appear in a comedy called "A Jay Circus" at Mannion Park. The Demoras, in a gymnastic act; the Coltons, Frank Gardner and Prof. Ed. Dougherty's educated dogs fill out the programme....The Spencer Opera Co. is singing its last week at the Cave. The bill is the second act of "Fra Diavola," and the sextet from "Lucia,' the one act operetta, "Charity Begins at Home,' and Suppe's one act musical parody, "Lovely Galatea".....At Olympia Park Lawrence Hanley's Company gives Goldsmith's "School for Scandal," with excellent success.....Havlin's Theatre opened for the season Sunday, with "Under the Dome." The theatre has been completely and beautifully renovated.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—The second week of the beautiful spectacular production of "The Sporting Duchess," at the Castle Square Theatre, began yesterday under conditions the import of which is a succession of packed houses during the present week. The theatre was filled in the afternoon and evening.....At Keith's Theatre Amelia Summerville and Charles Bowser made a hit in their one act farce, before large audiences, afternoon and evening, and a high class vaudeville show added much to the enjoyment of the house patrons.....The Howard Athenæum, bright and attractive as fresh paint, new decorations, profuse but perfect in every way, and a first class continuous variety entertainment, opened its doors promptly at noon and gathered in old time and new patrons by the hundred.....Manager G. H. Batcheller "took down the shutters" of his gem Lyceum Theatre right on time yesterday and inaugurated his Fall and Winter season by presenting T. E. Miaco's City Club Co. in burlesque and variety. The opening was a success in every respect.....At the Palace Theatre, Austin & Stone's, the Gypsy Camp and the Nickelodeon, excellent business ruled, and the Chutes grounds and "Girl in the Moon" were visited by many hundreds day and night.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—The thermometer yesterday climbed to considerably over ninety, and the attendance at the theatres was correspondingly depressed to an equal extent. There was an entire lack of crowded business, but each of the attractions had an audience of good size, all that could be expected under the conditions. Those who attended "Finnigan's 400" at the Park were furnished with plenty of amusement, though but little plot....."A Grip of Steel" continues at the National, losing none of its power to thrill. .....At Forepaugh's the patrons attended in goodly numbers, and the production of "Fanchon" met with their unqualified approval.....The many excellent features on the bill at Keith's were fully appreciated by the good sized crowd, and there was an abundance of encouraging applause.....The Devil's Auction," at the Auditorium, has a wealth of new specialties and spectacular effects, and left nothing lacking in the pleasing of the ear and eye. This year's edition was received with marked favor last night.....The Robin Hood Jr. Burlesquers, at the Trocadero, drew a house well filled. The two burlettas and the clever olio made a very satisfactory entertainment, and the patrons showed their appreciation unmistakably.....The heat drove many to the parks last night, and they consequently did a rushing business.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 22.—"Hearts of the Blue Ridge" opened Sunday, to a good house. Last night's attendance was also good.....Irwin Bros.' Burlesquers opened the New Buckingham Theatre Sunday, matinee and evening, with standing room only at both performances.....Phœnix Hill Park provided a good vaudeville bill Sunday, and received good attendance.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 22.—The Baker Opera Co. continues to fracture Summer records at Chester Park. "Faust" opened Sunday night.....Heuck's Opera House began its season that evening, with the S. R. O. sign out. Rusco & Holland's Minstrels were the attraction.....The Bon Ton Burlesquers jammed the People's Theatre. These delightful box office conditions existed despite a warm wave.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 22.—The last week of the season opened at Fairmount Park Sunday, to good attendance. The features were Beatrice Moreland, Houdini, and Ahearn and Patrick .....The Forepaugh-Sells Show gave two performances Monday, to big attendance.

Terre Haute.—The Bijou Summer Theatre was packed to the doors week of Aug. 14, the chief attraction being the reproduction of the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries fight, to which was added an interesting vaudeville programme. Coming week of 21: Le Clair, Le Narde and Rith, vocalists and comedians; Twin Sisters Fauvette, sketch team; J. Murray Smith, baritone singer (fourth week), and the Ashley Sisters, sketch team. The performance closed with the burlesque, "The Sultan's Harem." .....The fair grounds have been secured by the owners of the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries fight pictures, and they will be put on 20-22.....Manager James B. Dickson has made such a success of his production of "The Rise and Fall of Humpty Dumpty" that he has decided to put out a No. 2 company, and is now in Anderson preparing the properties and scenic effects for the new company, which is intended to make the one night stands. The scenery will be a duplicate of the original, but will be smaller in size, for use in smaller theatres..... Manager T. W. Barhydt Jr., of the Grand, with his wife, will return 22 from his Summer vacation, and will actively begin preparations for the Fall and Summer season. He says he has secured the finest list of attractions this season that he has ever had. The first attraction will be Jules Walters' "How Hopper Was Sidetracked," Sept. 1.....Achilles Philion, who was one of the chief attractions of the Terre Haute Street Fair last year, has been engaged by the committee on amusements for this year's fair, the date of which is Oct. 9-14.

Indianapolis.—Richards & Pringle's Minstrels gave a good show Aug. 14-16, which filled the house twice a day. Al. W. Martin's "U. T. C." Co. opened to big business 17.

DELAWARE.

Wilmington.—The Grand Opera House opened its season Aug. 21 with Yale's "Evil Eye," and notwithstanding the weather was intensely hot the house was crowded. Booked: "Wyoming Mail" 25, Elroy Stock Co. week of 28-Sept. 2, "The Queen of Chinatown" 4, "Spider and the Fly" 5, Robert F. Mantell 6, Washburn's Minstrels 7-8. During the closed season Manager Jesse Baylis has made many improvements and additions both in the auditorium and on the stage.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Washington.—The delightfully cool days and nights of last week caused large business by the Victoria Burlesquers at the Lyceum—our only open city theatre—while the new venture of Simmons & Slocum's Minstrels at Glen Echo, our only suburban place of amusement where an admission fee is charged, had likewise a prosperous week. The Meirs family of swimmers and fancy divers attracted large crowds to witness their free exhibitions twice daily at Chevy Chase Lake. The foregoing are the only places of amusement open, or that will be open till Sept. 2, when John Greives will throw open the doors of his cozy Bijou Theatre, resplendent in new paint and decorations, with a strong vaudeville bill. Rapley's Academy of Music opens Sept. 4, with J. K. Emmet and Lotie Gilson, in "Fritz in a Madhouse." Sept. 11 has been set for the opening of Burke & Chafe's Grand Opera House, with refined vaudeville at popular prices (25 and 50). On the same date Painter's Lafayette Square Opera House opens with Washburn's Great Southern Minstrels, while a week later, Sept. 18, Rapley's National and Luckett & Dwyer's Columbia Theatres open their seasons simultaneously, the former with the initial production of Zangwill's "The Children of — The Gus Cohan Co. opened at Fremont, O., on Aug. 21, in "Old Moneybags," and turned people away. The show made a hit, although the weather was extremely hot.

World of Players.

MAZE EDWARDS, manager of Music Hall, Plainfield, N. J., called on THE CLIPPER Aug. 19, having just returned from an extended vacation trip. Accompanied by his wife, he sailed, via the Panama route, for San Francisco, Cal., in June. They were the guests of his brother while at the Golden Gate, spending the greater part of their time cruising in a handsome steam yacht owned by Mr. Edwards' brother. They next went to Vancouver, returned to Seattle, Wash., and took the Northern Pacific route to Duluth, Minn. A trip through the Great Lakes brought them to Buffalo, N. Y., whence they visited Niagara Falls and returned to Plainfield, N. J., in time to open the season at Music Hall, Aug. 17, with Geo. Thatcher's Minstrels. —James Gordon made his American debut Aug. 19, in "A Grip at Steel," at the National Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa.

—Fred Cohn joined the Gaskell Stock Co. in Crawfordsville, Ind., Aug. 14, to do his singing specialties and illustrated songs.

—Sam C. Seibert writes THE CLIPPER from Manila, P. I., under date of July 11, as follows: "Am just in receipt of a copy of THE CLIPPER, and can't express my satisfaction at meeting an old friend. I have been here with the Third U. S. Artillery since the outbreak of war last Spring. Was wounded by an insurgent bullet at the charge on Marilo, March 28, and have been in the hospital ever since. I have prepared an A one travesty sketch on military life and intend putting it on this Fall. I shall depend on THE CLIPPER to tell them about it when I return. I did a coon song for a Filipino audience at a native theatre last week, about the most appreciative audience who didn't 'sabe' I ever worked to. I will say 'howdy, good day' to my trooper friends and THE CLIPPER about September, so good bye. Gerette, the contortionist, was wounded with the Oregon Vols. so badly he will be forced to discontinue his bending work."

—P. F. Germain writes THE CLIPPER from New Orleans, La., as follows: "I was engaged for leads by Col. M. W. Marsh, manager of the Clara Mathes Co. He was kind enough to advance me the fare to report at La Salle, Ill., for rehearsal on Aug. 21. Yesterday, Aug. 18, I was preparing to leave by the evening train, when my wife was taken suddenly ill with hemorrhages of the lungs. I immediately summoned a doctor, and on his arrival he pronounced my wife in a dying condition. I was then obliged to cancel my engagement, which I did immediately, returning money advanced. I no doubt placed Col. Marsh in a bad fix by canceling on so short a notice, but under the circumstances I could not do other wise."

—Manager Dean M. Seabolt, of the Athens Theatre, Ann Arbor, Mich., writes THE CLIPPER thus: "The Athens Theatre, which has been undergoing a complete course of remodeling, is now nearing completion, and is a beauty. Last night the lights were turned on the new decorations for the first time, and the result was even more beautiful than we had anticipated. About twenty newspaper men were present and all were unanimous in its praise. The opening, which occurs Sept. 1, will be a big event, as this is the first time this house has been completely redecorated in several years. I have a copy of THE OLD RELIABLE CLIPPER at hand, which has proven of great value to me, and which I feel it would be difficult to dispense with. May she live long and prosper."

—Bridie Price has signed for the coming season with "A Royal Prisoner" Co.

ILLINOIS.

Chicago—There is quite an awakening about the theatres. The Columbia, McVicker's and the Academy all open this week, and the Lyric, Haymarket and Alhambra will follow next week. The attraction at the Columbia is "Dear Old Charley." At McVicker's "Hotel Topsy Turvy" is the bill, while "Humpty Dumpty" is the initial attraction at the Academy. "The Coontown 400" is the bill at the Great Northern, and the Hopkins stock offers "The Burglar." "The Tornado" is at the Bijou. Outside the arrival of Buffalo Bill's Show the only other novelty is "The Girl with the Auburn Hair," who appears at the Masonic Temple Roof Garden. This mysterious personage has been preceded by the blare of trumpets for over two months. She has been billed all over town, and her identity was kept a mystery until her first appearance. When she came upon the stage she proved to be less attractive than had been anticipated. During the latter part of last week the heat was quite a factor in the business. However, the majority of the amusement places fared pretty well.

COLUMBIA.—Hayman & Davis begin their tenth season of control of this house with the first production on any stage of Charles Brookfield's comedy, "Dear Old Charley." The company includes George C. Boniface Jr., George Ober, Stephen Maley, John W. Burton, John Hyams, Kathryn Osterman, Helen Harcourt, Florence Turner, Maybelle Rother and Etta Gilroy.

MCVICKER'S.—"Hotel Topsy Turvy," with Eddie Foy as the star, last Saturday night opened the second season of the Jacob Litt regime. The selection was not the best that could have been made, for although Eddie Foy was as funny a clown as ever, the piece and company failed to interest the audience to any great extent. Josie DeWitt and Bertie Fowler were possible exceptions. There was a good house, however. This attraction is boo

NEW JERSEY.

Jersey City.—The Academy, which has been in the hands of the decorators the past three months, will open under the management of Charles Frohman Sept. 11, with Julia Marlowe, in "Colinette." Many improvements have been made, and today the Academy ranks well among the best houses in the country. Manager Frohman opens with a strong attraction, which will be followed by others that will keep the large Jersey City contingent on this side of the river, and prove conclusively to Mr. Frohman that his venture will be a profitable one.

BIJOU.—Manager Holmes is a very busy man, and is working with vim and vigor to open his house on schedule time, Sept. 4. "The Cherry Pickers" is the opening attraction. The lobby has undergone a complete change. The box office has been enlarged, and stained glass, paneled walls and the ceiling elaborated make it a most attractive entrance to a really beautiful theatre. The decorators have displayed excellent taste in the selection of tints, and the entire work, which has been under the direction oof Mr. Holmes, is excellent.

BON TON.—The Klein Bros. have been lavish in the expenditure of money in beautifying this little house for the coming season, which opens Aug. 28, with the City Sports Co. The body of the house and the lobby have been entirely redecorated, and the most notable change is the increased seating capacity in the orchestra, which was accomplished by removing the middle aisle. The manner in which the seats are arranged now will be a genuine comfort to the patrons of this house. Matinees will be given, as usual, every day in the week.

NOTES.—George W. Samuels will be the resident manager at the Academy. Will Moran, who has long been identified with the house, will be principal door keeper and advertising agent. John Moore, formerly at the Academy as advertising agent, will fill the same position at the Bijou. F. W. Mohn will remain as stage machinist. Harry Hogan, who has been very sick the past month, will again resume his position as treasurer, with Harry Nelmes as assistant....."The Choir Invisible" is billed for an early presentation in this city. .....Stage Machinist William A. Hannah has been busy the past month overhauling the "Rev. Griffith Davenport" scenic sets for the revival of Jas. A. Herne's "Hearts of Oak," which opens the season at Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 4....."The Bell Boy" will not take the road this season. All the outfit is still at the Bijou.....Machinist John E. Langabee has been re-engaged for the Academy. .....Bernard Shea has been appointed leader at the Paterson, N. J., Opera House.....Prof. Hampton's Dog, Cat and Monkey Circus, and the Couture Bros. are at the Greenville Park Sept. 4..... John Barrett will again have charge of the stage at the Boa Ton.

Atlantic City.—At the Academy of Music business continues to attest the popularity of Rice's Burlesque Co. For week of Aug. 21 the bill presented by this organization will be "Il Trovatore" and "The Bohemian Girl."

THE EMPIRE.—The past week broke all records at this house. For week of 21 the following will appear: The Four Cohans, Charles T. Aldrich, Eshel Levey, the Musical Johnstons, Daley and Devere, Coakley and Heusted, Julian Rose, George Fuller Golden.

DOYLE'S PAVILION.—Tip top business still holds here, and big houses always. For week of 21: Dougherty's Pickaninnies, Jas. Murray and Alice Alden, Jessie Cole, Barron and Delano, Katie Harrington, Stetson and Sheldon, Koppe, Zwicker Sisters, Woods and Ramsey, West and Topack, Kathryne Rowe Palmer, Mitchell and Love, Eva Swinburne, Topack and Steel, Jas. Bruce, Goldie, St. Clair and Goldie.

GUVERNATOR'S THEATRE.—The capacity of this resort continues to be tested at each performance. Performers billed for week of 21: Three Dunham Sisters, Melville and Conway, Monumental Quartette, Gilmore and Magee, James Leslie, the Keegans, Alice Sablon, Leslie Pearse and miget boxers, Goldie and Moore, Maud Evans, Lane and Suzette, Walter Shute, the Ellis Trio, Mlle. Bertina, Kitty Helston, Wills Cake Walkers, Louis Olweil, Nelson Sisters, John B. and Estella Mills.

COLUMBIA GARDEN—Every performance here continues to attract a crowded house. Announced to appear week of 21: Nina, the Samagoes, Wagner Sisters, the Harringtons, Waller and Waller, Prof. Agostin, the Excelsior Quartette, Bruns and Nina, Bernard Sisters, Lurard Sisters, the Three Bastedo Sisters and the stock.

AUDITORIUM PIER.—The business here remains immense. To appear here week of 21 are: Mme. Marie Tavary, Gus Williams, the World's Trio, Mimic Four, Harry Foy and Flo Clark, Ed. Foreman and Julia West, Snyder and Buckley, Bicknell, Carrie Behr, Leslie and Audley.

ROVING FRANK'S GYPSY CAMP.—Business with Manager Frank Hubin continues up to the standard. He is arranging for a Western tour with his local camp, thus making three en tour.

Plainfield.—Manager Maze Edwards opened the regular season at Music Hall on Friday, Aug. 18, with George Thatcher's Greatest Minstrels, under the direction of D. W. Truss. The occasion was a most enjoyable one, the large seating capacity of the theatre being tested to its limit and many people standing throughout the entire performance. The company gave an excellent evening's entertainment, which was received with more than ordinary marks of approval from the overture in the first part to the final fall of the curtain. Every song, act and feature received merited applause and recognition, and seldom if ever has a better satisfied audience left this theatre after a performance. The house has been thoroughly renovated since the closing of last season, and, as Manager Truss remarked, "It looks better than it ever has since its opening season." With a successful opening and a long list of excellent attractions booked, Manager Edwards should have the banner season in the history of Plainfield theatricals. The Kennedy players fill the week of 21.

Elizabeth.—Despite the very great heat George Thatcher's Minstrels opened the Lyceum season Aug. 19, to a very large audience, who appeared to enjoy the performance. There can be no dispute but that the show is the genuine old fashioned minstrels, even to some of the jokes and specialties. The singing in some instances was very enjoyable. No lavish expenditure of money was observed in the costuming of the company, and no original features were introduced, yet the audience accorded Mr. Thatcher and the company a very cordial reception. To arrive: "A Ray of Sunshine" 26, Elroy's Stock Co. 28-Sept. 2, "Span of Life" 4 (Labor Day), "Daniel Boone" 9, "Lost in New York" 11, Royer Brothers 16, "An Easy Mark" 25.

THE SEASON at Jacobs' (formerly Star) will open Aug. 28, 29 with "Devil's Island," George Monroe 31, Waite Comedy Co. Sept. 2, "Boston Serenaders" 4 (Labor Day), "Mysterious Mr. Bugle" 9, Rhodes Merry Makers 11-16.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Manchester.—At the Opera House the bookings include: W. H. West's Minstrels Aug. 26, "Eight Bells" Sept. 11, "The Turtle" 13.

PARK THEATRE.—The Lees, hypnotists, will hold the boards week of Aug. 21. This is only a preliminary season. The regular season opens Sept. 4, with "Blue Jeans."

HUSTIN'S MUSIC HALL.—For the opening, Aug. 28, are booked: In Exhibition Hall No. 1—Murphy, orang outang; Volga, snake charmer, and the German Rosa, midget. In No. 2 will be seen Lady Laguilla, East Indian palmist, and Cotter's Rifle Range. In the Theatre will be seen: Lester and Roberts, Dawson and Booth, Colville and McBride, Flora Surtleff Carter, Mabel Waite and the Cinematograph, by Prof. Blanchard. F. Earle Bishop is musical director and Jos. Campbell lecturer.

LAKE PAVILION.—Lillian Beach did not appear week of 14, so Annie Southard remained over. Week of 21 are due: Chalk Saunders, Josephine Sevaro, Ward and Fox, St. Clair Bros. and Frank Clayton.

NOTES.—Col. Austin was in Boston 17 in the interest of his music hall....."The Colonel and I" Co. will open its season Sept. 19, under direction of McGuirk & Near..... Richard Barry, better known as "Dick," who is Mayor "pro tem" in this city during the absence of Mayor Clark, and has been an Alderman for the last ten years, was formerly a professional, and will be remembered by the older boys as a member of Barry and Griffin, song and dance team. His last appearance was in '85, at Austin & Stone's, Boston.....J. G. Chandler was here 16, doing advance work for the Lees.....The McAndrews, scenic painters, who will put out a spectacular play next season, report satisfactory business as far as both bookings and engaging artists are concerned. Their last "ad." in THE CLIPPER proved to them that "it is the only paper" for the profession, as they were overwhelmed with answers.

CANADA.

Montreal.—Preparations are rapidly going on for the opening of the theatrical season. The first house to open will be the "Royal," Aug. 21, with Black Patti's Troubadours as the attraction. Fred LeClaire will again be J. B. Sparrow's representative here. The Francais throws open its doors 26. The Academy and Queens open Sept. 4. Good bookings have been made at all the theatres.

ARENA.—The Robinson Opera Co. put on "The Bohemian Girl" and "La Mascotte" Aug. 14-19, to good business. "Fatinitza" and "Billie Taylor" 21-26.

SOHMER PARK.—Besides the park band and the ballets, Delmore and Lee, McPhee and Hill, and Lillie Western proved strong favorites 14-20. Alleene's trained monkeys will head the bill 21-27.

NOTES FROM CAPT. W. D. AMENT'S BIG CITY SHOW.—We are now nearing home, which we left two years ago. The members are all looking forward with a good deal of pleasure to our home coming. Business the past few weeks has been something phenomenal. At Dixon, Ill., our closing day broke all records in the history of the show for large crowds and big receipts. Our opening night in Kewanee was the largest of the season. When the box office opened the crowd made a grand rush and everybody wanted to get in at once. It required the combined efforts of four strong canvas men to hold the ticket office in place. The crowd at the door swept our door keeper, Frank Casad, off his feet, and Capt. Ament was obliged to quit the reserve seat stand and come to the rescue. In a short time order was restored, and long before the time to ring up the tent was packed to the doors and the sale of tickets was stopped. It was a good natured crowd, and everybody seemed to appreciate the show. Geo. Slackey's new wire act, riding a bicycle at full speed on a revolving wire, is creating a perfect sensation. Prof. Meehan's trained dogs are the talk of the town. The Casad Brothers are great favorites in their musical act. James Dashing, in his high pyramid contortion act, is a surprising revelation to our patrons. Beahan and Deaken, in their sketches, are great favorites, and the best in their line ever seen with the Ament Show. The little Beahan children, in their cake walks and dances, and the little Ament children are the pets of all the ladies and children, and, lastly, Capt. Ament and wife, in their sensational shooting exhibitions, never fail to hold hundreds of the patrons for the concert. A. J. Sharpley, our advance agent, retired last week, and Will Gardner has taken his place. Fanny Meehan, our hustling little comedy butcher, is making a great success with the candy stands, and she and Mrs. Nanna Ament, who control the privilege, are often seen at the post office sending away green papers. We open next week in a brand new top, 80ft., with two 40ft. middle pieces, which will make quite a spread. Capt. Ament intends to greatly enlarge his show for next season.

NOTES FROM THE J. P. HARRIS "U. T. C." CO.—This finds us in our seventeenth week under canvas, playing to standing room nightly. Our routes so far has been confined to the State of Pennsylvania exclusively, but will cross the State line into Maryland next Sunday for a six weeks' sojourn. Have made several purchases in the line of stock the past week, which adds greatly to our street parade. The unusual large business the company is doing speaks for the diligent work of the advance, with V. O. Woodward in charge, with Carroll and Daugherty as assistants, advertising the show. Our culinary department is under the direction of George Boyd, with four assistants, and furnishes all the delicacies of the season. Roster: Welsh Bros., owners and managers; George E. Standing room every night is the rule, while on several occasions hundreds have been turned away.

NOTES FROM THE E. O. ROGERS' "UNCLE TOM'S Cabin" Co.—We are in the sixteenth week of our Summer season. Expect to send the carriages home as soon as the cold weather makes it necessary, then go by railroad for the Fall and Winter. We are booked far into the Winter. This is Mr. Rogers' twelfth season traveling in this way, and the members of the company express themselves as delighted with it. We sometimes have trouble to get THE OLD RELIABLE, but we do get it every week, someway.

KNIGHT & DEUNER'S CYCLORAMASCOPE CO. NOTES.—Our show has been on the road now for five weeks, and we are pleased to report very good business. The company includes Chas. We travel by wagon, using two splendid conveyances. Another will be added in two weeks, when we receive our trick monkeys and dogs.

NORRIS BROS.' DOG AND PONY SHOW has gotten rid of all its litigation, and is now in a prosperous condition, free from legal troubles. Blanch Norris sued first in the courts of Cincinnati, O., then tied up the show in Seattle, Wash., and finally secured a favorable settlement.

NOTES FROM PROF. MILLNER and his specialty stars.—We have been playing to good business, in spite of hot weather, all Summer through Iowa. We will rest in West Union for two weeks and then we play Wisconsin fair dates. Our company consists of Prof. Millner, hypnotist and mind reader; Queenie Millner, singing and dancing soubrette; Frank Campbell, comedian and subject; Denny Dunning and Roy Campbell.

De Varo, horizontal bars; Mont Peters, trapeze; Dennis Dolan, contortionist; Little Emily, slack wire; Herman Voquet, grotesque; Arthur Humeston, principal clown; Richie and Reis, return act and bars; Prof. Renos, trained dogs and mules. As all of the performers double in specialties, leaping and doubling, the programme is unusually strong and interesting. The band is composed of soloists, and their daily concerts are appreciated by the patrons. Everybody is well and happy, and the stock is in excellent condition. The show has not had an accident, serious storm or a losing week.

Under the Tents.

RAYS FROM SUN BROS.' PROGRESSIVE SHOWS.—We are now in our eighteenth week of what has been the most successful season of the show. Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and New Jersey have all been in line with a phenomenal business. During the past two weeks we have been surrounded with numerous other shows, but the "World's Progressive," notwithstanding the opposition, has had a packed canvas at every performance. The first accident of the season occurred at Asbury Park, N. J., where, during our monster mid-day parade, a horse attached to a local delivery wagon became excited and ran away, heading directly for the line of parade. He collided with Pierpont, one of our ring stock, running the broken shaft of the wagon through Pierpont's body, necessitating the killing of the horse. The loss to Sun Bros. was partly covered by the owners of the delivery wagon paying damages. We show Bangor, Pa., Aug. 14, our first return date in the State. We are working South with the intention of an extra long season. The following is a complete roster of the show, which has practically remained the same since the opening: Three Sun Bros. (Geo., Ed. and Pete), sole proprietors; Geo. Sun, manager; E. H. Sun, treasurer, and Peter Sun, advance representative; Bert Moore, in charge of advertising brigade No. 1; Will Inman, in charge of No. 2; Lewis Keller, in charge of No. 3; Capt. Lilla, trapezist and Spanish web; Richard Bros., statuary; Harry McBride and his trained bear "Phil," Sig. Gleiser's, educated canines; Prof. Ed. Kain, school of equine wonders, including Commodore, the rope walking mule; George Sun, the juggler. We keep the show well billed in advance, and the receipts at the ticket wagon shows how effectively our advance work is done. Col. Harry Bowman has charge of the new side show, with three cages of animals, the Cuban sea monster and other curiosities, introducing as a special feature Rudolph Leonards, the Russian strong boy, who creates a sensation in every town we visit with his wonderful feats of strength.

CHARLES E. GRIFFIN writes: "Frank Harrison, who has been a groom with the Ringling Bros.' Show for the past two seasons, died at Calumet, Mich., Aug. 7, from blood poisoning. He was supposed to reside at Sterling, Ill., and telegrams were sent there, but no response being received he was buried at Calumet by the Ringling Bros., the Congregational minister officiating. His brother employes furnished an abundance of flowers."

MONS. LA PLACE and wife, Roman ring experts, were compelled to close with the Barlow Bros.' Refined Shows on account of the illness of Mrs. La Place. She is now gaining fast and will resume work in a few weeks.

READING, Pa., sent out this press despatch on Aug. 20: "The big elephant, Charlie, in La Pearl's Circus made a desperate attack on his temporary keeper, James Mackey, this morning, hurled him into a ditch and broke three of his ribs. Then, with a chain dangling about his neck, the beast went snorting through the streets, terrifying many persons. He made his way to the City Park, plunged into the lake, and before a group of terrified women and children could get away spurted a stream of water, mud and gravel at them. The pebbles were thrown with such force as to cut the faces and arms of several children. The elephant then trampled down some flower beds, went up the mountain side to the boulevard and over the hills to the vineyards, and, after an absence of two hours, was captured and taken back to the circus."

NOTES FROM COOPER & CO.'S CIRCUS.—The show is now playing Tennessee. We will soon be back in our favorite State, old Kentucky. Our general agent, E. L. Brannan, who was hurt in the railroad wreck, July 22, at Gallatin, Tenn., is ahead again, after three weeks' lay up. Have made several changes in our company the past ten days. Albert Gaston, singing clown, from the Robinson Show, joined Aug. 14. The Irwins took the place of the Richards same date. Prof. Martino, high diver; Frank M. Quimby, balancing act, came Aug. 16; also Leslie and Devine and Nannie Haskell, concert people. A new band and ticket wagon is a recent addition to the parade. Everybody well with the show and business is good.

JOHN ROBINSON SHOW NOTES.—Guy Docker, our bookkeeper, is still at Wooster, O., in the hands of the doctors, and in a very critical condition, pneumonia having set in. We are all fearful of his not getting well. A most able and popular man, his absence is keenly felt. John Robinson and his show friends have done everything that money could do. We are wending our way South, this being our sixteen th week out, and the boys are beginning to talk Winter plans. The route book of the season is well under way, and bids fair to be as good as the best ever gotten out by any show.

NOTES FROM BARLOW BROS.' REFINED SHOW.—All are well and business has been good for the past two weeks. Sam Shadley has taken the place of Frank Wortinger on tuba. Emma Barlow, aged nine years, sings clown songs and makes a hit. Our show now is giving the finest satisfaction at present of any show we ever placed before the people, and of kickers and boozers and cranks we have none, which makes a pleasant time.

VIRGINIA.

Richmond.—The weather during the past week played sad havoc with the attendance at the outdoor resorts, and the respective managers were correspondingly downcast, as particularly attractive bills had been prepared.

MAIN STREET PARK.—The Hale Sisters danced and sang themselves into the hearts of those who braved the elements, and they were pronounced by the local press one of the best sister acts ever presented at this popular resort. Raymond and Clarke, and Wilson and Scott were good teams, and received great praise for their work. Booked Aug. 21 and week: Chas. E. Grapewin and Anna Chance, Swan and O'Day, Maude Meredith, Newell and Shevett, and Morrisey and Rich.

BROAD STREET PARK.—Gus Williams was the bright star here last week, but was strongly pushed for first place by Miles and Raymond, who kept their audience in roars of laughter during their occupancy of the stage. Only four nights of the current week, 21, will be devoted to vaudeville, and the following people will make up the programme: McGee and Crimmins, Les Vaugeres, Annie Lloyd, Gibbons and Barrett, and Koppe. Al. G. Field's Minstrels come 24, 25, at regular standard prices.

JEFFERSON ROOF GARDEN, after a fairly successful season of eight weeks, closed 19.

Norfolk.—The preliminary season at the Academy of Music opens Aug. 29, with the Al. G. Field's Minstrels. Although no extensive improvements have been made at this house, yet a few touches of the painter's brush and a liberal supply of soap and water have worked a very pleasing change. T. G. Leath reports the strongest line of attractions ever booked for this house, and predicts a good season.

AUDITORIUM THEATRE.—People who open 21 are: Tansey and Black, Brenneck Sisters, Lee Williams, and Keough and Ballard. Held over: St. Leon, McCusick and Gonzellas, Hess and Hunt, Lillian Woods and Blanche Donley. James McCusick is now acting in the capacity of stage manager at this house.

ALL PLACES of amusement, more especially outdoor attractions, have greatly suffered on account of the severe wind and rain storm which swept Norfolk and vicinity for the week of 14.

Danville.—At the Academy of Music, Farland, banjoist, played to a large house Aug. 17, Al. G. Field's Minstrels will open the season at this house 24.

— Sadie Johnson, while at her country residence, "The Lilacs," in Tioga, will give a series of "At Homes," the first one to be given Aug. 23, in honor of Claire Vivian Ketterer.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston.—Very warm weather prevailed here last week, yet the few places of amusement open during the week fared well, comparatively speaking. This, in a great measure, was due to the fact that all of our amusement places are now provided with plants for the distribution of cold air.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.—The management of this house, when they put on "The Sporting Duchess" last week, advertised it for a second week's presentation only, but they have changed their minds, and now it is billed for a third week, Aug. 28. This is due to the immense business of last week, the house being taxed to its fullest capacity at every performance.

KEITH'S THEATRE.—Amelia Summerville, supported by Charles Bowser, in a one-act farce, will start the show at Keith's this week, and following is a vaudeville list of the highest order of excellence. The Symphony Orchestra will provide some of their best selections, with Bertha Walzinger in her choicest vocalisms, and the American biograph will present an unusually interesting and long list of romantic scenery in the White Mountain region. In the specialty line are John W. Ransone, Yorke and Adams, the Everett Trio, Geo. Evans, Howard and Bland, Manhattan Comedy Four, Francelli and Lewis, Frederic Howard, Howe and Edwards, Gallando, Fields and Loring, Anna Kenwick, and Stine and Evans.

HOWARD ATHENÆUM.—The fifty-fourth regular season of this popular old time play house begins Monday, Aug. 21. During the recess of this Summer the house has been renovated, decorated and beautified from top to bottom interiorly, and now it is one of the handsomest resorts of its kind in the city. For the present week Manager McAvoy presents a bill including Troja, Joe Flynn, Ryan and Richfield (Thomas J. and Mary), Jas. Richmond Glenroy, Norma Willis and Monte Collins, Geo. H. Wood, Chas. Kelly and May Adams, Glenroy Bros., Billy Carter, Edwin R. Lang, Miriam Ainsworth, Will G. Hanford, Mabel Craig, Thos. Galvin, the Devines, Ed. Marvelle, Smith and Blanchard, John Walsh, and Thomas and Watson.

NEW PALACE THEATRE.—Manager Chas. Waldron for the current week presents a double bill of burlesque and specialty, the latter provided by the La Moyne Brothers, Phillips and Hanon, Williams and West, Scanlan and Stevens, Minnie Cline, Sam Collins, the Lane Sisters and a corps of colored singers and dancers.

GYPSY CAMP.—The business at Manager Burgess' resort for seekers of information regarding their future and reminders of the past increases steadily day by day.

AUSTIN & STONE'S MUSEUM.—The grand attraction in the lecture hall here this week is the gathering of genuine Southern darkies, in that smart colored show entitled "The Coontown Picnic," a skit that is chock a block teeming with fun from start to finish. Also in the hall is Albert, "the perfect man," who is the physical instructor at the St. Paul Gymnasium, and accounted to be really the standard of manhood. On the stage this week in hourly shows are: The Rilla Troupe, Maude McIntyre, Hart and Williams, Sisters Ardelle, Mabelle Arnold, Funny Jack Noon, May Albertina, the Grenache Bros., Ricci and Chandler, Edw. Gallagher, Mr. and Mrs. Brennan, Tommie West, the Patnaudes, Lillian Rehan, and Cameron and Nelson.

NICKELODEON.—Manager Walker's bill for the present week is one that will surely please his patrons. In his lower curio hall Mlle. La Tour's bevy of flower girls will demonstrate their expertness in the art of making artificial flowers from paper, each patron of the house being given a beautiful boutonniere. The Georgia Minstrels start in on their last week, and in the line of other novelties are Capt. Fred McKay, electric tattooer; Mme. Lincoln, palm reader; Billy Dewy and Will White, buck dancers. In the theatre proper the troupe of vaudevilists and burlesquers, headed by Eva Reid, will hold forth. Friday night has been set apart by Manager Walker as the time each week when amateurs aspiring to the stage can show their ability.

THE CHUTES.—Manager Hyde's grounds on Huntington Avenue are large and spacious in every respect, yet at times they fail to accommodate comfortably the vast crowds that throng them. During the meet of the L. A. W. last week the grounds were a sight to behold; thousands in constant motion, men, women and children, were present, "shooting the shoots," boat sailing, pony and donkey riding, swinging, and, in fact, enjoying themselves to the fullest with the various devices presented for their amusement, and the balloon ascensions, band concerts and the illuminated electrical fountain were not by any means the least of the pleasures afforded.

Fall River.—"A new broom sweeps clean," and with Phil Sheridan, of the City Sports Big Show, at the head, he having secured a three years' lease of Rich's Theatre, and rechristened this cosy burlesque and farce comedy house Rich's Dewey Theatre, indications point to a pretty constant use of the S. R. O. sign here this season. During the past few weeks painters and decorators have been at work on the interior and exterior of this playhouse, and have worked wonders. New draperies have also been added, a centre aisle has been cut down stairs and in both galleries (something that will be much appreciated by the patrons), the electric plant has been greatly enlarged, the theatre now being unsurpassed for brilliancy; sanitary conditions looked carefully after, and the comfort and conveniences of performers regarding dressing rooms has been well borne in mind. NEW YORK CITY.

Review and Comment.—Local theatrical affairs have been very quiet during the past week. There has necessarily been considerable preparatory work done upon the productions which will have the questionable honor of opening the season; there has been the usual heralding of coming events and the announcement of late engagements, but it is difficult to arouse much interest during the dog days, and the public is waiting with serene composure for the dawn of the season. This happy state of mind seems to have partly resulted from satisfaction afforded by the current list of entertainments, for the business of the past week has certainly been remarkably good, and in the early hours of evening long lines of ticket buyers, reaching from the box office far along the sidewalk, have been in some places in constant evidence. Further reports from the road since our last issue bring cheering news, and, in fact, tell of results that have far exceeded expectations' and rarely has the dawn been so full of promise. .....Theatrical business is ordinarily peculiarly hazardous, but there is manifest at the present time a degree of confidence that is beyond precedent. The usual sanguine belief that success will crown enterprises is this season the result of faith rather than hope, that sort of faith which is the result of logical deduction from sound premises, and there is a sincere and earnest conviction that good patronage everywhere awaits satisfactory productions, and good entertainers with good offerings. The first fruits of this belief have fallen to THE CLIPPER, through the channels of its advertising columns. It is the planting ground of enterprise wherein the harvest is known to be sure and bountiful. We had occasion in our last issue to speak of the almost overwhelming torrent of advertising matter which was pouring in upon THE CLIPPER, and the consequent necessary addition of four pages. With this enlargement we still found it impossible to insert all of the reading matter sent us by our friends, and we must still claim their indulgence. In our last issue we printed over twelve pages, sixty-one columns, of advertising matter, breaking our old record. We are obliged to make our present issue consist of twenty-four pages also, and in making these statements we point with satisfaction to the corroborative evidence they afford of the well grounded faith in the success of the present season. We are also glad to avail ourselves of an opportunity to gratefully acknowledge the favors of our patrons, and we admit that we are proud of the laurels which are bestowed upon us as the "OLD RELIABLE" approaches its semi-centennial anniversary. We are constantly in receipt of letters informing us that the results of advertising in our columns have surpassed the most sanguine expectations, and mutual esteem founded upon mutual benefit is of a sort that is enduring..... After some weary weeks of illness our esteemed London correspondent is himself again, and in this issue we present one of his interesting letters, and we hope to continue the publication of an unbroken series of these communications, the recent absence of which from our columns has been a source of regret alike to ourselves and our patrons.....Words are impotent to express all the sorrow which has resulted from the death of Lizzie Macnichol. A charming singer and a still more charming woman, she had made a host of friends, whose grief will be tempered only by the memory of her many charms. Forgotten she will never be; such impress as she has made can never be effaced. To the Castle Square Opera Co., and to its patrons, the loss sustained by her death is almost irreparable. Critical judgment may be satisfied in the one who may be chosen to take her place, but sentiment will yearn for her who is no more.....The return of Daniel Frohman from his vacation abroad set at rest some of the rumors concerning the distribution of his players. According to his statements Mary Mannering will not join the company of which her husband, James K. Hackett, is the head, but will continue to be the leading lady of Mr. Frohman's stock company, which will, in the future, have its permanent home at Daly's Theatre, although some of its members will from time to time appear in productions at the Lyceum. We are glad to know that Miss Mannering is to remain with us throughout the season, and that many of the favorites of the Lyceum Stock Co. will also be retained.....Charles Frohman has announced that he has perfected arrangements with various livery stables whereby hansoms, coupes and carriages will be waiting at several of his theatres to carry home his patrons, at reduced rates, which will be in accordance with a published schedule. The street cabmen are consequently up in arms, and are devising means of retaliation, and there is a prospect of some lively scenes. Other managers have expressed their approval of Mr. Frohman's plans, and have promised their co-operation. We trust that the managers may win the victory, for the cabmen have hitherto defied the law and have charged extortionate rates. Refusal to be robbed by them always results in a most unpleasant dispute, which can only be settled by personal combat or a visit to the nearest police station. We are greatly in need of better and cheaper cab service, and there is an excellent field here for the organization of a company for that purpose. Mr. Frohman's move is to be commended, but it is not of sufficient magnitude, nor is his schedule of prices as low as it should be. Cheap cab service has been found practicable in other cities, and we hope this movement is but the entering wedge.....The STAR THEATRE reopened Aug. 19, and further mention of this event will be found elsewhere in this issue.....The continued attractions for the week ending Aug. 19 were: "The Man in the Moon" at the NEW YORK and "The Rounders" at the CASINO..... "Lost in New York" was the attraction for the week at the THIRD AVENUE THEATRE.....Variety entertainment was furnished at TONY PASTOR'S, PROCTOR'S, the UNION SQUARE, the PLEASURE PALACE, the ATLANTIC GARDEN, and the following roof gardens: The AERIAL MAGNOLIA GROVE (the New York), the CASINO, HAMMERSTEIN'S VENETIAN GARDEN, the MADISON SQUARE, the GRAND CENTRAL PALACE and the LION PALACE. Entertainment of a like character was furnished nightly on the steamer Grand Republic and on each trip of the Long Branch steamers Republic and Columbia.

Criterion Theatre.—Charles Frohman will inaugurate the management of the Criterion Theatre, on Tuesday evening, Aug. 29, by presenting for the first time here an adaptation of the French farce, "The Girl from Maxim's," by George Paydean, author of "The Gay Parisians." In the cast will be W. J. Ferguson, Eugene Jepson, George Woodward, Alfred Klein, Lewis Baker, J. M. Francour, Robert Hickman, Ralph Yoerg, Royal Thayer, Carl Ekstrom, George Forbes, William Ledyland, Wales Winter, Charles Watson, Paul McAllister, William S. Anderson, Josephine Hall, Gertrude Whitty, Mayme Kealty, Rose Flynn, Blanche Cerf, Marie Derrickson, Florence Girard, Harriet Shaw, Margaret Kenmore, Caroline Starbuck, Florence Lloyd, and others.

Lion Palace Roof Garden.—Another excellent programme was presented at the Lion Palace Roof Garden Aug. 21, headed by Sallie Stembler, who introduced an entire new repertory of songs. Edgar Temple, late tenor of the Bostonians, also made his first roof garden appearance and was well received. Mabel Le Clair, late of the De Wolf Hopper Opera Co., was another new addition to the programme, as was Katharine Camp, Susie Thibault and Marie Uhl. The Squadron "A" Band furnished an excellent musical programme.

ISRAEL ZANGWILL'S "Children of the Ghetto" will be first presented in New York at the Herald Square Theatre, Oct. 16. It will be played four weeks in Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia before it is seen here.

Empire Theatre.—The eighth season will open on Monday evening, Aug. 28, when Charles Frohman will present, for two weeks only, R. Marshall's farcical romance, "His Excellency the Governor," with the same cast, including Jessie Millward, as seen when originally produced here last season.

The Knickerbocker Theatre will open for the season Sept. 18, with Francis Wilson, in the new three act operetta, "Cyrano de Bergerac," the music of which is by Victor Herbert, the lyrics by Harry B. Smith and the book by Stuart Reed.

CHAS. FROHMAN, acting upon a suggestion, has arranged with several livery stables to provide forty carriages at each of his theatres, to be in waiting at the end of the performance to serve the patrons of his house without exacting exorbitant prices. Purchasers of seats may leave their order at his box offices at any time before the end of the play, or upon passing out of the theatre they may stop at the box office and order a cab at a fixed rate, paying the price through the box office window. The rate of charges has been announced, and persons patronizing the carriages secured through Mr. Frohman's agency may stop for supper, for an unlimited time, by paying $1 extra.

DANIEL FROHMAN on Aug. 15 assumed control of Daly Theatre. His first official act was to begin the organization of his staff by appointing James C. Duff, the late Mr. Daly's brother in law, as business manager, the post occupied through Mr. Daly's regime by Richard Dorney. W. N. Lawrence will continue to be business manager for the Lyceum Theatre and direct Mr. Frohman's traveling companies.

LEE HARRISON has resigned from Weber & Fields' employ and signed to-day with Rogers Brothers for their early production of "The Rogers Brothers in Wall Street," at Oscar Hammerstein's Victoria.

"THE ONLY WAY," the new English play which Henry Miller will produce at the Herald Square Theatre, Sept. 18, under the management of Charles Frohman, is a dramatization of "A Tale of Two Cities," by Freeman Wills, brother and biographer of the late W. G. Wills, the writer of poetical plays.

WEBER & FIELDS have decided to sell at auction the first night seats for their new burlesque, "Whirligig," to be produced early next month. The money realized over and above their regular prices for seats will be donated to the sufferers from last week's tornado and waterspout, which devastated certain sections of Porto Rico.

GEORGE W. LEDERER has engaged Kitty Loftus, known as "the English Yvette Guilbert," to appear during the closing weeks of the Aerial Magnolia Roof Garden.

Pleasure Palace.—The continuous vaudeville programmes at Mr. Proctor's handsome uptown theatre are of an evenly excellent standard, irrespective of weather conditions. This week's bill is headed by those veteran burnt cork stars, McIntyre and Heath, and the audiences present Aug. 21, by their constant laughter while this team was on the stage gave the best proof that these minstrel boys have lost none of their olden time favor with vaudeville patrons. Acrobatic foolery was supplied by Farnum and Seymour. Another acrobatic turn that received undoubted marks of popular favor was that of Patterson Bros. on the horizontal bars, hearty plaudits being justly awarded them. Mlle. Azara presented a novelty act, embracing many pretty pictures, illuminated by many colored electric lights into beautiful designs. H. V. Fitzgerald, a new comer at this house, presented a kind of Fregoli act. Anna Lonnborg, the possessor of a sweet contralto voice, rendered several musical selections in a charming manner, and won instant favor. Paxton and Jerome, in illustrated songs, was likewise well received. The Military Trio, whose voices blended harmoniously, were warmly welcomed. Knox Wilson, in his monologue, talked himself into favor, with the aid of music evoked from various instruments. M. Mathieu juggled numerous articles in a dexterous manner. The Lorraines comedy sketch duo were also the recipients of well merited applause. Up to date views of art and travel were continued entertainingly and instructively. Sunday's continuous concert employed the services of Chas. T. Ellis and company, Canfield and Carleton, Gordon Edrid, Falka and Lillian, Mack and Daly, Grant and Grant, Earl and Wilson, Chevriel and others. Robert Downing is heavily underscored as making his uptown vaudeville debut next week, in "Paris in 1793."

Aerial Magnolia Grove.—Big business is still the rule at this resort, where an excellent entertainment is always assured. The bill for week of Aug. 21 included several newcomers, the big typed number being furnished by Marie Dressler, who met with her usual good reception. Those expert triple bar performers, the Van Aukens, reappeared after a lapse of a few weeks, for a return engagement of two weeks, and were accorded a most hearty welcome. The neatness and grace, as well as the difficult feats performed, have won for this team a prominence attained by few in their line of work. Montgomery and Stone, resplendant in their "coon" dude costumes, presented their black face act, and with their very clever dancing, their singing and talking became favorites at once. The Beaumont Sisters, in their pleasing songs and dances, duplicated their previous metropolitan successes. Harding and Ah Sid, in their comedy acrobatics, were well liked. Mlle. Olive gave good satisfaction in her juggling act. The popular numbers held over included those furnished by Mlle. Lotty, Prof. Walton and his monkey gymnasts, Polk and Collins, banjoists; Maggie Cline, Rola and Nellie Hawthorne, La Petite Adelaide, the Hawaiian Queens, the Tiller dancing quartet, the Manhattan Trio, the Sisters Bell, Mlle. Erna and her trained dogs, Carmelita and Senor Rafael, the Three Sisters Ronay, Christopher Bruno and Mayme Gehrue, and Carl Marwig's acrobatic ballet. Kitty Loftus, a sister of Cissie Loftus, is announced to make her American debut 28.

Casino Roof Garden.—There were only a few vacant seats here on Aug. 21, half an hour after the performance began, and these were rapidly finding occupants when the shower which visited town on that evening smote the seekers after the above stairs brand of entertainment full and sore. In the bill are many performers whose efforts are familiar to regular attendants here, and the greeting given them showed unmistakably how favorable was the impression they had made. The newcomers stood shoulder to shoulder with the veterans of this roof in point of merit, and succeeded in winning their spurs in the first engagement. They include Sig. Ricci, a capital violinist; Baranco Troupe, in a worthy dancing novelty; Bessie Seymour, in a darkey act, and Deas and Wilson, a pair of comedians who can serve entertainment with a relishing spice to it. Continued in the bill are: Gladys Van, Annabelle Moore, Will H. Sloan and Gilbert Gregory, Little Elsie, Hattie Welles, Christine Blessing, Ruth White, Wm. English and Maud Courtney. "The Maid in the Moon" is still in evidence, as are Rice's March of Amazons, Sailor Ballet, Cornstalk Novelty and the travesty on "Way Down East."

Proctor's Theatre.—An excellent bill was presented Aug. 21, for week, at this resort, and despite the torrid weather audiences of fair proportions witnessed the opening performances. That clever pair of delineators of New England life and dialect, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sidman, headed the bill, and presented their pretty little sketch, "Back Home," in which they scored an undoubted success. Canfield and Carleton offered a new operatic travesty and were, as usual, top line favorites. Reno and Richards, in their eccentric comedy acrobatic sketch, were as popular as ever. Annie Whitney sang in her pleasing style, and added new admirers to her already long list. Fialkowski gave his interesting animal imitation act and scored well. The Valmore Sisters, in an acrobatic act, were soon well up among the favorites, and Bobby Mack and Minnie Daly, in their comedy sketch, were amusing. Anna Wilks, comedienne, soon sang herself into the good graces of her hearers, and Evans and White, in a black face song and dance act, came in for a good share of approval. Hayes and Healy, acrobatic and dancing comedians, were well liked. Edw. J. Boyle, blind pianist; Joe Gretz, club juggler, and Kit Koster, with sharpshooting on the wire, were other numbers which found favor. Views of travel, and piano solos by Fred. Watson completed the bill. The usual Sunday concerts were given 29, and were well attended.

Madison Square Roof Garden.—"In the Event of Rain" proved an important billing factor on Monday, Aug. 21, as the audience had but fairly settled themselves on the roof when the rain drove them to the shelter of the music hall. The audience, which made a fine showing on the roof, packed the music hall, and but for the untimely rain all the week would have opened with another monster turnout to gladden Manager E. J. Nugent's heart. The attendance was extremely gratifying under the circumstances, in spite of the fact that late comers, who ordinarily fill all the vacant stations, were non est. Provided none of the performers disappeared during the exodus from the roof to the music hall, and it is not known that they did, the amusement was furnished by John T. Tierney, a clever singer of good Irish songs; Zelma Rawlston, vocalist in character and a truly lightning changeist; Barton and Echoff, eccentric musical comedians; Flatow and Dunn, acrobatic, comedy and singing; Grace Mantell, soprano; Belle Hathaway's Animal Circus; Frank O'Brien in monologue entertainment, Frank Bush, mimic, and John W. Isham's octoroon chorus in timely coon song offerings.

Third Avenue Theatre.—"The Sleeping City" is another melodramatic offering at this house. This production was well received last season and its success is duplicated this week, opening Aug. 21. The cast is competent and a number of clever specialties give occasional relief from the excitement. Rogers Barker plays Jack Morton, Clara M. Langley is Ethel Balintree, and Dell Lincoln is seen in the soubrette role. Maggie Riley. Others in support are: Lester A. Davis, George Warnock, Fred Daly, Tom Flynn, Edward W. Hinue, J. B. Boardman, Frank Auburne, E. F. Van Rensaler, George Flint, Madge Olinger and Nellie Daly. Harry F. Winsman is manager for A. Q. Scammon, Homer B. Day, representative; Fred Daly, stage manager; T. C. Dorlan, master of properties. Next week Miles McCarthy, in "Dear Hearts of Ireland."

Atlantic Garden.—The programme week of Aug. 21 includes Hodges and Launchmere, the clever colored singers and dancers; the Nola Family, Hickey and Nelson, Irma Harper, Jack Noble and Joy and Clayton.

Star Theatre.—R. M. Gulick & Co. began another season of direction at this popular downtown combination house on Saturday evening, Aug. 19, presenting, for the first time on any stage, Samuel Blair's four act scenic melodrama, "The Queen of Chinatown," by Joseph Jarrow, revised and staged under the direction of James R. Garey, with Jeffreys Lewis featured in the excellent presenting company. The play, the story of which will be published in a subsequent issue, was cast as follows: Lieut. Harry Hildreth, U. S. N., Harry Mainhall; Hop Lee, Logan Paul; Danny Driscol, J. E. Miltern; Jack Fogerty, Jos. Hazelton; Freckles, Jos. Sparks; Rev. Frank Parker and Huffnagel, S. M. Seidman; Willie Huffnagel, Master Willie Israel; Sergent Mack, Walter Moffat; Whistling Joe, Louis M. Granat; One Lung, Thos. Weils; Tom Sing, Charlie Lockee; Sam Foy, Fah Sing; Ah Fong, Tow Sing; Francis Parker, Rachael Sterling; Columbia, Nettie Trabaud; Mrs. Huffnagle, Josie Sullivan; Mary Hildrith, Lucille Loring; Madge, Gussie Tilden; Mercides, Olive Keene; Mamie, Edith Shelton; Belle, Marion Nelson; Beezle, Jeffreys Lewis. The attendance on the opening night, and also on Monday, 21, overwhelmed the capacity of the house, the standing room being completely filled, while throngs of expectant ticket purchasers were turned away unsatisfied. This condition of affairs prevailed during the greater part of last season, and from the opening indications another period of remarkable prosperity is in store for the popular Star. The Chinatown locale of the play has been advantageously accepted for the scenic mountings of the play, Harley Merry being responsible for several settings of uncommon splendor and realistically effective. Hop Lee's gambling den, the Doyer Street Mission School, Mott Street, One Lung's opium joint, the rat pit and cobbler's shop, a concert hall scene, and other striking reflections of Chinatown vistas, are prominent adjuncts to the wholly effective presentation of the play. The introduction of several Celestials, and the careful costuming of the players, adds realism to the several scenes, and the introduction of many clever specialties enlivens the action throughout. Miss Lewis presented an evenly effective portrayal of the principal role, adding materially to her laurels thereby, and was prominently well assisted by Harry Mainhall, Logan Paul, J. E. Miltern, the good company being otherwise conscientious and capable in the portrayal of the roles assigned to their interpretation. Nellie Seymour, Josie Sullivan, Pattie Henri, Elsieta, S. M. Seidman, Nettie Trabaud, Joseph Sparks and Louis Granet contributed clever specialties, some in addition to carrying a role in the play, while others were specially engaged. The audience waxed enthusiastic during many of the scenes, and by frequent applause, amounting to a general demonstration of complete approval, gave evidence of thorough enjoyment of a cleverly constructed and well acted play. The interest shown by patrons of the house in the first two presentations makes reasonable the expectations of a profitable week. Samuel Blair will have the assistance of D. J. Merchant, advance representative; Geo. Israel, treasurer; L. W. Browning, carpenter; Sidney Spandauer, property man; Joseph Jarrow, stage director, and Logan Paul, stage manager, during the forthcoming road tour of the play. The next attraction, Aug. 28-Sept. 2, will be Howard M. Hull, in his own play, 'A Soldier of the Empire." E. J. Nugent was on hand at the opening of the house to welcome the legion of friends he has made during his past business management thereof. His success has been great and there seems no reason to doubt that the coming season will evidence further signs of his competency. His Sunday concerts will be soon re-established, when he will resume the presentation of high class vaudeville. The policy of popular prices will continue at all performances here during the season.

Keith's Union Square Theatre.—While late comers were compelled to be satisfied with standing room on Monday, Aug. 21, the extreme heat had a serious effect upon the average of attendance noted here of late. Ching Ling Foo continues the chief magnet, and constantly mystifies the most scrutinous observer. His tricks of necromancy are truly wonderful. Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew were among surroundings where they had formerly triumphed, and their hearty welcome was a foregone conclusion. Their presentation of the little playlet, "When Two Hearts Are Won," gained a renewed success for them. Caicedo's remarkable performances on the bounding wire won a strong hit, and Tommy O'Brien and Clara Havel again scored a whirlwind success, mainly through Mr. O'drien's clever acrobatics, although Miss Havel was warmly applauded for her contributions to the excellent act. Geo. H. Davis was at his best, a guarantee of splendid entertainment, and his brainy monologue and clever impersonation won for him a decided success. Carr and Jordan's comedy efforts were appreciatively applauded, and the Angela Sisters scored their accustomed hit. Rice and Cady, German comedians of more than average ability; the Hunting Trio, clever acrobats and dancers; the Colbys, in a good musical act, the lady's yodeling scoring a hit; Doll and Burden, club experts, and Amorita, a neat dancer, contributed with excellent results towards a bill made complete by the animated picture displays of the American biograph. Resident Manager Rogers and General Booking Agent Sam K. Hodgdon have returned from their vacations, and matters have consequently settled down to a regular season basis.

Grand Central Palace Roof Garden.—Rain has but little terror for the management of this roof, for accommodations on the enclosed palm garden adjoining the open air resort are ample, and here the large gathering of folks were quickly transferred on Aug. 21, when the falling moisture began to assert its rights of free room out of doors. The programme was, of course, excellent. Bryant and Saville were in the van of the entertainers, and they made things hum both musically and humorously. Harry Thomas found no difficulty in bringing his budget of funnyisms prominently before his auditors, while Gracey and Burnett, whose act contains the wherewithal with which to provoke many a side aching laugh, made the success which usually goes to their lot. Eleanor Falk's contribution was neat and well liked, and Margaret Rosa and Vera Hartle offered an act which was replete with good things in the vocal line, and some clever comedy work. There is plenty of the right sort of ginger in this act, and Miss Rosa's wench is a creation which never leaves the "nigger" groove in which it is meant to run. Their Dutch pickaninnies are a new and a good feature. Barton and Ashley, the walking delegates, got fully into the good graces of the audience without requiring any special exertion on their part, which speaks well for their worth, while Harry Le Clair, with his character work, kept well up to date and interesting in all its phases, appears capable of making a run here which should close only with the roof garden season. The American vitagraph is still well liked, and Robert Recker's harmonists give selections that frequently win some hearty applause.

Huber's Palace Museum. Here Manager Anderson again presents good entertainment in its class. The curio hall display for the week of Aug. 21 engages Andy Hull, with an iron skull; Rice's trained pigs; Eddy and Amy, illusionists; Volga, a snake charmer; Sengel, a foot balancer, and others. The theatre bill calls for the services of Cholius and St. Alba, Sinclair and Carlisle, the Revere Sisters, Russell and Bell, the Hawleys and More. Business on the opening afternoon and evening of the week was excellent.

New York.—The eighteenth week of "The Man in the Moon" began Aug. 21 at this resort, and the box office returns continue to be highly satisfactory.

THE ROBERT BLEI SYNDICATE, of New York City, with a capital of $50,000, organized "to give theatrical entertainments and build theatres," was incorporated by the Secretary of State, at Albany, Aug. 21. The directors are Robert Blei, Moses H. Levy, Sidney Cohen, Simon Dessau and Samuel M. Lyons, of New York. The other directors, aside from Mr. Blei, hold simply enough stock to qualify. The company is organized to operate Koster & Bial's.

Tony Pastor's Theatre.—Monday afternoon and evening business was very good here in spite of the onslaughts of humidity, the excellence of the bill serving to counteract the weather's evil effects to a considerable degree. Mr. and Mrs. Nawn, presenting "The Politician," are the topping features, and scored a deservedly pronounced success. Mr. Nawn's talents for character delineations find ample scope in the amusing sketch, and Mrs. Nawn renders competent assistance towards bringing their offering to a successful issue. Williams and Tucker repeated their previous successes in their presentation of "Skinny's Finish," their clever character work proving a decidedly entertaining factor in the amusement. Jas. S. Terry and Mabel Lambert made a notable hit with their singing, and the rather neat sketch incidental thereto, the total being a most meritorious inning. The refined musical speciality introduced by the Tobins scored one of the hits of the bill, and Andy Amann and Frances Hartley contributed a comedy skit under the caption of "A Clear Case." They were exceedingly popular. Mlle. Alexandra Martens and Nellie Hanlon displayed crack marksmanship in trick and fancy rifle shooting, and Keno, Welch and Melrose, kept the audience busy with alternating laughter and applause for good comedy and clever acrobatics. The American vitagraph projected animated pictures of uncommon interest, and the bill was completed by Steve and Flossie Finn, with singing, dancing and acrobatic comedy; Howard Thurston, coin manipulations; Fostelle and Emmett, in a character musical act; Otto Johnson, a comedy prestidigitateur; Adams, Casey and Howard, a comedy musical trio, and Blanche Ring, singing comedienne. Ada Jones, entering upon her third successive week, has made herself immensely popular through her sweet singing, and is likely to continue an established favorite.

Casino.—"The Rounders" began on Aug. 21 the seventh week of its run. The attendance is still good, and was no doubt increased on that date by the rain storm, which interfered with roof entertainments.

RICHARD MANSFIELD'S appearance in this city will be deferred until the latter part of November, when he will again present his successful play, "Cyrano de Bergerac," for a limited period. After this he proposes to give a new play of an elaborate kind, which he prefers not to make public for the present. The company has been called for the first rehearsals of 'Cyrano de Bergerac" on Aug. 24, after which it will go direct to Chicago, to play a limited engagement in that city, at the Grand Opera House.

Brooklyn.—Harry W. Semon's Extravaganza Co. furnishes an abundance of amusement at the Star Theatre this week. He has an excellent company, and all the specialties are good. The people include Annie Hart, Brown, Harrison and Brown, a comedy team; Cross and Holden, novelty dancers; Mildred Howard de Grey, barefoot passion dancer; Lola Barrington and Marion Martell, in an original comedy creation; Clifford and Dixon, comedians; Barrington and Martell, the fashion plate serio comics, and Constantine's Little Colt Ballet Troupe, who appear in their unique dances, viz.: "The School Girls' Frolics," "Roosevelt's Rough Riders" and "In the Streets of Cairo." There is a chorus of twelve, and a burlesque in three scenes, called "A Devil Among Women," produced under the direction of Clement St. Martine. New music has been arranged, and new features are introduced. Semon has engaged Emma Carus, a female baritone, as an extra attraction.

MANHATTAN BEACH.—Weber & Fields' popular company enjoyed a most successful opening week, drawing big houses at each performance, and the indications thus far this week are that they will continue their prosperity during their three weeks stay.

BRIGHTON BEACH.—A unusually attractive bill has been arranged for the current week. It includes Charles T. Ellis, who is supported by his own company, in a one act comedy, entitled "Mrs. Hogan's Music Teacher;" Della Rocca, a violinist; Eldora and Norine, equilibrists and jugglers; Herbert's dog circus; Favor and Sinclair, in a sketch, and Edna Bassett Marshall, vocalist. Professor Slafer's band concerts, given before and after the show, are even more popular than earlier in the season. Mr. Slafer takes great pains in arranging the pieces for his band concerts.

CONEY ISLAND.—Captain Paul Boyton's Shooting the Chutes Park has been converted into a fairy land by his constantly adding new features, all of which are of that dare-devil, risky, hazardness nature that has marked the career of the man who heads the concern. One of the most curious as well as interesting things to be enjoyed there is "The River," which runs through a wild and romantic glen, winding in and out through the high peaks and long rocky ranges that rise abruptly in towers and pinnacles, splintered and riven in all manner of fantastic shapes, and is about an eighth of a mile in length. It is picturesque, and scenically is one of the most remarkable things ever invented to please the public. Another novelty, that will be seen here for the first time this week, is Prof. G. F. Holloway's white wonders, plunging and high diving horses. These are as fine a pair of Arabian horses as can be found in this country. Mr. Holloway raised them, and he has pedigrees as long as his arm for each horse. Undoubtedly these diving horses are the greatest feature ever seen at this place of all wonders. Thousands of people are attracted to the performances, and the act is as daring as it is really surprising and awe inspiring. The other specialties are Prof. Ben Woodger, the aquatic comedian, as Ally Sloper, in his famous water pantomine, "The Walrus Hunt" and "Sloper's Picnic;" Richard Vrooman, in his thrilling ride down the chute on a bicycle at a speed of 100 miles an hour; Martie Sprague, female high diver, who makes a descent each afternoon, and a sensational fire dive at night; Hall McFall, expert water log performer; Andre and Golden, high divers; Joseph Columbia, in his terrific slide of 700 feet, while suspended by his teeth; H. H. Robins, Monte Cristo sack dive and under water long distance swimmer; Wild Burt's remarkable feats in marksmanship. A pleasing display of stereopticon pictures and the grand naval battle wind up the programme. Other attractions are Robinson Crusoe and his island home, sea lions, turtles and several species of wild and tame fowls.

—NOTES.—Manager Harry C. Kennedy and his family returned home Aug. 19 from their Summer home up in the wilds of Maine, and the genial manager is as brown as a berry. His outing has greatly improved his health, and he shows signs of Aldermanic proportions around his girth. He will reopen the Bijou Theatre Saturday evening, Sept. 2, with "Devil's Island." .....The Montauk Theatre will be reopened on Labor Day, with a matinee performance, when Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon will present "The Moth and the Flame".....Lew Parker will be the next manager of the Grand Opera House. The season will reopen with a matinee on Labor Day, when "Under the Red Robe" will be the attraction.

NEW YORK STATE.

Albany.—A hot wave and the opening of the Fall season came together during the past week, with somewhat disastrous effect on the attendance.

THE EMPIRE THEATRE opened on Wednesday evening, Aug. 16, with Wm. H. West's Minstrels, and, notwithstanding the heat, a large audience was present. Johnstone Bennett, in "A Female Drummer," did not fare so well the following three nights, 17-19, as the attendance was light. Commencing Monday, 21, for two weeks, Corse Payton's Stock Co. will hold forth, giving a long repertory of plays, including "Woman Against Woman," "The Runaway Wife," "First Families of Virginia," "The White Slave," "The Banker's Daughter" and "For His Sake."

HARMANUS LYCEUM offered all last week the White Opera Co., in popular light operas. "The Bohemian Girl," "Martiana," "Two Vagabonds" and "La Mascotte" were sung during the week, to fair attendance. The company holds over this week, and as an added attraction Pauline Hall will appear between the acts. Week of 28, "London Life" and "Two Little Vagrants."

PROCTOR'S LELAND is now giving a preliminary vaudeville season, with gratifying success, considering the intense heat. The people that figured during the past week were: McIntyre and Heath, Paxton and Jerome, Chas. DeCamo, Tom Brown, Anderson and Engelhart, Abbot Davidson and Chevriel. The current week will see Geo. Henry Trader and company in a sketch, "Oscar's Birthday;" Brothers Abacco, Jordan and Welsh, Athea Twins, Dan McCarthy, the Devantis, Waly and Ardell, and Ed. Rogers.

THE GAIETY THEATRE closed a successful engagement with the Mariettascope Company pictures of the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries fight. The Fall opening will be Sept. 4.

LAGOON ISLAND.—The Hudson River Summer resort between Albany and Troy has had a very successful season so far, great crowds being on the grounds at all times. The vaudeville theatre is well patronized. The programme during the past week included Ada Malone, Pearl Revere, Short and Edwards, Smith and Yorker, Sullivan and Pasqueiena.

Buffalo.—Two of our leading theatres will throw open their season gates Aug. 28, and a very lively time is expected for the inaugural week at both houses, owing to a rivalry in minstrelsy, a prominent company of that persuasion appearing at either house, and the odd spectacle is presented of Primrose and West in battle array at the ancient stand of Bisonville. Half the walls and tree tops of the city are clad with minstrel paper.

MUSIC HALL.—The work of transforming the big hall into a modern and first class theatre has been begun, and the opening is promised for January.

SHEA'S GARDEN THEATRE is this week enjoying the blissful distinction of being the only theatre in town with open doors, and the usual story of the crowds will more than hold good. People here are: Hayes and Lytton, J. Moire, Marshall and Darling, Kelly and Ashby, Lew Hawkins, Jack Marshall Quintet, Prof. Leonidas' dogs and cats, Sophie Burnham and Hal Merritt. Mme. Herrmann next week.

STAR THEATRE.—Primrose & Dockstader's Minstrels appear week of 28, starting the regular season at this house.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Wm. H. West's Minstrels appear here next week, also inaugurating the Lyceum's season. "London Life" follows.

MANAGER JULE DELMAR'S roster at the Celoron Theatre, Chautauqua Lake, for week ending 19, was: Howard's Ponies, Robbins, Swan and Bambard, Stanley and Jackson, the Tennis Trio, Maddox and Wayne, and Jessie Millar. The Spooners in repertory are there this week. Excellent attendance is reported. Maro made a hit at the Assembly grounds 17-19.

Troy.—At the Griswold Opera House, Aug. 14, William H. West's Minstrel Jubilee packed the theatre to the doors. A vaudeville company came 21 and for the week. Pauline Hall is booked for 28.

STAR THEATRE.—The season will open at this house Sept. 4.

Newburg.—At the Academy of Music Manager Taylor inaugurated the opening of his tenth consecutive season Aug. 16, with Black Patti's Troubadours as the attraction, and they proved a drawing card despite the intense humidity of the weather. Many out of town theatre parties were present, composed of boarders summering in this vicinity. Hoyt's "A Black Sheep" comes 24, George Thatcher's Minstrels 25, both promising to do well. Andrew Mack is underlined for 28, Murray and Mack 30. Glenwood Park continues to hive big business. It is evidently the intention of the management to make this season a record breaker as regards excellence of the vaudeville attractions. The Imperial Minstrels, which includes the Americus Comedy Four, holds the boards 21-26. Finn and Finn, Ethel Vane, Harry Stewart and Maude Adams were the drawing cards last week. Columbus Hall will cater for business again this season, but has booked nothing as yet other than local.....Since the Academy of Music was last open there have been numerous changes about the establishment. The scenery has all been retouched and fitted up for the season's work and several additions made. An exit for the east half of the orchestra seat occupants has been made on the Grand Street side. A window looking into the auditorium has been put in Manager Taylor's private office, and with a complete system of electric bells and speaking tubes he is now able to remain at his desk and be in communication with every section of the building.

Poughkeepsie.—The Corse Payton Stock Co. closed a successful week's engagement at the Collingwood Opera House Aug. 19. Clever specialties by Harry Mantell, Emma De Castro, Little Joey and Richard P. Crolius were well received at every performance. Among the plays presented, and which served to attract large audiences, were: "Woman Against Woman," "For His Sake," "The First Families of Virginia," "The White Slave," "On the Rappahannock" and others. Coming: "A Stranger in New York" Aug. 24, Thatcher's Minstrels 26, Andrew Mack 29.....Gertrude Daly, of Frohman's forces, and a sister of Wm. Josh Daly, of minstrel fame, is resting with friends in this city.

Geneva.—At the Smith Opera House the regular season opens Aug. 26, with "The Evil Eye," to be followed by "A Trip to Chinatown," Sept. 8.

NEW JERSEY.—[See Page 512.]

Trenton.—George Thatcher's Minstrels was the opening attraction at Taylor's Opera House, Aug. 16. Business was good and the performance gave good satisfaction. The Elroy Stock Co. opened here 21 for week, to good business. To come: "When London Sleeps" 28, Geo. Monroe Sept. 1, "The Rays" 2, Robert Mantel 4, "Span of Life" 5, "Day and a Night" 9.

BIJOU THEATRE.—Electric fans contributed largely to the success of the European Sensation Burlesque and Specialty Co., which closed a very successful week 19. The Victoria Burlesquers 21-25, Matt Flynn's Big Sensation Co. 26 and all of the following week.

EDEN THEATRE.—The interior of this house has been changed throughout, new galleries have been added and a number of new and cosey private boxes lend tone to the lower floor.

Newark.—The first theatre to be opened for the season here will be Waldmann's Opera House. The first performance will be given by Clark Bros.' Royal Burlesquers, on Saturday night, Aug. 26. The company will stay the following week.....On Monday night, 28, the Jaxon Opera Co. will begin a three weeks' engagement at the Newark Theatre, preceeding the regular season of the house. Popular prices will prevail and "Nanon" will be the first opera given.....Manager Jacobs called the members of the Columbia Theatre Stock Company together last week and rehearsals were begun for the production of "The Charity Ball," which will start the season on Labor Day..... Manager Hyams, who leased Waldmann's New Theatre at the end of last season, has renamed it the Empire. The house will be opened the first week in September as a family theatre, with prices ranging from fifteen to seventy-five cents. A NEW PLAY.

"Brother Officers,"

A comedy, in three acts, by Leo Trevor, was given its first American production Aug. 7, at the Columbia Theatre, San Francisco, Cal., by Henry Miller and company. The work was originally acted Oct. 20, 1898, at the Garrick Theatre, London, Eng., by Arthur Bourchier and company. The story deals mainly with the trials of Lieut. Hinds, who has just been promoted from the ranks for bravery, in his endeavor to master the social requirements of his position. We learn that Hinds had, by a daring act, saved the life of Lieut. Pleydell endangered by a Bengal tiger. Upon his promotion to the First Regiment he meets the man whose life he had saved, and asks as a sole reward that the officer see him through the difficult mazes of society and make a gentleman of him. The brave young soldier knows very little of the manners of polite society and makes his first blunder by inviting some visiting ladies to have wine. Pleydell has told him to be genial and easy, and Hinds takes this method, which is in direct opposition to the rules of the regiment. The Baroness Roydon, who is a friend of Pleydell and knows of the new officer's act of bravery, is visiting the barracks with some friends, and by a very neat action turns the serious looking affair of the officer's invitation into one of little moment. She asks for a glass of wine and thereby offsets Major Stapylton's angry arraignment. The baroness and Pleydell are in love with each other, but the latter finds matters growing uncomfortable owing to a debt he owes Mr. Hutton, who seeks to enter into society by the aid of Pleydell's position. The young officer is about to resign from the regiment when Lieut. Hinds discovers that Hutton is a thief and blackleg, who was responsible for his father's ruin some years before. He forces Hutton to leave the place, and arranges matters so that Pleydell can remain to win his sweetheart, although he himself has gradually fallen in love with the baroness. When he learns that the baroness reciprocates the affection of Pleydell, Hinds gives further proof of self-sacrifice by leaving the regiment to go to India.

RICHARD CROKER'S SWEET CHIMES, ridden by Reiff, the American jockey, won the Oxton Selling Plate, Aug. 18, at Nottingham, England. Another American jockey, "Skeets" Martin, was in a dead heat for place with Gold Paint, mounted on Solano. Martin rode Lord Wm. Beresford's Mela II to victory in the race for the Rufford Abbey Plate. He also won the Welbeck Abbey Plate, mounted on Lord Dunraven's Morgante.

W. B. M., Greenpoint.—Excepting that the party has her mail regularly sent to this office she is unknown to us.

C. H., Hamilton.—Cincinnati is a musical city and we suppose there are many composers there, but none of them are known to us.

J. K., Holyoke.—Whether or not you have to pay a war tax depends somewhat upon the nature of your entertainment. Consult any Collector of Internal Revenue.

T. D., Marion.—Advertise your wants in THE CLIPPER. See rates at head of this column.

BANJOIST.—You would find it impossible to obtain engagements in vaudeville houses, unless your banjo playing was only a part of a turn in which you played on other instruments.

H. T. N. H., Washington.—Address letter in care of THE CLIPPER and we will advertise it.

MRS. M. G. W., Lowell.—Address the party in care of THE CLIPPER.

J. G. B., South Manchester.—We have had no reason to doubt the reliability of the parties to whom you refer, but we cannot vouch for the standing of any one. It is possible that the money may have been purloined on the way. We advise you to write to them again asking if your previous letters were received.

H. M., Hartford.—The party is unknown to us, but if he is a professional you may address him in our care and we will advertise the letter.

A READER, Chambersburg.—1. For a dramatic or vaudeville company ten dollars; for a circus one hundred dollars. 2. In all States in which you play towns of 25,000 inhabitants or less. 3. The amount of the tax must be paid in each State in which you exhibit, but the amount decreases each month after July until the first of July following. 4. CARDS.

SERG'T F. C. B., Manila.—As applied to the act of dealing cards, "deal" is proper.

J. F. R., Portsmouth.—When there is a tie for game in seven up, or when there are no cards out that count toward game, the point is scored by the non-dealer.

G. J., Lewiston.—B, who needed but one point, won when he played low, notwithstanding that A made in play the three he bid. That fact did not give him precedence in the count, the cards ranking in value as follows: High, low, jack, game.

R. D. B., Hartford.—B, who wanted one point only, won with high. See answer to "G. J."

F. B., Lemont.—B has no run for the last card in 3, 10, 2, 5, 4, 3 and 4, on account of the first 4 intervening.

J. E. A., Newark.—B was out if his count was 1,000 or over. A should have kept better run of his game.

X. Y. Z.—In forty-fives, if the ace of hearts is led when hearts is not trump, a player holding no rump need not play a heart.

BASEBALL, CRICKET, ETC.

R. H. B., Milwaukee.—The base runner could not be put out until the ball had been returned to and by the pitcher standing in his position.

A. F., Lowell.—The game terminated when the team last at bat in the tenth inning scored the winning run, and the home run was not counted.

RING.

F. B., Bridgeport.—There is no recognized champion of the world at that weight. The last glove contest announced to be for the title was not fought at the proper weight limit, which is 133½.

D. E. B., Montreal.—The party referred to was Tom Sayers, whose right arm was so badly injured during his fight with John C. Heenan, by stopping the latter's blows, that it was of little use to him after the eighth round, although it was not powerless. They fought thirty-seven rounds before the referee left the ring side, and five scrambling rounds were fought afterwards. The stakes were afterwards drawn.

W. and M., Carbondale.—Patrick J. Corbett, father of Jim Corbett, shot and killed his wife Catharine, and then committed suicide, Aug. 16, 1898, in San Francisco, Cal.

UNITED STATES HOTEL, Saratoga.—1 to 2 indicates the favorite over 2 to 1.

F. N., New York.—1. Jim Mace first arrived in this country on Sept. 4, 1869, accompanied by his cousin, Pooley, and Fred Abrahams, his manager. 2. He defeated Tom Allen on May 10, 1870, and afterwards announced his retirement from the P. R. He entered into partnership with Phil Hargreaves in the cafe and restaurant business at 69 West Twenty-third Street, this city, the formal opening taking place on Oct. 8, 1870.

THE LEAGUE MEETING.

Interesting Professional and Amateur Racing—Good Runs and Other Enjoyable Features.

The annual national meet of the League of American Wheelmen opened at Boston, Mass., on Wednesday, Aug. 16, with headquarters at the Hotel Brunswick, on the stone steps of which favorite caravansary the annual group photograph of the members of the organization was taken, the picture including about two thousand heads. During the morning a series of runs took place, all of which were well attended. In the afternoon the track competitors commenced at Charles River Park, and proved generally very interesting, although the assemblage of spectators was not up to expectations. In the evening there was a display of fireworks on Boston Common, which was enjoyed by many thousands. The programme of the first day was to a large extent duplicated on the second day, save in the matter of races, which were better attended than on the preceding afternoon, while the runs, etc., were equally well patronized by the enthusiastic wheelmen and wheelwomen present. Announcement was made that on the previous day Tom Linton, the Welsh professional, had made application to the racing board for a hearing in his case, and that at a special meeting of the board in the evening he was reinstated. At a meeting of the National Assembly of local consuls at the Old Colonial Club House, in the morning, President Keenan made a speech, in the course of which he stated that the league had not lost any ground in the racing game, that the perfect organization of the Hub consulate made it the best in the country, and gave a brief outline of the status of the L. A. W., his words being attentively listened to by a large gathering. In the evening there was a run through the suburbs, followed by a stag smoker and entertainment at Mechanics' Building. Friday was devoted mainly to runs, all of which were well attended, the races in the evening attracting a large throng to the park. Linton Gains the Hour Record.

The special feature of a 'cycling meet at the Waltham, Mass., track, Aug. 15, was a twenty-five miles race, motor paced, for which five started, viz, Tom Linton, Burns Pierce, Harry E. Caldwell, W. Stimson and Downey, the midget, the latter not finishing the distance. Pierce went off with the lead, which he held for seven miles, when Linton, riding in grand form, got in front, where he remained till the finish, while Caldwell defeated Pierce for the place. Linton continued riding against time to secure the hour record, which appeared to be within reach, and, paced by his own team, with Fournier's pacing the other to keep off the wind, he accomplished his task, riding 34 miles 1,633yds., as against 34 miles 1,220yds. credited to Henry Elkes, when he defeated Linton in Philadelphia, last year. Linton's time for twenty-five miles was 42m. 41⅕s. The former hour record holder, Harry Elkes, was too ill to ride. The other events included in the programme resulted as appears in the appended summary:

Two miles, N. C. A. championship, professional.—Won by Tom Cooper, F. A. McFarland second, Earl Kiser third. Time, 4m. 13⅘s.

One mile.—Won by G. L. Howland, 35yds.; James Currie, 75yds., second; Fred Brown, 90yds., third. Time, 2m. 9⅕s.

Ten miles, paced.—Ryan defeated Farnham, the challenger. Time, 18m. 39⅗s.

Racing at Manhattan Beach.

Despite the excellent programme of races announced to be decided at the track, there was a comparatively small assemblage at the Manhattan course on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 19. The special event of the meeting was the one mile race between professionals for the championship of the National Cyclists' Association.

Corbin handicap, one mile, amateur.—Won by Frank Kramer, Harlem Wheelmen, scratch; W. F. Wahrenberger, Greenwich W., scratch, second; A. W. Ross, Harrison, N. J., 20yds., third. Time, 2m. 5⅕s.

THE WHITE PLAINS WHEELMEN will hold its initial annual meet on the half mile track of the Westchester County Horse Show Association on Sept 16, this being the pioneer N. C. A. meet in that county. The events will consist of a one mile novice, one mile county championship, one mile handicap, five miles team pursuit race for county teams only, twenty miles handicap, a motor exhibition for county records, and one professional event. Entries close Sept. 13, with L. E. Holden, 35 Warren Street, New York City.

TEDDY HALE, the long distance 'cyclist, is now engaged in the greatest undertaking of his career as a rider. On July 31 he started from the Acatene Chainless 'Cycle Company's works in Holborn Viaduct, London, Eng., in an attempt to ride one hundred miles daily in the next twelve months, making 31,300 miles in all, over roads.

H. WATERS, of the Sparkbrook 'Cycle Club, on July 31, made a successful attack upon the Midland road record, from Birmingham to London, Eng., and return, completing the distance, 208 miles, in 12h. 28m. 51s. W. J. Goodwin held the previous record, 12h. 32m.

WILLIAM MACDONALD, at Leith, Scot., on July 31 established a fresh record for the ascent and descent of Ben Nevis, he accomplishing the journey in 2h. 18m., beating the previous record by two minutes.

EDOUARD TAYLOR, the speedy and enduring Frenchman, on Aug. 13 essayed to eclipse the hour record, 34 miles 1 223 yards, accomplished by Harry D. Elkes in 1898. The attempt was made at the Parc de Princes track, Paris, Fr., and paced by some very fast motor tandems, Taylor got inside record at seven miles, and stayed there to the end of the hour, covering 35 miles 698 yards, and lowering all intermediate mile records from seven forward.

J. GREEN, in a trial against the standing start paced record for one mile, at the Crystal Palace track, London, Eng., Aug. 2, made new world's records from a quarter mile to the finish, viz.: Quarter, 27⅖s.; half, 51⅕s.; three-quarters, 1m. 15s.; one mile, 1m. 40⅘s. He was paced by a motor tandem.

Baseball.

MAJOR LEAGUE.

Brooklyn Still Leads the Procession—Second Place in Doubt—Results of Games.

It really begins to look as if New York will not win the pennant this year. While there has been a reasonable doubt at some time in the past, it is now clear that the chances for the emblem are growing considerably smaller as the season draws nearer the end. There were so many "ifs," "wherefores" and one thing another placed in New York's way that made it almost impossible for the team to reach the persimmon. For instance, had Rusie come to terms; had Meekin remained here instead of going to Boston; had the other "twirlers" pitched championship ball, instead of what they did do; had all the players batted above the .300 per cent. mark and accomplished other rare feats in team work; had Boston contributed Collins and Duffy, instead of taking Meekin; had Farrell and McGuire stopped off at the Polo Grounds, instead of locating at Brooklyn; had—but, pshaw! What is the use in enumerating all the causes that stood between New York and the pennant, when the few things above mentioned suffice to show an unreasonable public what obstacles are thrown in a team's way to prevent it from reaching first place in the race. Of course, this does not happen to all teams with pennant aspirations, but there is always something that hinders the ones who do fail to win the coveted prize.

Laying joking aside, New York has a pennant winning team, just as it stands, with each man in his home position, providing they put up the game of ball they are capable of playing. Early in the year President Freedman, of the local club, announced that the New Yorks could win the pennant, and he was laughed at, while all sorts of disparaging remarks were made about him and his team. Yet it has been fully demonstrated time and again during the current season that the New Yorks might have finished one, two or three in the pennant race if they had played the same kind of fast and winning ball right along that they have played at times. They have played many fast games which were lost by one run, and there are many other things which they have done that should have placed more victories to their credit; that only goes to show what they might have accomplished under different conditions. Undoubtedly Rusie would have strengthened the team had he come to terms with the management, but his absence has nothing to do with the poor showing made by the team. Still, Rusie and Meekin, with Seymour, Carrick and Doheny and the rest of the team as it is properly made up, the New Yorks would be as formidable and as worthy a combination as one would want to have represent this great city. No one questions their ability to bat, field and run the bases with the best of them; nor can it be said that the men are unfamiliar with other points in team work. Whether or not their poor showing this season has been through lack of proper management we will not undertake to decide. Still, there is some cause for it, which the public would like to find out.

The Brooklyns still lead the procession in the pennant race, and are likely to remain in the van for another week or so, even if they do not win the emblem. Now that one or two of their pitchers are rounding to, they should be in fine shape for a hard finish. The Brooklyns have been called "quitters," and other such pet names, but there has been no evidence so far that they deserve such titles. They went to the front early in the race, and have remained there ever since, and at no stage of the proceedings have they had any reason for developing a yellow streak. None of the other teams have been close enough to them to dispute their hold on first place. That being the case, why should they be called "quitters?" Brooklyn is made up in part of the old Britimore team, who were either pennant winners or pennant disputers for the past five seasons, and no one ever thought of calling them quitters. The only thing that can be said about the team, and that is not to its discredit, is that it has not been supported in the manner it should be for the position it holds in the pennant race. That is the fault of the people, which the team has nothing to do with. Had Manager Hanlon been able to place his team unhampered in New York, and it had occupied first place, a different story might be told. Still, that has nothing to do with the way the matter stands today, other than if New York had a winning team up among the leaders the attendance at Brooklyn would certainly be far better than it is. Manager Hanlon can strengthen his team at one or two points on the infield, and it would undoubtedly improve it very materially, and make its chances for the pennant much better than they are now. It seems to the uninterested that Jennings would make a far better first baseman than Anderson. The former is by far the latter's superior as a fielder, while there is no question about Jennings being the better batsman of the two, while he is one of the brainiest players in the profession. Third base can also be improved, but at the present time there doesn't appear to be a chance to get a man who can do anybetter than Casey is doing. At short and second base, behind the bat and in the outfield the Brooklyns are about as strong as they can be made. They are also in fairly good condition in the pitcher's department, but can stand one or two first class men even there before they can be called complete. Until the team has been rounded out to Mr. Hanlon's liking it can hardly be called a pennant winner; yet it is likely to fool a lot of people.

The champions are playing a great game on the baseball checkerboard. They keep shifting around here and there, but always in sight of the first place, even if they do not jump into that spot. No team in the major league is so well balanced, or so strong in every position, as the champions. Some of the other teams may have individual players as strong as those in the Boston team, if they are not better players, but as a whole the champions are "great." Then, too, they are in better trim at the present time than they were earlier in the season. Indeed, they have not been in better shape in some time than they are now. It was more through carelessness or overconfidence that they lost so many games this year than from any superiority of their opponents. The acquisition of Meekin, lately of the New Yorks, has greatly helped to strengthen the champions. Undoubtedly he is a great pitcher, and when in trim there are few, if any, better in the profession. He should do wonderful work with a team like Boston behind him.

The Philadelphias are still in the "band wagon," and that, too, despite the fact their star second baseman is on the hospital list, and likely to remain there for the rest of the season. It is needless to say had he been with the team right along it would have done far better than it has. Yet if it had done far better it would now be in first place, and even with the present team there is time enough to win the pennant. The question now is, will the Phillies be able to keep up with the Boston and Brooklyns when the pace is set down the home stretch? The Quakers' pitching department seems to be the only doubtful quantity in their makeup. They have been doing good and poor work by turns. If they can keep up the former in greater proportion until the end they might easily land the pennant. The team lacks nothing in the way of hard hitting to make it a winner.

Baltimore is another team that needs watching. It has been able to keep up with the leaders thus far, but the hottest part of the race has to come yet, and if it can hold its own then it has a pretty good chance for a place. As constructed Baltimore has not got what might be considered a champion team. It contains some excellent material, but the secret of its success lies in the way the men are handled. Manager McGraw is a star player and the greatest hustling captain on the ball field. He has done wonders with the material he had to work with, but it is yet to be seen whether or not he can keep them in the front rank when the teams turn into the home stretch.

The Cincinnatis had a great winning streak, capturing fourteen out of fifteen games before landing in New York, where they met their Waterloo. Their winning streak put them into the first division, and even with the defeats they sustained in this city they returned home in the same division. It must have been refreshing to the club's supporters to see the team take its great brace and win so many games. Can it keep up the good work to the end? If so, then it should hold a good position when the race is finished. It didn't start right after arriving home, but it may soon take another winning streak and go to the front.

New York vs. Louisville.

These teams having an open date, Aug. 15, met at the Polo Grounds, this city, and played off a game postponed by rain on Aug. 10. The Louisvilles won, chiefly through Doheny's wretched exhibition of pitching and fielding. He must have been trying to locate the home plate over the long distance telephone, or else had decided to ignore the use of such a thing. He was not batted so freely, but that was because he would not allow the ball to come within reaching distance of the visiting batsmen, and some of them became so restless that they cut wide swaths in the air trying to reach the ball. Doheny was not the only local player who did poorly. While the indifferent work of the other men does not stand out prominently in the score, it was weak and decidedly amateurish, including dumb fielding, stupid base running, and poor work at the bat when hits were needed that would have yielded runs. That the "Colonels" won was no fault of theirs, for their playing was very "Upper Sandusky;" any first class amateur nine should have beaten either of the teams with apparent ease. Each team started off in a lively manner, as though both were bent on doing mischief. At the end of the second inning the score was tied, and it remained so until the sixth inning, when the visitors took a lead and held it until the end. Louisville made nine safe hits, including a two baser by Wagner, off Doheny, who gave seven bases on balls, but another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out eight men. New York batted Dowling safely eleven times, including a double bagger by Warner, while he gave two bases on balls, made a wild pitch, and struck out four men. The visitors put up a far better fielding game than did the home team, the former making only three errors, while the latter were charged with nine five of which were chalked up against Doheny. It was a long drawn out, tedious, uninteresting affair, requiring 2h. 35m. before it ended. The score:

Louisville.....	3	1	0	0	0	1	2	2	0	—9
New York.....	3	1	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	—5

Washington vs. St. Louis.

The above named teams were scheduled for two games on Aug. 15, but rain interferred after one had been played. Probably it is just as well for Washington that the elements did cancel its second engagement, or it might have a still more doleful tale to tell of how it all happened. Now half of the excuses for its defeat will suffice. St. Louis easily won the game that was played, for it outpointed the locals at all stages. Washington aided the visitors very materially in winning by making costly errors, and it had a knack of so doing at the most opportune time. The locals did not make so many errors, but those they did make were bunched in two innings, the ones in which the visitors made their runs. Dineen, of the home team, pitched good ball, and with good fielding would have beaten the St. Louis team; but he made one of the four errors charged to his team, and that gave the visitors two runs. Young, of St. Louis, pitched a steady game and received excellent support, his team being charged with only one fielding error. St. Louis batter Dineen safely ten times, including a triple bagger by Cross and a two baser by Young. He gave five bases on balls and struck out five men. Washington made eight safe hits, including a triple bagger by Freeman and a two baser by Bonner, off Young, who gave two bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out six men. The fact that the home team earned three runs and the visitors two tells the story of what the former might have done with perfect fielding. Time of game, 2h. 1m. The score:

Boston vs. Cincinnati.

The final game of the season between these teams was played Aug. 15, at Boston, Mass., and while it was a clever exhibition of ball playing it had some disappointing features. Cincinnati won by bunching its hits in the first inning, filling the bases. Then McBride scored the only and winning run on an attempted double play. Meekin, lately of the New Yorks, made his first appearance with the home team, and while he pitched a good game, his friends felt sorry that he didn't gain a victory. Then, too, the supporters of the home team were disappointed that Meekin was not given better support at the bat. After the first inning the visitors could do practically nothing with Meekin's delivery. He evidently was a little nervous when he began pitching, but it wore off as the game went on. Taylor, of the Cincinnatis, who did such indifferent pitching earlier in the season, is certainly rounding into good form, for he pitched superbly against the champions, keeping their hits so wide apart that they brought no returns. Boston managed to get one or more men on the bases in every inning except the eighth, but could not score. Meekin held the visitors down to six safe hits, gave only one base on balls, and struck out one man. Taylor allowed the locals six safe hits, gave three bases on balls and struck out two men. That both teams put up a sharp and brilliant fielding game is attested by the fact that each was charged with making only one fielding error. The outneld work of Hamilton, of the home team, and McBride, of the visitors, and the shortstopping of Corcoran, of the latter, were fielding features. Time of game, 1h. 50m. The score:

Philadelphia vs. Chicago.

The final game between these teams, played Aug. 15, at Philadelphia, Pa., resulted in a victory for the home club after one of the best contested games seen by them. It was a pitcher's battle, Piatt, of the locals, having a trifle the better of the argument, though Garvin, of the visitors, was as steady as possible. While the Phillies made more than twice as many safe hits off Garvin as the Chicagos made off Piatt, the former was so effective in keeping their hits aparts that it was in only one inning—the second—that they were able to score. In that inning two singles, an error by Wolverton, the visitor's third baseman, and a sacrifice gave the home team two runs, which afterwards proved enough to win. Piatt was rather effective in preventing the Chicagoes from making safe hits, but was at times unsteady in his delivery, and had the visitors been able to make their hits at opportune times his erratic pitching might have proven costly. As it was, he allowed the visitors only four safe hits, including a double bagger by Connor, gave two bases on balls, hit two other batsmen with pitched balls and struck out seven men. The Phillies batted Garvin safely nine times, including a two baser by Cross. He was very steady in his delivery, giving no free passes to first base, but struck seven men. The locals put up a perfect fielding game, while Chicago made only one fielding error, that made by Wolverton, which helped the home team in winning. Time of game, 1h. 50m. The score:

New York vs. Cincinnati.

The New Yorks walloped the Cincinnatis in good style on Aug. 16, at the Polo Grounds, this city, but it is yet to be learned whether or not Manager Ewing filed a protest. Carrick, who pitched for the home team, was in fairly good form, and had no trouble in downing the visitors. Had he been at his best—well, the story is too harrowing to think about. He did good work on this occasion, but he had nothing to really exert him. With good control and judgment and a slow ball, served up just often enough to keep the Cincinnatis on the anxious seat trying to find out what he would hand out next, was it any wonder that the locals won with such apparent ease? Then, too, the New Yorks aided their pitcher by playing with snap and confidence, making their hits when they were needed, and fielding sharply, when the visitors connected with the ball. Carrick allowed the Cincinnatis seven safe hits, gave one base on balls and struck out four men. New York batted Hahn safely fourteen times, including a triple and a double bagger by Foster, and doubles by Van Haltren and O'Brien. He gave no free passes to first base, but he struck out five men.

The visitors were charged with making four fielding errors, and the home team with three. Van Haltren, Davis, Doyle and Gleason, of the locals, easily carried off the fielding honors. Time of game, 1h. 50m. The score:

New York.....	2	0	0	0	0	1	1	3		—7

These teams played a double header on Aug. 17, and New York won both. The second game was the one that the locals had won on the afternoon of Decoration Day, but the board of directors decided that it must be played over because "Buck" Ewing, manager of the "Reds," protested at being beaten so early in the race. Well, New York again won it, and the only thing "Buck" has to protest against is being beaten twice on the same afternoon. Whether or not he will do so time alone will tell. The home team excelled in everything—runs, hits and errors included. When all things are taken into consideration the locals deserve a great deal of credit for their excellent performance. In neither game were they able to present their strongest team. Davis, the great short stop, was absent, and Wilson had to take his place, but he fell far short of filling Davis' shoes. Then Warner had to leave the game after the first inning of the opening contest, and Doyle went behind the bat and a new man, Hardesty, played first base, and, notwithstanding the fact that he had a sore hand, did well. In the opening game, which was the one regularly scheduled for that day, Seymour proved a puzzler to the visitors, and had his support been perfect he would have succeeded in shutting them out without a run. He held them down to five safe hits, gave four bases on balls, made two wild pitches and struck out six men. Hawley began pitching for the Cincinnatis, but was driven to cover in three innings. Then Philips took up the burden of life and did well for two innings. In the sixth, however, he was given an even worse trouncing and that settled the game. New York batted the two visiting pitchers safely fifteen times, including a triple bagger by Seymour. Hawley gave one base on balls and struck out one man. Phillips gave two bases on balls and hit another batsman with a pitched ball. The locals made eight fielding errors and the visitors made five. Time of game, 2h. The score:

Cincinnati....	1	2	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	—4
New York....	0	3	3	0	0	7	0	0		—13

In the second game Gettig, while batted harder than was Seymour, generally proved very effective when men were on the bases. McBride was about the only visiting batsman who could hit him freely, and he made four safe ones. The direct cause of New York's two victories was hard and timely batting, coupled with remarkably clever pitching. Taylor, who pitched for the visitors, was also punished pretty severely, but, with the exception of the first and third innings, managed to keep the hits well apart. However, as enough damage was done in those two innings to cause his team's defeat, his good work does not stand out very prominently, nor does it count for much. The second game was much closer and consequently much more interesting. The Cincinnatis put up a perfect fielding game, while the locals were charged with two errors, and both aided the visitors in getting runs, as none of the four scored by them was earned off Gettig's pitching. Gettig was quite liberal in giving free passes to first base via the four ball route, and they cut a wide swath in the "Reds'" run getting business. Cincinnati made ten safe hits off Gettig, who gave four bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out three men. New York batted Taylor safely twelve times, including triple baggers by Doyle and Foster and a two baser by Van Haltren, while he hit one batsmen with a pitched ball and struck out two men. Time of game, 1h. 50m. The score.

New York.....	2	0	3	0	0	0	0	0		—5

The New Yorks have something to be proud of; that is, if it is really worthy of any consideration, for they succeeded in winning four straight games from the Cincinnatis by beating them again on Aug. 18, and that, too, after the visitors had won three out of four from the Bostons. The locals put up a better all 'round game than the visitors did. The former's batting was timely, hits coming when they did the most good. Grady greatly aided the home team in winning by his excellent work at the bat. His batting yielded four runs. He and McBride, of Cincinnati, led in batting, each making four safe hits. Both Carrick and Hahn were batted quite freely, but each was fairly effective at critical times, Carrick doing the better work of the two, as the result shows. Grady also figured in gilt-edge play in the eighth inning that cut off one, if not two, runs for the visitors. There were three men on the bases and no one out, when Hahn drove a fast, low liner toward third base, which Grady caught on the fly, and then touched third, putting out McPhee. The Cincinnatis batted Carrick safely ten times, while he gave five bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball, made a wild pitch and struck out two men. New York also made ten safe hits, including two triple baggers and a two baser by Grady, off Hahn, who gave one base on balls and struck out six men. Cincinnati made three fielding errors and New York two. Time of game, 2h. The score:

Cincinnati.....	1	0	1	0	0	0	1	1	0	—4

Boston vs. Louisville.

A double header was played by these teams on Aug. 16, at Boston, Mass., and each won a game. Phillipe, who was knocked out of the pitcher's position in four innings by the New Yorks on Aug. 13, at Weehawken, N. J., proved an enigma to the champions on this occasion, and they could do little with the assortment of curvelets that he served to them. Willis, on the other hand, had nothing in his pitching repertory that appeared to be very puzzling to the visitors, as every man made at least one safe hit off him. That the "Colonels" did not make more runs than they did was chiefly due to the remarkably clever fielding done by the home team at critical times. Louisville batted Willis safely ten times, including a tripple bagger by Hoy and a two baser by Wagner, while he gave two bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball, made a wild pitch and struck out five men. Phillipe allowed the Bostons only three safe hits, including a triple bagger by Hamilton, gave one base on balls and struck out two men. Only one fielding error was made during the entire contest and that was charged to the home team. Time of game, 1h. 45m. The score:

The winning of the opening game gave the visitors lots of confidence in themselves, and they went into the second one thinking they might repeat Cincinnati's recent performance of defeating the Bostons twice in one afternoon; but the latter didn't somehow relish a second dose of that kind of thing, at once entered a demurrer, and, as they made such a strong argument, they easily won out. Hickman proved the stumbling block in the way of the visitors' success, or at least he occupied the pitcher's position until part of the last half of the ninth inning was played, when he was replaced by Nichols. At that time there were three men on the bases and no one out. After a run had been forced in he retired. Hickman made a record for himself in the way of wild pitching. While he allowed the visitors only six safe hits, including a homer by Clingman, he gave fourteen bases on balls, made two wild pitches and struck out two men. Boston made fourteen safe hits, including triple baggers by Duffy and Hickman and doubles by Long, Duffy and Bergen, off the two visiting pitchers, and had one batsman hit with a pitched ball. Woods gave one base on balls, as did Wilhelm. The locals made only one fielding error against four charged to the "Colonels." Time of game, 2h. The score:

Louisville.....	0	1	3	0	0	0	0	0	1	— 5

Another double header was worked off on Aug. 17, and again honors were equally divided, each team winning a game. In the opening game the Bostons appeared to have everything their own way until the seventh inning, when Nichols "caught a crab," and before peace and quietness had been restored the "Colonels" succeeded in chasing four of their men over the plate, with as many runs, tieing the score. Weights kept the great Nichols in his place during the two remaining innings, and the visitors drew blanks; but the locals developed a batting streak in their half of the ninth inning and scored a run, winning the game. Centre Fielder Hamilton, of the home team, had a little argument with one of the umpires in the ninth inning, over a decision that he could not fully comprehend, and he was sent to the bench until the matter became clearer to him. In the meantime Stafford took his place in the outfield. Hickman, who played left field in Duffy's place, led the local players in batting, having four safe hits to his credit. Louisville batted Nichols safely ten times, including a homer by Leach and a two baser by Clingman, while he gave four bases on balls and struck out two men. Boston made nine safe hits, including a two baser by Hickman, off Cunningham, who gave five bases on balls, made a balk and a wild pitch and struck out one man. The visitors made four fielding errors and the home team five. Time of game, 2h. 22m. The score:

Louisville	2	0	0	0	0	0	4	0	0	—6

Bailey, Boston's young pitcher, had an excellent chance to distinguish himself in the second game, but he was either too nervous or too ambitious to be steady, and this caused him to lose the game. Kelly and Clingman were the only visiting batsmen who were able to connect safely with his delivery, and each was credited with only one safe hit. Kelly's was a homer and, of course, scored a run. Clingman's was only a single, but was made after Kelly had reached first on balls, and it resulted in a run. Beside holding the visitors down to two safe hits, Bailey gave five bases on balls, hit two other batsmen with pitched balls and struck out three men. Dowling, of the "Colonels," did far better work in the pitcher's position. While he was batted safely seven times, including a triple by Stahl, he kept the hits so well apart, and was so effective at critical times, that the locals made only one run, and by so doing saved themselves from a shut out. He also gave six bases on balls, and struck out three men. The visitors were charged with making three fielding errors, and the home team two. The contest was called at the end of the seventh inning on account of darkness. During the afternoon Hickman, of the local nine, and Wagner, of the visiting team, made some star catches. Time of game, 2h. 3m. The score:

Another double header was the programme these teams presented on Aug. 18. This was in accordance to the regular schedule, and the champions did the grand thing by winning both. Meekin pitched for the home team in the opening game, and was very effective, keeping the few safe hits made by him so wide apart that only two runs resulted. Phillipe, of the "Colonels," also did good work in the pitcher's position, but the Bostons always had a knack of batting him safely when hits were needed. Then, too, the champions put up a splendid fielding game, cutting off many an apparently safe hit made by the visitors. Meekin allowed the Louisvilles only five safe hits, including a two baser by Zimmer, while he gave two bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball, made a wild pitch and struck out two men. Boston made only seven safe hits off Phillipe, but they included a homer by Long, a triple bagger by Meekin and two doubles by Stahl; consequently the champions had no trouble in winning. Beside this, he gave them three bases on balls and struck out two men. The visitors were charged with making four fielding errors, while the locals made only one. Time of game, 2h. 2m. The score:

The second game was more stubbornly contested, with the result in doubt until the winning run was driven in by the locals in the last half of the ninth inning, and that, too, after two men had been put out. The "Colonels" gave the champions quite a scare. Big Mike Sullivan, formerly of the New Yorks and other teams, was given a trial by Boston against the visitors, and was freely batted. Wilhelm began pitching for the Louisvilles, but one inning was sufficient to convince him that he had nothing in his pitching repertory that he could fool the home team with. In the second inning Woods was substituted in place of Wilhelm, and while he, too, was batted hard, he was more successful in keeping the hits so far apart that they yielded small returns. Louisville made ten safe hits, including a homer by Leach and double baggers by Hoy, Clarke, Wagner, Ritchey and Powers, off Sullivan, who gave four bases on balls hit a batsman with a pitched ball and struck out one man. Boston batted the two visiting pitchers safely fourteen times, including triple baggers by Tenney and Hickman and doubles by Hamilton, Tenney and Hickman. Woods gave one base on balls and hit another batsman with a pitched ball. Each team was credited with making two fielding errors. Time of game, 2h. 15m. The score:

Louisville.....	0	0	1	0	0	1	0	2	2—6
Boston.....	5	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	1—7

Brooklyn vs. Cleveland.

The Brooklyns had a whack at the tailenders on Aug. 15, at Brooklyn, N. Y., but while the former won they had no easy time doing it. The homeless tribe, formerly of Cleveland, put up a pretty stiff article of ball, which was worthy more consideration than has been allotted them this season. Such playing as they did against the Brooklyns ought to beat a majority of the major league teams. That the home team won was more good luck than superior work on its part. It must not be understood that Brooklyn did not play, also, for that is not the case. It was simply one of those times when a weaker team catches the stronger one napping. In other words, the locals held their opponents too cheaply until they began to realize that they had quite a task on their hands. The pitching done by the two men, when carefully analyzed, was about a stand off, except that McJames proved the more effective in keeping the hits made off his delivery further apart than Knepper was able to do. In fielding there was little choice, both teams doing exceedingly well, Cleveland making two fielding errors and the locals three. The "Wanderers" gathered only six safe ones from Dr. McJames' assortment of curves, shoots, drops, etc., while he aided them all he could by giving three bases on balls, hitting two other batsmen with pitched balls and striking out five men. Knepper held the Brooklyns down to seven safe hits, including a triple bagger by Dahlen and two doubles by McGuire, gave three bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball, made a wild pitch and struck out five men. Both the errors made by the visitors aided the locals in getting runs, while the visitors were benefitted by only one of Brooklyn's three errors. Time of game, 1h. 43m. The score:

The Brooklyns had little trouble in downing the visitors on Aug. 16. Hughes was in form and pitched effectively; in fact, he was practically invincible for a greater part of the contest, and had he remained in the game until the end they would have been shut out without a run. The result being so one sided, Manager Hanlon withdrew Hughes after the sixth inning and sent in Donovan, and it was chiefly through the latter's erratic delivery that the visitors managed to get in two runs in the ninth inning, and thereby save themselves from a shut out. It was clearly evident to every one present that Hughes is once more rounding into shape, and he will soon be in championship form and ready to battle for his life in helping his team to win the pennant. The Brooklyn had little trouble in connecting with Bates' delivery whenever he could get the ball near the plate, making thirteen safe hits, including a triple bagger by Keeler and doubles by Dahlen and Hughes, while he gave eight bases on balls and hit another batsman with a pitched ball. The visitors made three safe hits off Hughes in six innings and four off Donovan in three innings. Hughes gave three bases on balls and struck out three men. Donovan gave two bases on balls and struck out one man. Cleveland made five fielding errors and Brooklyn two. Time of game, 2h. 5m. The score:

Brooklyn.....	2	2	3	0	0	4	2	0	—13

The "Exiles" were easier than ever on Aug. 17, and the Brooklyns took advantage of the opportunity to fatten their batting averages, and incidentally increase their lead in the pennant race. The locals haven't given such a batting exhibition in many a day, and the spectators were in a whirl 'round the bases. Schmidt began pitching for the "Wanderers," but was so freely batted that he had to give way to Colliflower, who was also batted hard and often. After the sixth inning Manager Hanlon, of the local club, tried several changes in the make up of his team. He sent Hugh Jennings to first base and shifted Anderson to left field, taking Kelley out of the game. Then he replaced Dunn with Hill, his latest acquisition to the pitching staff. The experiment worked well, both Jennings and Hill doing exceedingly well, That brought eleven of the home players into active duty, and every one made at least one safe hit, while Daly led with four. The Brooklyns put up a faultless fielding game, while the homeless wanderers were charged with making five errors. The visitors made only five safe hits, including a triple bagger by McAllister and a two baser by Harley, off Brooklyn's pair of pitchers. Dunn gave four bases on balls, and Hill gave one. Brooklyn batted the visiting pitchers safely twenty times, including triple baggers by Daly, Dunn and Hill, and double baggers by Casey and McGuire. Schmidt gave three bases on balls, and hit two other batsmen with pitched balls, while Colliflower gave only one base on balls and struck out one man. Daly's batting and fielding, with the fielding of Dahlen, also of the home team, were noteworthy features. Time of game, 1h. 52m. The score:

Brooklyn.....	3	0	1	8	1	2	4	1	—20

The final game of the present series between these teams, played Aug. 18, was the best of the lot. Cleveland put up a game worthy of champions, and gave the home team a hard run to win. It was such a direct contrast to the visitors' previous efforts as to command the admiration of the spectators. While they did not beat the home team, they held them closer than any one thought it possible for them to do. Bates, who has been such a marker heretofore on this trip, was something of a puzzler, holding the Brooklyns well in hand and confining their scoring to two innings, and then they could get in only four runs; but that was just two more than the Clevelands made. Then, too, Bates received excellent support from his team mates, who put up a hot and fast game, the feature of which was a triple play which was made in the second inning. In the next inning they could have easily made another triple play had Pitcher Bates caught a short fly he went after. For the locals, Dr. McJames pitched superbly, and aided in winning his game by making two singles. He allowed the visitors six safe hits, gave four bases on balls, made a wild pitch and struck out three men. Bates held the Brooklyns down to seven safe hits, including a homer by Jones, gave six bases on balls, hit two other batsmen with pitched balls and made a wild pitch. The visitors were charged with making two fielding errors and the home team with one. Time of game, 1h. 20m. The score:

HARRY VAUGHN.

Baseball is a queer institution. Men come and go almost with the seasons. Players who are stars of the highest magnitude for a few campaigns soon pass into obscurity and are seldom heard of, if they are not forgotten entirely. To each generation the veteran is never considered the equal of the players of their day, and so it will go on until the end of creation. There are few of the veterans to be found in the ranks of the major league teams today. The men who a few years ago were in the height of their fame are known now only by their past deeds. With this season a little more than half gone, it has seen several veterans fall by the wayside, the pace set by the younger element being too fast for them. Among the ones to drop out was Harry Vaughn, who for over eight seasons wore the colors of the Cincinnati Club. Vaughn, who was not considered fast enough for the "Reds," and was released a few weeks ago, has by no means decided to give up the game entirely. He was hardly set free before he was offered an engagement by Charles A. Comisky, manager of the St. Paul team, of the Western League, which he immediately accepted, and he is now playing good ball at first base for the St. Pauls. Vaughn was born March 1, 1864, at Rural, O., and began his professional career as a full fledged catcher with the Lebannon (O.) team, in 1886, but being offered a better salary, he joined the Lexington (Ky.) team, of the Blue Grass League, where he finished that season. While en route home he played with the Cincinnatis against the Athletics, the former winning the game. He joined the New Orleans Club, of the Southern League, in 1887, and made a very creditable showing in the fifty nine games he participated in. The Memphis Club, of the same league, made him a very liberal offer for the season of 1888, and he accepted it. When the Southern League was about to disband, along in the Summer, he was sold to the Louisville Club, of the American Association, where he finished the season, and did exceedingly well, not only as a catcher but as a hard and timely batter. That season he participated in fifteen championship contests for Memphis and forty-nine for Louisville. His work was so satisfactory that he was re-engaged by the Louisville Club for the season of 1889. That year he participated in ninety championship contests. He did not appear to be satisfied with his surroundings and longed to break into faster company; therefore, when the Players' League was formed he joined the New York team, of that league, and took part in forty-five championship contests during the season of 1890. In 1891 he joined forces with the Cincinnati team, of the American Association, better known as "Kelly's Killers," and remained with it until it disbanded, and then he finished that season with the Milwaukee Club, of the same association. He participated in sixty-nine championship games that year with two teams. In 1892 he was given an opportunity that all young players are anxious to seize, that is, to join a major league team. The Cincinnati Club, of the National League and American Association, made him an offer and he accepted it. He participated in eighty-five championship contests that year, and gave such a good account of himself that he was re-engaged by Cincinnati for the season of 1893, and that year he proved such a tower of strength to the "Reds" that he was played in one hundred and nineteen championship games, the greatest number he had participated in during any one season since he began playing ball. He continued with the Cincinnati Club until a few weeks ago, when he was released, and immediately signed by the St. Paul Club. In 1894 he participated in sixty-seven championship contests, and had a batting average of .309. In 1895 he took part in eighty-eight championship games, and again had a big batting record. His percentage for the season was .305. In 1896 the Cincinnati Club used him in one hundred and thirteen championship games because his long experience as a catcher made him of great assistance to a pitcher, being familiar with every batsman in the business, and the pitcher did not have to do all the thinking while he was working. Vaughn knew the weak and strong points of every major league batsman, and he would coach the pitcher accordingly. In 1897 he took part in fifty championship contests, and had a batting average of .305. During the season of 1898 he participated in seventy-three championship games, and finished with a batting percentage of .303. One of Vaughn's strong points last year was his place hitting, and he advanced many a base runner by a timely hit or a good sacrifice. He is doing some excellent all around work for St. Pauls since joining that team.

Washington vs. Pittsburg.

The Washingtons are still in that rut, and are liable to remain there for some time unless they take a brace and try and extricate themselves. Of course, as long as Cleveland is losing games the Washingtons cannot fall behind them, no matter how hard they may try. The "Senators" met the Pittsburgs on Aug. 16, at Washington, D. C., and the latter won chiefly through the miserable fielding of the home team. Both McFarlan, of the locals, and Leever, of the visitors, pitched effectively, but the latter received the better support, and therefore he gets the credit of a victory. Pittsburg made eight safe hits, including double baggers by Williams and McCreery, off McFarlan, who gave two bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out two men. Wasnington batted Leever safely eight times, including a triple bagger by Freeman and a two baser by Slagle, while he gave three bases on balls and struck out two men. The visitors made two fielding errors and the home team made four. The fielding of McCreery and Ely, of the Pittsburgs, was excellent. Time of game, 2h. 5m. The score:

Pittsburg.....	0	0	3	0	2	0	0	2	0—7
Washington...	0	0	0	2	0	1	2	0	0—5

Timely batting and faultless fielding helped the Pittsburgs to another victory over the locals on Aug. 17, although the latter outbatted the former; the home team's poor fielding more than overbalanced its good stick work. Only three errors were charged against the Washingtons, and they cut a wide swath in giving the visitors runs, yet they do not begin to tell the story of the locals' poor work in the field. While the "Senators" found little trouble in batting Chesbro, the Pittsburgs' pitcher, they could not bunch their hits, nor make one when men were on the bases. The umpiring of Hunt displeased the spectators, and he was chased off the field by the crowd. Treasurer Wagner and Manager Irwin of the home club, acted as peace preservers, and prevented a riot. The visitors made nine safe hits, including double baggers by Williams and McCarthy, off Washington's two pitchers—Carsey and Weyhing. The latter gave one base on balls and struck out one man. Washington batted Chesbro safely eleven times, including a homer by O'Brien and double baggers by McGann and Atherton, while he gave two bases on balls, hit two other batsmen with pitched balls, and struck out one man. Time of game, 1h. 50m. The score:

Washington...	2	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0—3

It was the same old story, with all its harrowing details, when these teams met on Aug. 18. The locals were again beaten, simply because they could not solve Sparks' delivery. The home team put up a faultless fielding game, but that went for naught, as they only had their pains for their trouble. Sparks had a curious lot of curves, shoots, etc., that he doled out in such a mysterious way that the "Senators" only saw four that they could send into safe territory, while he gave them only one base on balls and struck out two men. Weyhing, who pitched for the home team, had a puzzling sort of delivery, but the visitors managed to connect with seven, that yielded two runs, one more than was made by the locals. Beside this Weyling hit one batsman with a pitched ball and struck out three men. The Pittsburgs did not put up as good a fielding game as did the home team, as the former were charged with making three errors. The contest was sharp, snappy and quickly played, and abounded with interesting features. The pitching on both sides was a feature. Time of game, 1h. 30m. The score:

Philadelphia vs. St. Louis.

St. Louis had a very pleasant time while sojourning at Washington, and dreamed of pennants and other nice things; but what was good enough for Washington didn't seem to please the Quakers, and they demonstrated this when the Mound City pennant aspirants arrived in Philadelphia, on Aug. 16. Things ran along smoothly enough until the fifth inning, when the locals became tangled up in Powell's delivery, and when matters were straightened out the Quakers had grouped four runs from a triple, two doubles and two singles. Powell, who couldn't understand how it happened, tried another inning, but could not check the Phillies' batting streak. In the seventh inning McBride succeeded Powell, but the former could not avert a defeat for his team, especially as Frazer was proving so effective against them. St. Louis made ten safe hits, including two double baggers by Heidrick and one by Burkett, off Frazer, who gave three bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out two men. The Phillies batted the two visiting pitchers safely twelve times, including a triple bagger by Flick and doubles by Delehanty, McFarland and Frazer, while Powell gave three bases on balls. Philadelphia made five fielding errors and St. Louis one. Time of game, 2h. 15m. The score:

St. Louis.....	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	2	0—3
Philadelphia...	0	0	1	0	4	2	2	0	—9

The St. Louis team appears to be badly disorganized, for a more wretched game than it put up against the Phillies on Aug. 17 it would be almost impossible to play. Eight good, big ripe errors were charged against Tebeau's men, while only three errors were chalked up against the home team. Cuppy undertook to puzzle the Quakers, but the assortment of curves and whatnots he served up to them were of the old school pattern and had their charm years before he had acquired them, and the result was that the Phillies rapped out fourteen safe ones, including a double and a triple bagger by Flick, while he gave three bases on balls and hit another batsman with a pitched ball. Notwithstanding, the St. Louis players were kept busy chasing hits and piling up errors, they managed to gather nine safe hits, including double baggers by Childs and Burkett, off Donahue, who gave three bases on balls and struck out one man. Lave Cross, of the visitors, had to retire owing to an injury to one of his fingers, sustained while stopping a hot grounder from Delehanty's bat. Time of game, 2h. 20m. The score:

St. Louis.....	4	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	0— 6
Philadelphia..	0	1	2	0	3	5	1	0	—12

A double header was the treat these teams gave the local enthusiasts on Aug. 18, when each scored a victory. The Phillies lost the opening contest through their inability to connect safely with Young's delivery. It was their second shut out of the season. First Baseman Goeckel, of the home team, was spiked by Catcher Criger, of St. Louis, and had to give way to Chies, but he recovered sufficiently to participate in the second game. The visitors took very kindly to Platt, who was pitching for the locals in the fourth inning, and rapped out six singles and a double bagger, which netted five runs. Then Fifield replaced Platt, and for several innings he, too, did well, but after that he was hit quite frequently, St. Louis making fourteen safe hits, including double baggers by Childs and Heidrick, off the local pair of pitchers. Platt gave one base on balls and struck out one man, and Fifield also contributed one base on balls. Young allowed the Phillies only five scattering singles, gave no free passes to first base, but struck out two men. The visitors made one fielding error and the locals two. Time of game, 1h. 55m. The score:

The second game was nip and tuck, with the result in doubt until the winning run was made by the home team in the last half of the tenth inning, after one man had been put out. The batting was heavy enough to have netted either team more runs than it made, but was not consistent enough for good results. Lots of runners got on the bases, but few of them lived to cross the plate. There was little to choose from in the pitching, as both men did very creditable work; especially were they effective when the men were on the bases. St. Louis outplayed the Phillies both at the bat and in the field, but the Quakers came in ahead in the most essential point—in getting runs. The fielding of Cross, of the home team, and Wallace, of the visitors, was a feature, the former accepting all of eleven chances at short, and the latter all of ten chances at third base. St. Louis made ten safe hits off Bernhard, who gave three bases on balls, made a wild pitch and struck out one man. The Phillies batted Sudhoff safely nine times, including double baggers by Goeckel, Douglass and Bernhard, while he gave five bases on balls and struck out one man. The visitors put up a perfect fielding game, while the locals made two errors. Time of game, 2h. 15m. The score:

Chicago vs. Cleveland and Louisville.

The Chicagos, on Aug. 20, tried the scheme of defeating two teams in one afternoon, but made an ignominious failure of it. The best they could do was to win one and lose one. The opening game was with Cleveland, and it was of the wild, woolly, Western kind, in which both teams had the appearance of trying to break in the unruly broncho. It was one of those weird exhibitions in which both teams try to outdo each other in wretched playing. The "Wanderers" led the locals in everything except runs, and when the first half of the ninth inning had been played it looked as though they would even lead the home team in runs, but—well, the uncertainties of the game got in its good work, and the exiles drew the short end, as they have been doing so many times this season. The visitors batted Cegan safely ten times, including a triple and a double bagger by McAllister, while he gave four bases on balls and struck out three men. Chicago made eight safe hits, including a triple and a double bagger by Mertes and a triple by Chance, off Schmidt, who gave two bases on balls and struck out two men. Cleveland made five fielding errors and Chicago made six. Time of game, 2h. 20m. The score:

Cleveland.....	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	6—7

SECOND GAME.

The Chicagos next tackled the Louisvilles, and caught a tartar. The latter outplayed the former at all points, running away with the game from the start. The "Colonels" put up a perfect fielding game, and their batting was timely and hard. The contest was limited to eight innings, owing to darkness coming on before the ninth inning could be played. Cunningham, the visitors' veteran pitcher, was in fine fettle, and although batted apparently quite freely, he kept the hits so far apart that they yielded no returns. The locals fielded rather poorly, being charged with three errors. The visitors found little trouble in connecting with Griffith's delivery, batting him safely ten times, including a homer and a two bagger by Kelly and a two baser by Dexter, while he gave no free passes to first base, but did strike out five men. The home team made eight safe hits, including a triple bagger by Wolverton, off Cunningham, who gave one base on balls and struck out one man. Time of game, 1h. 45m. The score:

Cincinnati vs. St. Louis.

The Cincinnatis returned home on Aug. 20, after losing four games in New York, and were beaten by the St. Louis team. Breitenstein, of the locals, pitched a wretched game. He had poor command of the ball and was batted safely at opportune times. The home team gave a trial to Seybold, a recent acquisition to its outfield, but he showed up poorly, being charged with three errors in left field, but this didn't begin to show how badly he acted. Powell, of the visiting team, pitched effectively, and although batted quite freely he kept the hits well apart, and prevented any from being made when men were on the bases. St. Louis put up an almost faultless fielding game, being charged with only one error, while the home team made six. The visitors made nine safe hits, including a triple bagger by Heidrick and a two baser by Wallace, off Breitenstein, who gave seven bases on balls and struck out three men. The locals batted Powell safely ten times, including a two baser by Breitenstein, while he gave one base on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out five men. Time of game, 2h. 20m. The score:

Baltimore vs. Chicago.

Chicago tried another experiment in its game with the "Orioles" on Aug. 16, at Baltimore, Md., and it proved a costly one, as the locals had little trouble in scoring a victory. Cogan, the latest acquisition to Chicago's pitching department, was put in against the home team, and his inability to locate the home plate, coupled with the locals' safe hitting at opportune times, gave the latter an apparently easy victory. The sensational work of Centre Fielder Brodie, and a steal home by McGraw, both of the home team, were the only features of a rather dull and uninteresting game. Chicago made only six safe hits, including a two baser by Donahue, off Kitson, who gave one base on balls. Baltimore got the same number of safe hits, including a double bagger by De Montreville, off Cogan, who gave eight bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out two men. Chicago made four fielding errors and the home team made only one. Time of game, 1h. 50m. The score:

Baltimore.....	0	0	1	2	0	2	0	1	—6

The Baltimore players have every reason for remembering Pitcher Taylor, of the Chicagos, who occupied the centre of the baseball stage and played the leading part in the burlesque produced on Aug. 17, when these teams had another "champeen" meeting. That Taylor can pitch good ball no one has heretofore questioned, but that he did not do so on this occasion is a positive fact. Every man on the home team except Sheckard made at least one safe hit, while Pitcher McGinnity led the whole shooting match with four safe ones. The locals fattened their batting averages at Taylor's expense. They began worrying him by little bunts, until in sheer deperation he made an ascension, and then the home team bifled and banged away at him until they had nineteen safe ones, including triple baggers by Keister and Robinson and a two bagger by McGraw, gathered from his collection of curvelets. Beside this, he gave two bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out four men. Chicago batted McGinnity safely nine times, including a triple bagger by Mertes and a two baser by Wolverton. He gave three bases on balls and struck out one man. Each team was credited with making four fielding errors. The Chicagos' base running was poor and their batting not timely, as they had ten men left on the bases. Time of game, 2h. 10m. The score:

Double games appeared to be quite fashionable on Aug. 18, and these teams were among the ones who were in the swim, with a double header, and they managed to break even after nearly five hours of continuous performance. The opening contest was of the batting matinees order, in which both teams slugged the ball for keeps, with Chicago excelling. Pitcher Nops, the man Brooklyn coveted to help it win the pennant, was such a marker for the visiting batsm local's half of that inning, with two men on the bases, Keister hit for three bases, sending in two runs, and afterwards crossed the plate with what proved the winning run. Everitt, of the visitors, was put off the grounds for abusing Umpire Manassau. Both Howell and Callahan did great work in the pitcher's position. Chicago made seven safe hits, including a triple bagger by Wolverton and a two baser by Connor, off Howell, who gave three bases on balls and struck out one man. Baltimore got only seven safe ones, including a triple bagger by Keister and a two baser by Brodie, off Callahan, who gave five bases on balls, made two wild pitches and struck out six men. Chicago made two fielding errors and the home team made only one. Time of game, 1h. 45m. The score:

Pittsburg vs. Cleveland.

The Wanderers showed up in Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 19, after their disastrous Eastern trip, played a double header with the home team, and succeeded in breaking even with the latter, each winning a game. In the opening game, which was the one regularly scheduled for that day, the Pittsburgs played in great form and outpointed the visitors at every stage. Tannehill, although quite freely batted by the visitors, managed to keep their hits so wide apart that he had them shut out up to the ninth inning, when they succeeded in getting a man across the plate with a run. Hughey, on the other hand, was the easiest kind of a snap for the local batsmen, and every one of them made one or more safe hits off his delivery, while Donovan led with four to his credit. The Wanderers made nine safe hits off Tannehill, who gave one base on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out two men. Pittsburg batted Hughey safely sixteen times, including a triple bagger by McCarthy and doubles by McCreery, Schriver and Tannehill, while he gave four bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and made two wild pitches. Cleveland made five fielding errors and the locals made only one. Time of game, 1h. 45m. The score:

The double header proved too much for the Pittsburgs. They had spent all their energies in the opening contest, and easily fell victims to the tail-enders when they again tackled the latter. On the other hand the visitors showed up good and strong, especially at the bat, after the second game was started. Leever, who began pitching for the home team, was batted hard from the start, and in the seventh inning the Wanderers made three triple baggers in succession, and he was replaced by Sparks in the eighth inning. Knepper, of the visitors, pitched gilt edged ball, and kept the locals' hits well scattered throughout the nine innings. The fielding, while greatly improved on the part of the exiles, was about a stand off, each team being charged with making three errors. Cleveland batted the two local pitchers safely fifteen times, including a homer by McAllister and triple baggers by Quinn, Hemphill and Sullivan. Leever hit one batsman with a pitched ball and struck out four men. Sparks gave one base on balls and struck out one man. Pittsburg made seven safe hits off Knepper, who gave one base on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out two men. Hemphill, of the visitors, led in batting with four safe hits. Time of game, 1h. 55m. The score:

Pittsburg	0	2	0	0	0	0	1	0	0—3

Boston vs. Brooklyn.

Upward of nine thousand persons witnessed the game between the above named teams, on Aug. 19, when they met at Boston, Mass. It was an exceedingly interesting contest from a local standpoint, for the visitors were treated to a coat of the whitewashing process, while the champions moved up several notches in the pennant race. The locals played wonderful ball, especially at the bat, which was a feature of their work. Then, too, their fielding was brilliant, particularly that of Tenney and Collins. Kennedy, the visiting pitcher, was very easy for the home team. The Bostons opened on him with a vengeance in the fourth inning, and renewed his acquaintance in the sixth. In the seventh inning Yeager replaced him, but did not prevent the locals from adding two more runs. Willis, of the home team, was in good form, and proved a puzzler to the Brooklyn batsmen. They made only six safe hits, including a two baser by Kennedy, off him, while he gave four bases on balls and struck out two men. The champions batted the two visiting pitchers safely thirteen times, including triple baggers by Collins and Hickman and a two baser by Tenney. Kennedy gave one base on balls and struck out one man, and Yeager also gave one free pass to first base. Each team was credited with making two fielding errors. Daly carried off the fielding honors for the visitors. His work at second base was remarkably clever. Time of game, 2h. 19m. The score:

The Brooklyns put forth their greatest effort when these teams met on Aug. 21, and the result was a reversal of the above result, Brooklyn coming off victorious in a hard fought battle. Hughes pitched for the visitors, and he unquestionably pitched the team from the City of Churches into a victory, but he didn't do it with that ease with which he usually works when in form. It required all his skill to get out of some of the tight places he had been forced into by the local players. Then, too, Hughes was greatly aided in gaining his victory by the clever work of his team mates at the bat. They found Nichols a much easier proposition than they had anticipated, and batted him quite freely. It was only in two innings that they could bunch their hits, but they did sufficient damage on those occasions to enable them to win. They made eleven safe hits off the great Nichols, who gave three bases on balls and struck out five men. Hughes did not have anything like as good command as Nichols, but the former was the more effective at critical times. Boston made eight safe hits, including a triple bagger by Hickman, off Hughes, who gave five bases on balls, hit another batsmen with a pitched ball, made a wild pitch and struck out five men. Each team was charged with making one error, which shows the sharp nature of the fielding done by both sides. Time of game, 2h. 17m. The score:

Brooklyn	0	0	2	0	5	0	0	0	0—7
Boston	0	0	0	1	1	1	0	0	2—5

Baltimore vs. Washington.

The Baltimores scored an apparently easy victory over the Washingtons on Aug. 19, at Baltimore, Md. For four innings it was anybody's game. At that time each team had scored only one run. Both pitchers were doing excellent work, and it looked as if a stubborn fight would be kept up to the end. It was, so far as Nops, the local pitcher, was concerned, but Mercer, the visiting pitcher, had a bad spell in the fifth inning, and when it was all over the home team had eight runs to its credit and the game virtually won. First Baseman McGann and Short Stop Padden, of the Washingtons, were put off the ground during the first inning for violent and abusive language to the umpire. Barry, who took Padden's place, put up a very clever game at short. Roach, who succeeded McGann, also did well. Nops was in great form, and kept the eight safe hits made by the visitors so well scattered that they netted only one run. He gave them only one base on balls and struck out two men. Baltimore batted Mercer safely thirteen times, including a triple bagger by Sheckard and doubles by McGraw, Holmes, Brodie and Crisham, while he gave five bases on balls and struck out one man. Washington made two fielding errors and the home team made one. Time of game, 2h. 10m. The score:

There was a surprise party at Washington, Aug. 21, when the scene of action between these teams was shifted to that city from Baltimore, and the "Orioles" were the honored guests. The Washingtons got a terrible thumping at Baltimore, and as they acted on the plan that turn about is fair play, they took their turn on this occasion, and how they lambasted the visitors. Kitson, the Baltimore's dispenser of curvelets, was in his element. Nearly everything he handed out was acceptable to the home team, every man taking at least one from his collection, while Slagle grabbed four and Padden three. Dineen proved a puzzler to the visitors, allowing them only six safe hits, including a two baser by De Montreville, gave two bases on balls and struck out two men. Washington batted Kitson safely seventeen times, including a homer by Freeman, triple baggers by McGann and Coughlin and doubles by Bonner and Kitson, while he gave two bases on balls. The fielding feature was a sensational running catch by Sheckard, of the visitors. Washington's batting and Dineen's pitching were the other features. Baltimore was charged with making four fielding errors against only one for the home team. Freeman made his fifteenth home run of the season in this contest. Time of game, 1h. 45m. The score:

Washington	0	2	1	0	2	1	0	0	6—12

New York vs. Philadelphia.

The New Yorks little winning streak, started while the Cincinnatis were sojourning here, was rudely checked by the Philadelphias on Aug. 19, when they met the locals at the Polo Grounds, this city. The latter were handicapped by the absence of Davis and Doyle, but notwithstanding this they outbatted the visitors, though they could not bunch their hits to as good advantage as did the Quakers. Doheny pitched remarkably well. He had very good command, all things considered, but was unfortunate in being batted safely at opportune times. In fielding the Phillies had a shade the better of it, as they made only two fielding errors, while the locals made three, and they were charged to Hardesty and Wilson, who took the places of Davis and Doyle, respectively. Outfielders Van Haltren and Foster, of the home team, led in batting, each making three safe hits, while they together made more than were credited to the whole Philadelphia team. Just how inopportune the New York's batting was is shown from the fact that they had ten men left on bases, against four for the visitors. Doheny allowed the Phillies only five safe hits, including a two baser by Lauder, gave only one base on balls, made two wild pitches and struck out two men. The New Yorks batted Frazer safely nine times, including a triple bagger by Foster and a two baser by Van Haltren, while he gave two bases on balls and struck out two men. Time of game, 2h. The score:

A double header was run off by these teams on Aug. 21, when honors were evenly divided, each winning a game. They were both well contested, spirited and entertaining games. The first was won by New York and the second by Philadelphia, and, all things considered, the Quakers were lucky that they escaped being defeated twice. The locals defeated them rather easily in the opening game. Seymour was the stumbling block in the Quaker's way to success, and as he received perfect support from the men behind him he had little trouble in keeping the hits so wide apart that they yielded small returns. Donahue, the Phillies' blond top 'twirler," from the wooden nutmeg State, had an assortment of curves, drops and other deliveries that were just to the liking of the home team, and they took advantage of the situation to fatten their batting averages. This is particularly true in the case of O'Brien and Hardesty, the former making four safe hits and the latter three. The Phillies collected nine safe ones, including a two baser by Dolan, off Seymour, who gave seven bases on balls and struck out three men. New York batted Donahue safely twelve times, including a homer by O'Brien, while he gave only one base on balls and struck out one man. The Phillies were charged with making three fielding errors against none for New York. Time of game, 1h. 40m. The score:

Philadelphia	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	2	0—3
New York	3	1	0	2	1	0	0	0	—7

In the second game, which was the tie game of May 1, and was being played off on this occasion, Platt, the "South Paw" Philadelphia pitcher, had a whole lot to do with winning his own game, in addition to pitching effectively. He came near being the "whole thing" in batting. He made three safe drives, batted in one run and scored the other one himself. Platt was potent with men on the bases, although several times the locals missed scoring by the closest shave because of the gilt edged fielding of the visitors. Carrick, the New York pitcher, worked hard for a victory, and had he received better support at the bat by his team mates he would have landed the game all right, for he pitched superbly. Take it any way you like, it was a fine exhibition of ball playing. The game was fast and stubbornly contested from start to finish. Carrick was batted o tener than was Platt, but as a rule the hits died while in their infancy. In the third inning a single and a double gave the Quakers their first run. In the fifth inning they again scored on a single, a forced out and a two baser. New York's only run was made in the eighth inning on two singles, a passed ball and an out at first base. The Phillies batted Carrick safely ten times, including double baggers by Goeckel and Platt, while he gave two men their base on balls. New York made eight safe ones, including a two baser by Carrick, off Platt, who gave no bases on balls, but struck out three men. Each team was charged with making three fielding errors. Time of game, 1h. 50m. The score:

Cincinnati vs. Pittsburg.

If the Cincinnatis had no harder proposition than the Pittsburgs to tackle, they would soon be in first place. Whether it is a sort of stage fright that overtakes that Smoketown crowd whenever they meet the "Reds" is no easy question to answer, but the fact remains that the Cincinnatis have won the big end of the victories at their meetings this season. Their session of Aug. 21, at Cincinnati, O., was no exception to the rule. The home team made more than enough runs in the second inning to give them the game, but they added a few more as it progressed, for good measure. Chesbro, the Pittsburg pitcher, gave four bases on balls, and McCreery, who played short field for the visitors, made two errors in the second inning, which netted the locals four runs; but that was no fault of the home team, and all those things are included in most games played. Unfortunate, but can't be helped. Pittsburg made only five safe hits off Phillips, who gave two bases on balls and struck out two men. The Cincinnatis made seven safe hits off Chesbro, who gave five bases on balls, hit another batsman with a pitched ball and struck out two men. The visitors made three fielding errors, all of which were charged to McCreery, while the home team made only one. Time of game, 1h. 45m. The score:

St. Louis vs. Chicago.

It looks as if the Chicagos were getting a corner on shut out games, for they have been collecting a lot of them of late. They visited St. Louis, Mo., on Aug. 21, and found one there awaiting them. The visitors made more safe hits and less errors than did the home team, and just why they could not get in a run seems curious. True, Young objected to their scoring, but they were not obliged to pay any attention to what he said. Callahan pitched a superb game for Chicago, and had his team mates given him the proper support in batting he would have won the game. The batting of Burkett, of the home team, was a feature. He led in that respect with three safe drives. Chicago batted Young safely eight times, but they were all singles and he kept them so wide apart that they yielded no runs. Besides this, he gave no bases on balls, but struck out three men. St. Louis made seven safe hits, including two double baggers by Burkett and one by Wallace, off Callahan, who gave one base on balls and struck out two men. The visitors made only one fielding error and the locals made two. Time of game, 2h. 5m. The score:

The father of N. E. Young, president of the National League and American Association, died Aug. 20, at Amsterdam, N. Y., aged ninety-one years.

Attendance at Union Park yesterday 3,785—enthusiasm at fever heat; attendance at Washington Park, Brooklyn, 900. And yet Brooklyn has a team of high priced "stars," while Baltimore had the leftovers, with half the salary list, and is called "dead to baseball."—Baltimore Sun, Aug. 19. Go easy. What would the attendance have been had Hanlon's all-star combination remained in Baltimore?

Two of the best—probably the very best—ball players in the country are third basemen. They are McGraw and Collins. McGraw is the better inside man of the two, but in clean and finished fielding Collins' equal never wore a shoe.—N. Y. Press. Pretty wide assertion. But as you probably have seen every player since the adoption of the game, you are certainly competent in deciding as you do.

Rain prevented the following major league championship games from being played as per schedule: Aug. 15, Baltimore vs. Pittsburg, at Baltimore; Washington vs. St. Louis, second game, at Washington.

A. C. Anson is preparing a history of his past life on the green diamond, and has written to us to send to him all our records and other data to help him out. "Uncle" always was modest in his requests.

There is one curious little instance about the release of Meekin to Boston by New York that is worth mentioning at this time. During the major league meeting in this city last Winter Tim Murrane, of The Boston Globe, was one of the noisiest persons in wanting New York to release Rusie and Meekin. "Because," as he said, "they have been with the New York Club too long, and were not as good men now as they were a few years ago. Get younger men," continued Tim. "That is what New York wants, if it ever expects to make a showing in the pennant race." Sly Tim. Too bad that Rusie did not go the same way that Meekin did, eh, Tim?

Cricket.

A MEETING of the executive committee of the Associated Cricket Clubs of Philadelphia, Pa., was held Aug. 17, in that city, when it was decided to arrange two games between representative elevens of New York City and Philadelphia. The first game was scheduled Sept. 15, 16, on the grounds of the Staten Island Club, at Staten Island, N. Y., and the return contest to take place Sept. 29, 30, on the grounds of the Germantown Club, at Philadelphia. The committee also decided to arrange a game between the teams selected to represent Philadelphia and a team of eighteen junior cricketers of that city, to be played Sept. 22, 23, on the grounds of the Merion Club, at Haverford, Pa. For the first time since 1890 there will be no English or Australian team brought over to compete with the representative teams of Philadelphia and other cities. The Australian team, now playing in England, was offered a most liberal inducement to visit Philadelphia in the latter part of September next, but the offer was declined after considerable delay. An effort was then made to bring over an English amateur team, headed by K. S. Ranjitsinhji, who is conceded to be the best batsman in England, but he was unable to accept the invitation for the season, although it is more than likely he will bring over a strong English team next year. In the place of the international contests the committee of the Associated Cricket Clubs of Philadelphia decided to arrange the above mentioned games between elevens representing New York City and Philadelphia, which will doubtless prove as attractive.

THE MANHATTAN ELEVEN defeated the Staten Island team by totals of 166 for seven wickets to 95, Aug. 19, at Prospect Park, Brooklyn, N. Y. J. Adam scored 78, and C. S. Moore made 44 for the Manhattan eleven, the inning being declared closed at the end of the seventh wicket. The visitors presented only eight men. Another championship game of the Metropolitan District Cricket League series was then played on the same grounds, the New York team defeating the Knickerbocker Athletic Club's team B by totals of 127 for nine wickets to 73. The visitors were also short handed, presenting only seven men. J. E. Roberts bowled effectively for the New York team, taking five wickets for twenty-five runs. At Bergen Point, N. J., the Knickerbocker Athletic Club's team A was scheduled to play the Newark team on the same day, but the latter having only six men present forfeited the game.

A. M. WOOD scored 99 and F. L. Altemus made 59, not out, of a total of 227 compiled by the visiting Belmont team against the Ottawa eleven Aug. 14, at Ottawa, Can. The Ottawa eleven had batted first and made a total of 103. The Belmont team next defeated by seven wickets an eleven representing Montreal in a game played Aug. 15, 16, in that city. The respective totals were: Montreal, 47 and 46; Belmont, 82 and 13 for three wickets. J. B. King bowled effectively in both innings, taking twelve wickets for thirty-one runs.

A TEAM representing the Knickerbocker Athletic Club and including C. P. Hurditch, captain; M. R. Cobb, F. F. Kelly, G. A. Gittens, J. F. Curran, F. W. T. Stiles, W. D. Hickie, T. G. Clarke, A. Gunn, J. E. Pitcher and H. Tyers, left this city Aug. 19, for a week's tour in Canada. C. H. Clarke, H. C. Wright and A. V. Clarke were unable to join the team on account of business engagements. Games are scheduled at Toronto, Hamilton and Peterboro, the concluding contest being with an eleven representing the first mentioned city, on Aug. 25, 26.

THE FIFTH AND LAST test match between elevens representing England and Australia, was played Aug. 14, 15, 16, at the Oval, London, Eng., and for the fourth time was left unfinished, the respective totals then being: England, 576; Australia, 352 and 254 for five wickets. The Australian eleven won by ten wickets July 15, 16, 17, at Lord's, London, that being the only test match played to a conclusion.

A CABLEGRAM from London to an evening newspaper of this city, gravely informs us that: "The recent test cricket matches between England and Australia were played in such fine weather that they gave the bowlers no chance for high scores and resulted in drawn games."

AN ELEVEN of the Belmont Club defeated the Eddystone team by a score of 136 to 41, the totals of the first inning, Aug. 5, at Philadelphia, Pa. The visitors made 43 for eight wickets in their second inning. F. L. Altemus scored 35 for the Belmont team, and bowled three wickets for four runs. E. M. J. E. ROBERTS, bowling for the New York eleven against the Newark team, Aug. 5, at Prospect Park, Brooklyn, N. Y., took five wickets at the cost of eleven runs, and thus helped to dispose of the team for a total of 41. The New York team made 43 without the loss of a wicket, the Newark team having courteously allowed the game to be finished after rain had once stopped play.

THE MANHATTAN team defeated the Steamship Manitou's team by totals of 38 and 76 for two wickets to 21 and 11, Aug. 4, at Prospect Park, Brooklyn, N. Y. F. A. Cox bowled ten wickets for twenty-seven runs in two innings on behalf of the Manhattan team.

THE BATTING FEAT of making two centuries in one inning was accomplished in a contest between the Belmont and Merion elevens, Aug. 3, at Philadelphia, Pa., F. L. Altemus and E. M. Banks bowling six wickets for twenty-two runs.

A SPECIAL MEETING of the Metropolitan District Cricket League was held Aug. 18, in this city, and it was then unanimously agreed to accept the proposition of the Associated Cricket Clubs of Philadelphia to play two games in September next between elevens representing New York and Philadelphia. H. Martin, R. St. G. Walker and J. A. Boyd comprise the committee appointed to make all arrangements for the games and to select the team to represent New York City.

A Swimming Record Broken.

The annual championship races of the Atlantic Association, of Philadelphia, were held on the Schuylkill River, at Lafayette, on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 19, and were witnessed by a large assemblage. The meeting was rendered memorable in the annals of swimming in the United States by the fact that in the one furlong race E. C. Schaeffer, the American amateur champion, created a fresh record for this country, completing the distance in 2m. 45s., thus excelling D. M. Redder's old record, which was 2m. 57⅗s.

The races were held under the auspices of the National Swimming Association of Philadelphia, over their course at Lafayette. A more ideal day for the sport could not be asked for. There was scarcely any current, and the water and air were of just the invigorating temperature required by swimmers.

The 100yds. novice race was the first event brought off. In it were six starters. Jarman led at 10yds., with Story close up. They had a good race home, Jarman winning by a yard, Story second and Otto Hawkes a good third.

In the 100yds. championship Kollock swam a splendid race, but he was not hard pushed. His time of 1m. 14⅘s. beats W. B. Kugler's record for the course of 1m. 22⅗s., of two years ago.

Eleven men started in the 220yds. handicap, in which William Hulme and R. W. Pegley were limit men, with 35s. E. C. Schaeffer, of the New York A. C., was scratch. It was a great race. It was swam out to the tape, 110yds. and return. C. H. Kollock and H. C. Story reached the tape first and turned. Frederick Wencke and Schaeffer were close up. They fought out a royal race, Schaeffer spurting ahead at 10yds. away and winning by 2s. Kollock finished third.

The event of the day was the half mile championship race. There was plenty of money up, the Athletic Club of Philadelphia backing Victor Binder for all they could raise, and the National Swimming Association standing loyally by Harry Kollock. The latter proved himself far and away the superior man, while Binder wasn't in it at all. He was even beaten for second by the novice, Walter Jarman, of the N. S. A., by 47s.

This race was also swam to the 110yds. tape and return eight times. Binder and Kollock set a fast pace on the first "out and back." Kollock then moved away from him gradually and had him beaten at the quarter mile. Jarman, who had been hanging close up, then set out to capture Binder, which he did handily before the last lap. He then sprinted after Kollock, and was giving the latter a tussle until he got out of his course. Summary:

One hundred yards, novice, plunge start.—Walter M. Jarman, N. S. A., first; Howard C. Story, N. S. A., second; Otto Holnkes, C. T. V., third; L. C. Kinsing, N. S. A., fourth; William Hulme, N. S. A., fifth; William Keyser, P. A. C., sixth; Dean I. Widner, Drind O. C., seventh. Time, 1m. 21⅘s.

One hundred yards, championship plunge start.—Harry Kollock, N. S. A., first; Howard C. Story, N. S. A., second; Charles H. Kollock, A. C. of Philadelphia, third; Percy A. Mitchell, N. S. A., fourth; C. H. Pyrah, N. S. A., fifth; E. S. Hopkins, N. S. A., sixth; Charles M. Wallace, N. S. A., seventh. Time, 1m. 14⅘s.

Two hundred and twenty yards, handicap, limit 35s.

Welcome, Shamrock!

Sir Thomas Lipton's Irish Cup challenger, Shamrock, accompanied by her tender, Erin, reached New York lower bay Friday morning, Aug. 18. Her advent came as a complete surprise, as it was not thought she would reach here until some time during the current week, at the earliest. She passed in at Sandy Hook in tow of a tug, which had picked her up while cruising for a tow, and, beginning with a welcoming salute from the marine observer at the Hook, her passage up the bay was a continual ovation. She was easily recognized by her seagoing rig, and immediately upon coming to anchor off Tompkinsville, Staten Island, was the centre of interest, attracting a big fleet of pleasure yachts and row boats, which put out from Tompkinsville. Her voyage of conquest was completed without incident, light winds for a major part of the way compelling her to take frequent tows from Erin. The boats left Fairlie, Scot., Aug. 4, the actual time from that point to Sandy hook being 14 days, 19 hours, 38 minutes. The general impression that in accepting a line from the steamer cup conditions were seriously violated are dispelled by the fact that the New York Yacht Club had given sanction to her being towed in light winds. She made the voyage under her own sails whenever the wind was sufficient, and is said to have acted splendidly in the rough seas which were at times encountered. Her sailing master, Capt. Hogarth, is enthusiastic in his praises of the staunch craft, and it is a matter for general congratulation that she has arrived safely and in the best of trim. True sportsmen on both sides of the Atlantic are looking forward to a friendly finish, and a decisive verdict for the victor, and with Shamrock safely here, manned by a hardy crew of experienced yachtsmen, the outlook for the racing is most flattering. Both Shamrock and Erin will be hauled out for a thorough going over, and when the challenger is again put into the water she will be equipped for her trying out sails. The voyage from Scotland is detailed below:

Cup Racing off Newport.

The New York Yacht Club supervised two days of racing off Newport, R. I., Aug. 14, 15, the events marking the close of the club's annual eastward cruise, made notable this year by the presence of the new cup boat, Columbia, and the valiant old Defender. The Astor Cup contests were the Monday features, Columbia and Defender competing for the sloop prize, and Amorita, Colonia (the old cup defender, now a two sticker), Ariel and Quissetta entering the lists for the schooner trophies. The fleet sailed a course of thirty-eight miles off Block Island, and Columbia again exemplified her superiority to Defender by finishing 13m. 7s. in front. W. K. Brokaw's Colonia encouraged seekers after good omens by winning the schooner prize after a spirited race. The results, as officially given by the Regatta Committee, follow:

Sanford Won Many Prizes.

A dispatch from New Haven, Ct., dated Aug. 21, says: "George W. Kelly, of this city, who has been in England with George Foster Sanford, the former Yale athlete, returned from abroad today. Mr. Kelly says the story that was recently published in this city about Sanford having won a big lot of prizes in the sprints in amateur races in England, running under an assumed name, is false.

"Mr. Kelly says that Sanford has won a large string of races in England during the past two months, but that in every case he has run under his right name. He says Sanford has been very successful in England, and that he is on his way home with the prizes he has won. He says Sanford is aboard the Augusta Victoria. According to Mr. Kelly, Sanford did not deceive the Englishmen, as a local paper has claimed, in regard to his status at an amateur. He says that the Englishmen know that Sanford has been a professional football coach, and did not object to such an athlete competing in their games."

THE YALE UNIVERSITY football schedule for the ensuing season, as given out by Manager Percy A. Rockefeller, is as follows: Sept. 30, Amherst, at New Haven; Oct. 4, Trinity, at New Haven; Oct. 7, Bates, at New Haven; Oct. 11, Wesleyan, at New Haven; Oct. 14, Dartmouth, at Boston; Oct. 21, Wisconsin, at New Haven; Oct. 28, All California, at New Haven; Nov. 1, Williams, at New Haven; Nov. 4, West Point, at West Point; Nov. 11, Pennsylvania State College, at New Haven; Nov. 18, Harvard, at Cambridge; Nov. 24, Princeton, at New Haven. Jim Robinson, the professional trainer, formerly of Princeton, has signed as trainer of the Yale team, commencing Sept. 17 and closing Nov. 28. He will have absolute charge of the physical condition of the men, but will not do any coaching.

LEN HURST undertook to run twenty miles inside record time at the Catford Recreation Grounds, London, Eng., July 31, but although he was favored by favorable weather, and the path was in excellent condition, he failed of success, retiring when he had completed 13 miles 2¼ laps. done in 1h. 20m. 5s.

ONE OF THE MOST INTERESTING lacrosse matches ever played in Canada was decided at Montreal on Aug. 19, the teams engaged being the Shamrocks and Cornwalls, and the result a victory for the former by a score of six games to five, after a most delightful exhibition of good, clean lacrosse. These teams are now a tie for first place in the series for the senior championship of the Dominion, and will probably have to meet again before the close of the season to finally decide the question of superiority and the possession of the coveted title of champions.

"In the final for the gentlemen's doubles the brothers Doherty defeated Hobart and Black by 6—4, 7—5, 7—5.

"In the final for the ladies' championship of Germany Miss Cooper beat the Countess von Schulenburg by 7—5, 6—4.

A Fishing Story.

The stories of unusual catches of the toothsome bluefish that have recently prevailed in the Borough of Brooklyn and other sections of fruitful Long Island exercised their natural effect upon the patrons of Fred Ments' popular house of call, "The Cottage," corner of Bedford and Putnam Avenues, and on Wednesday morning, Aug. 16, a sociable party, composed of Proprietor Ments, George Hanks (a stalwart of the stalwarts), Joe Whittaker (Hanks' Fidus Achatus), Jim Lynch and Ike Chase, good fellows all, started at an early hour, their minds bent upon sportsmanlike warfare on the finny denizens of the waters adjacent to Greater New York, and incidentally upon wholesome suppers made of the product of the prospective "catch" of luscious "blues." The weather was favorable, an abundance of provender was provided by Quartermaster General Ments, and the prospects were all that could be desired. After getting "outside," however, the briny roughened considerably, and the amateur sailors who had been so jolly before began to lose interest in mundane affairs, while the majority of them paid tribute to the vasty deep in the shape of large and small doses of mal de mer, a very prevalent but altogether unwelcome visitant to all but the gallant skipper and the invulnerable Hanks, who "wanted to, but couldn't." As a natural consequence, the intended day's outing was sadly spoiled; nevertheless, before again striking the hospitable shores of Sheepshead Bay the party, while unable to land a solitary "blue," succeeded in shipping a good sized "mess" of inoffensive porgies, with which to soften the asperities that might be encountered in their respective domiciles. During the trip comparatively little attention was paid to the variegated lunch which the landlord had provided, and which formed a goodly part of the ballast on the big catboat, but when the lookout sighted "The Cottage" the crew hurried aboard and set to with a will, and after the requisite liquid refreshments had been disposed of the solids so daintily prepared by Mrs. Ments were quickly made things of the misty past. Commissary General Hanks insists that the bowels of Neptune were but slightly disturbed during the excursion seaward, but the sorrowful look of reproach cast upon him by his side partner, "Outputter" Whittaker, convinces observers that the assertion of the jovial cane bearer must be received with several grains of salt. While Messrs. Hanks and Ments hold themselves in readiness for another excursion against the denizens of the vasty deep, Joe Whittaker, who still has a vivid recollection of the miseries incidental thereto, declares that a century in "long green" would not induce him to tempt Nature again.

THE LONG ISLAND CHAMPIONSHIP lawn tennis tournament opened on Aug. 2 and closed 6, with this result: Singles, final round—Malcolm D. Whitman beat Lee Ware, 7—5, 6—4, 3—6 Doubles, final round—Whitman and Ware beat J. A. Allen and D. McKettrick, 4—6, 3—6, 6—4, 6—4, 6—4. Consolation singles—McKettrick beat E. P. Larned, 6—2, 6—3.

THE ANNUAL Wentworth lawn tennis tournament was concluded at New Castle, N. H., Aug 5, with this result: Singles, final round—H. C. Wright beat C. R. Budlong, 8—6, 7—5, 6—3. Doubles, final round—W. S. Bond and E. P. Fisher beat H. C. Wright and H. H. Hacket, 8—6, 6—8, 11—13, 6—13, 6—3.

THE HOUSE THAT CHARLIE BUILT.
TWO HITS ARE BETTER THAN ONE.

Words by DAN EVANS. Music by CHAS. B. WARD. "I'M HAPPY WHEN I'M BY MA BABY'S SIDE."

Words by CHAS. W. DOTY. Music by EDWIN S. BRILL. "MA LADY LU," (A Darky Love Lament.)

We did not announce these two songs as hits before they were hits, and so we will continue to announce in this paper, hits and only hits, after they have been tried and found guilty by performers, press and public. It would be impossible for us to mention all the performers that sing these songs at present, but will later on.

Performers sending card and program with five cents in stamps can have the above two songs with orchestrations by Chas. F. Shattuck.

No quartet should be without an arrangement of "MA LADY LU," arranged by Shattuck.

Orchestra and band leaders can have the arrangement of the above two songs in a schottische by L. O. De Witt, by enclosing five cents in stamps.

Also arranged for Mandolin, 2nd Mandolin, Guitar and Piano Accompaniment.

Edwin S. Brill is connected with our house as a pianist, and he will attend to your wants when you call. Private reception room for ladies.

THE CHAS. B. WARD MUSIC PUBLISHING CO.,
42 WEST 28TH ST., N. Y. C.

"She Always Loved You, Mother."

Some time ago THE NEW YORK EVENING WORLD published the first verse and chorus of a song under the above title, written by the late Charles Graham, with an offer of $50 00 made by The Chas. B. Ward Music Publishing Co., for the best second [verse submitted within ten days, the object of which was to place the song on the market and paying a royalty to the widow of Mr. Graham.

A great many verses were submitted for consideration. The accepted verse was written by Mr. Chas. W. Doty.

All copies of this song will be sold for ten cents each, four cents of which will be given as royalty to the widow. There will be no professional copies.

It is hopd that the profession, many of whom have scored encores with Mr. Graham's songs, together with the trade, will get this song and place it before the public in a way that will assure its becoming popular, thereby guaranteeing a handsome royalty for the widow and children.

Those wishing a copy can secure same by sending ten cents in stamps to the Chas. B. Ward Music Publishing Co., 42 West 28th St., New York.

A Dead Cinch!

When you send a dollar for Madison's Budget No. 4, it's a dead cinch YOU CAN'T LOSE. Why? Because if you do not find the Budget worth many times its cost, back goes your dollar at once by registered mail. As a matter of fact, not one performer in a hundred ever wants his money back. Only last week the famous Dutch comedian, Sam Bernard, wrote me: "YOUR BUDGET RECEIVED AND WILL SAY ONE DOLLAR IS NOT ENOUGH FOR SUCH GOOD STUFF. IT SHOULD AT LEAST BE FIVE DOLLARS AND NO QUESTIONS ASKED. YOURS IN GERMAN, SAM BERNARD."

Here is what Budget No. 4 contains: Ten of Madison's famous parodies, a magnificent original monologue, a brand new stump speech, some genuinely funny Hebrew stories, a big assortment of minstrel gags, and absolutely hundreds of jokes, stories and sidewalk patter, suitable for vaudeville acts of every description. Remember, the price is one dollar per copy, or for two dollars I will send Budgets No. 2, No 3, and No. 4, containing 27 prize parodies and a mastodon collection of the other features enumerated above. There is no performer living to whom a dollar means so much that he can't afford to regularly buy Madison's Budget. It is a marvel of brightness and originality.

JAMES MADISON,
134 East 79th Street, New York.

I WANT AGENTS

OPEN LETTER TO MEDICINE MEN.

GENTLEMEN—You are no doubt aware of the fact that the day for "Grafters," "Fakirs," and long haired Indian medicine men has past, and that those who depend upon the public for their support must be able to present at least a half way legitimate proposition. Five years ago, with these facts before me, I organized a co. consisting of seven people. The business steadily grew until I eventually found myself carrying the largest and most complete medicine company ever organized, consisting of 43 people, traveling in my own special train of four cars, with six people ahead, using special advance car, billing the country thoroughly from house to house, and covering the walls like a circus, within a radius of 20 miles of each stand. Sometime since we came to Kansas City, one of the most wide awake and progressive business towns, as well as the greatest railroad centre in the Un ted States. A tour of inspection disclosed overwhelming proofs of the superior advantages of this city for a headquarters. So, after twenty years of road experience, I concluded to "quit the road," and open up a medcine supply house in conjunction with America's foremost specialists, "The German-American Staff of Physicians and Surgeons." I have located here permanently, have the most desirable offices and perfect equipment in the finest and largest business block in the whole city, situated on two of the principal streets, and directly opposite the Post Office. I own my printing establishment, box and soap factory, and with the assistance and backing I am now prepared to give, by carefully following the plans, which I shall take pleasure in outlining to you, there is no reason why you or any person with a little "horse sense" and business energy cannot clear from $5,000 to $10,000 a year, or even more. The success of a business enterprise of this character depends almost wholly upon the manner in which it is advertised, and I positively have the finest, most artistic and complete line of advertising matter of any similar house on earth. The next essential is a "headquarters" and the ability to give references, both commercially and from those who will vouch for the efficacy of your remedies. All of this I am abundantly prepared to furnish. When you send a patient to your main offices, or in case one of them should doubt your statement and writes to friends here to investigate, everything is found to be far beyond their expectations, and their report, instead of proving a "knocker," is one of the best advertisements. I am fully aware of the fact that that there are medicine cos who will furnish you with printing, and in some cases their remedies, free of charge, but always with the understanding that they shall receive the drug trade, etc. There are also those who deal exclusively in "slum," which may be all right for one or two day "street corner pitches," and a "quick get away." Such remedies may give satisfaction to the man who would "do" some one for a dollar, in preference to making TWO DOLLARS selling legitimate remedies that not only make friends and increase business, but leaves the town so that he can return to it at any time. By carefully following the "Pointers" which I send with your first order, you CANNOT FAIL to succeed, as every "move" for each day's work, from the opening to the closing of a town, is carefully outlined, so that any person with ordinary intelligence can readily understand just what to do, AND HOW TO DO IT. As soon as you have played a few towns you will find that your percentage will more than pay for your stock and printing, and in many cases cover your entire expenses, leaving your gross receipts a NET profit. I'm not "talking through my hat," but know whereof I speak, and have over two hundred people handling my remedies who will vouch for the correctness of the assertion, and I am positive that I can offer you the STRONGEST, LEGITIMATE, money making proposition of any medicine supply house in America. "The German-American Staff of Physicians and Surgeons" SUCCESSFULLY treat all character of Deformities, Hernia, Fistula, Blood Poison, Cancer and all complicated, deep seated chronic troubles, here at our offices and by mail, and can furnish the names of hundreds of CURED patients in all parts of the United States and Canada, who will vouch for the efficacy of their treatment. Advertise the country thoroughly, look up these cases, send us their names. A cure costs from $25 to $1,000 and YOU get a LIBERAL percentage of all business you send us, directly or indirectly. The "Slum" manufacturers cannot offer you such an opportunity. When you have sold their "cheap remedies" your income ceases right then and there, while with me it has JUST COMMENCED. I am not looking for "angels" upon whom to unload a lot of TRASH. If you purchase a stock of my goods and ANYTHING happens that you are not able to dispose of same send them back, and I will refund your money. If you doubt my honesty and reliability I most respectfully refer you to "the National Bank of Commerce," Faxon, Horton and Gallagher, Kollman Bros., Hunter, Ridge & Bryant, Kansas City; Goes Lithographic Co., Central Printing and Engraving Co., McIntosh Battery and Optical Co., S. S. White Dental Mfg. Co., Truax Green & Co., Murray & Co., Chicago, Ill.; Donaldson Lithographing Co., Cincinnati, O.; Nelson Baker & Co., Detroit, Michigan; F. A. Week & Co., Redington & Co., S. F. Calchum Light Co., Occident Printing Co., San Francisco, Cal.; F. W. Brown & Co., M. Sale & Sons, Los Angeles, Cal.; Potts' Drug Co., Wichita, Kan.; and lots of others if necessary. I have no "strings" on my agents and permit them to sell to anyone, including all retail druggists in their territory. "Lectures" and "Pointers" will be furnished with your first order. A complete line of samples will be supplied absolutely FREE; you pay express charges. All medicines properly stamped, beautifully put up, and at prices LOWER than you pay for "slum." Now be honest with yourself, sit down and think it over. If you are not already engaged in the business that makes no difference, you can HIRE performers and a lecturer. Your success depends solely upon your business ability. Send for Price List and further particulars today.

THE KING OF THEM ALL.

CHAS. K. HARRIS

Who is working when all other Composers are asleep, and who is today without doubt America's mos Popular and Strictly Original Song Writer of the World, and who has yet to write a failure. Just loo at the many so called song hits published this season and observe how the Harris melodies and storie have been plagiarized. But originality always pays in the end. Only one glance over this page of song will convince the most skeptical that Harris is the only real live Composer and Song Publisher this country today, and stands alone without a rival.

CHAS. K. HARRIS' WONDERFUL SONG SUCCESS,

"'Mid the Green Fields of Virginia,"

The reigning hit of two continents. No song, in years, has ever made a more remarkable record in so short a time as has this beautiful descriptive song story. No artist should be without a copy.

CHAS. K. HARRIS' LATEST WALTZ SONG HIT,

"One Night In June."

No song ever conceived by a living composer to equal this most beautiful descriptive waltz so wedded to a grand, pure love story, such as only HARRIS can write. Send for it, and you will not be disappointed.

"Just You and I,"

By GEORGE SCHLEIFFERTH, author of "Doris," "Daughter of Officer Porter," and a hundred other song hits, and C. T. DAZEY, author of the celebrated plays, "In Old Kentucky" and "The War of Wealth." These names are a guarantee that this ballad will be a winner from the jump. Suitable for a lady or gentleman singer.

"Molly, Come Drive the Cows Home,"

By J. A. WALLACE.

The catchiest waltz song and distinct novelty issued this season. Just play this song over once, a the music will never leave you. The world will soon be humming this exquisite song.

CHAS. K. HARRIS' GRAND LOVE BALLAD,

"Without Your Love, Ah, Let Me Die."

This remarkable Love Story will never die, if you sing high class pure ballads try this one, and see the hit you will make.

"My Sweet Eileen."

By CHAS. E. BAER and BYRD DOUGHERTY.

A Ballad Hit that is a Hit. If you can do a Sweet Refined Song justice, sing this Exquisite Love So a[illegible] the hit of your life with it.

HOWARD AND EMERSON'S TWO GREAT COON SONG HITS,

"Ma Baby Girl," Answer to their Famous Song, "HELLO, MA BABY," and "Ma Girl Has Left Me."

THE TWO NEW CATCHY SPONTANEOUS SONG SUCCESSES OF THE SEASON.
EACH SONG A DISTINCT NOVELTY.

"Ma Baby Hannah,"

By JAMES O'DEA and J. RAYMOND HUBBEL,

The top liners of coon song writers. If you want a red hot march time song, this is the one for you. Don't overlook a good thing; it will surprise you.

"When Ephraim Plays a Solo On the Drum,

By JOHN H. KERR.

No need to tell you about this great march time coon song oddity. The title tells the story. The mu will prove a revelation to you. This song may make your act. Look it over.

"Mammy's Little Alligator Bait,"

By WISE and PERRIN.

The sweetest and cleanest, and cleverest darkey lullaby these popular composers have ever written.

"The Honolulu Dance,"

By MAX HOFFMAN

The quaintest, oddest, cutest coon song novelty ever issued. The title tells the story. Arranged in r time by MAX HOFFMAN, the Leader of the Olympic Theatre, Chicago, Ill.
